UP-TO-DATE

NEWS OF SPORTING WORLD, WITH EXPERT COMMENT

R. Edgren's COLUMN

TO-NIGHT we will know who's who—that is, who's the real lightweight champion of all the world's fist fighters. This important matter is exciting even more discussion and interest in the United States than President Roosevelt's floating hardware show this afternoon at Oyster Bay. This lightweight championship battle will settle once and for all, until some new champion appears, whether the darkey or the Dane is the superior attraction for future vaudeville dates.

Gans's attitude during the preliminary skirmishing has won him friends. He has been reasonably quiet, while Nolan, Nelson's manager, has fussed and fought for every possible advantage since the match was made. Gans, apparently afraid of losing his chance to fight Nelson, has given in to everything. Even Nolan's demand that Gans weigh in, at the ringside, 131 pounds in full fighting toggery, trunks, shoes—even gloves—was finally forced on Gans.

And there was absolutely no precedent for such a thing. Fighters always have weighed in without their paraphernalia. For if the fight is to be on the level, is one of two things. Either Nolan is afraid of Gans, and wants to force him down to a weight that will weaken him, or he has just followed up his usual scheme of trying to keep Bat's rival worrying. If the fight is fixed it is merely a stall designed to make people regard Nelson as very much in earnest, and to give Gans a chance to say afterward that he was all in at that weight. Frank Erne didn't lose all his prestige when he trained down to nothing and was whipped by featherweight Terry McGovern.

Nolan's other scheme, by which Nelson gets two-thirds of the $30,000 purse even if he loses, may be good business—but it's poor sport.

TAKING the fight to be on the level, Gans ought to win without any trouble unless the weight kills him off. This is a finish fight. Gans, to weigh 133 in his togs, will have to be 131 1-2 stripped. He may have to work this morning to keep down, which would take away a lot of stamina. But if he is not weakened he outclasses the wiry Dane. He has everything that Nelson has not, and he has everything that Nelson has except his unlimited gameness in an uphill fight.

The only thing against betting on Gans in this fight is his habit of faking. In spite of denials it is a fact that Herford still manages Gans. The wires are concealed, but he pulls them just the same. Herford has put Gans through some of the most notorious fakes on record. Although Joseph says he has become pure in spirit and that he'll never fake again, nobody knows whether to believe him or not. As a sport said to me yesterday: "Nelson looks good for a bet. You have two chances—one that he wins on the level and one that Gans lies down." The idea that Gans would be afraid to fake in Goldfield is a joke. He is clever enough to fool the practiced eyes of Eastern sight fans, who know as much about the game as any Nevada miner or cowpuncher.

QUERIES ANSWERED BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Supposing the New York and Chicago baseball teams have the same per cent. in games won and lost, and both played the same number of games at the end of the season when the series are to be played with the winners of the American League, T. F. M. bets that the New York team would be the team to play the American League champions, as they are the "champions of the World" and winners of the National League last year, and therefore would have the preference over Chicago in playing the series, while J. F. M. says that neither team would have the right to play until a series of games are played to decide the championship of the National League, then the winners have the right to play the American League champions. T. F. M. says that when the season is ended there can be no more games played. J. F. M. says that they would be compelled to play in order to decide the winners of the National League pennant.

J. F. M.

J. F. M. is right. There is no rule covering the possibility of the season ending in a tie.

A batter being hit with a pitched ball is ordered to go to first base by the umpire. Is he compelled to go or can he remain at bat in defiance of an umpire's order. C. H.

No. 9 Maiden Lane.

He must do as umpire orders.

A bets B that Hans Wagner can play any position in the game. A bets B that he is the best all-around player in the National League. By answering you will oblige a constant reader of your column. A. K.

State street.

Wagner is a good ball player, but we do not consider him the best all-around man.

Am eighteen years old, 5 feet tall and weigh 130 pounds. Have been around horses eight years. Am I all right for a jockey? D.

You are not light enough.

Kindly let me know through the columns of your paper if Pitcher Fraser, now with the Reds, is a tall man. A friend of mine asserts he is a small man. I saw him pitch lately, and he looks to me as a big fellow, in the style of Reulbach. If possible tell his approximate height. D.

Fraser is about 5 feet 8½ inches.

What man in either league is the best all-round player? Is it Isbell, of the Chicago Americans, or Bresnahan, of the Giants? Was Isbell ever a pitcher? Was Bresnahan? How many times has Keeler struck out?

DICK SMITH.

Bresnahan best in National, Isbell in the American. Isbell was a pitcher, so was Bresnahan. Keeler has struck out twice this year.

Baseball To-day. Two games. First game called 2 P. M. American League Park.

NEW YORKERS WIN RACES ON THE POTOMAC

Nassau Crew Takes Senior Quadruple Skulls in Middle States Regatta.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The Middle States regatta, one of the leading aquatic events of the season, was held here to-day on the Potomac River. The number of entries was the largest of any similar affair held in this city in recent years. Some of the best known Eastern oarsmen competed for the honors. There were seventeen events, and the races were rowed over a straightaway course. Long before the first race was started the shores of the river in the vicinity of Aqueduct bridge were lined with spectators, their numbers being largely increased later in the day.

For the first time in the history of rowing on the Potomac, the Federal authorities, under a recent act of Congress, had charge of the course, the revenue cutter Apache and two launches having been designated by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to maintain a proper patrol. In this work the Government officers were ably assisted by the local police boat. The torpedo-boat Talbot, which was ordered here especially for the occasion, was utilized by the referee starter and other race officials.

Commodore James W. Pilkington, of the Harlem River Association, and President of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, was referee, while President John G. Regan, of the Metropolitan of New York, was starter.

The following were represented in the various events:

Arionels and Arielle of Baltimore; Crescents, Maltas, Montrose, West Philadelphia, Fairmounts, Pennsylvania Barge Club, Vespers, Undines and Bachelors, of Philadelphia; Staten Islands, Shewshead Bay, Palisades, of Yonkers; Ravenswood, of Long Island; Scawahaltas, of Brooklyn; Ottawas, of Canada; Old Dominions, of Alexandria, Virginias, of Richmond; Wachusetts, of Worcester; Boston Athletics, and the First Bohemians, Atalantas, Friendship, Wyanokes, Metropolitans, Nassaus, New York Athletics, and Union, of New York.

Summaries:

Senior Single—J. H. Preas, West Philadelphia Boat Club, first; H. L. Smith, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, second; dead heat between Dr. E. L. Kanega, Penn Barge Club, and H. P. Conard, Bachelor Barge Club, for third place. Time—6.51.

GIDEON WILL NOT RETIRE FROM TURF

Dave Gideon has not the slightest intention of giving up racing, as has been reported. "I have been on the turf thirty years, and I couldn't keep away if I wanted to," is the way Davy put it.

He did not go to Saratoga because he needed a rest, but will be very active during the present fall season.

"It is hard work trying to win with a stable of bad horses, and that is what I have been doing this year.

"I guess you have winnings," he continued. "The game is discouraging. I have had my share of losses. Three futurity winners have been sent to the rest out of my stable. But getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning to look after a stable of horses which at present does not contain good material is more than I care to do now."

Police Have Weekly Exercise.

As religiously as Sunday comes Police Capt. Tracy, of the Seventy-fifth Precinct, makes raids on Celtic Park, in Long Island City, where admission is charged to athletic games. Yesterday Detectives McDonald and Wooly arrested Richard McDonough, the ticket-seller, and an athlete, who gave his name as James Brady, twenty-two years old, a clerk, of No. 160 East Sixtieth street, Manhattan.

BASEBALL—Polo Grounds to-day. Two games. First game called at 2 P. M. Giants.

O'BRIEN HOME; WON FOUR FIGHTS ON TRIP

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, the clever heavy-weight pugilist who went to England a short time ago, where he knocked out Ted Beachman, an English fighter, in two rounds, is home again. He arrived here Saturday night on the steamship Umbria.

During the journey over O'Brien gave an exhibition of his prowess by putting to sleep three firemen on the ship who claimed they could box a bit and would not mind taking a chance at the Yankee pugilist. The bouts came off last Tuesday. O'Brien put his first man down for good in the second round, his next opponent in one round and his third man in the third round.

O'Brien is stopping at Atlantic City at present. He is a great admirer of Nelson in to-day's big mill and seems to think that the Dane will score a clean knockout.

He further states that his next battle will be with Bill Squires, the Australian heavy-weight champion.

OISEAU MAY BE CRIPPLE FOR LIFE

Oiseau, the unlucky colt which had such a brilliant season as a three-year-old last year, and for which Diamond Jim Brady paid a large sum of money, may never face the starter again. He is suffering from a lameness which may prevent him from ever training again. Oiseau was engaged for all the big handicaps of the past spring, but on account of sickness and lameness he was prevented from training.

At Saratoga he was started in an overnight race to fit him for the Great Republic Stakes. As he struck himself during the race and pulled up lame he was withdrawn from the Great Republic and sent to Gravesend. Since he has been at that track Trainer Matt Allen has discovered that he has gone lame in the shoulder and is hardly able to walk. He has been declared out of the Twin City Handicap to-day, the $20,000 Century Stakes on Saturday and the $25,000 Annual Champion on the closing day of the meeting.
