CORSETS NOW WORN BY TOMS OF DIRE WAR

INSIDE SECRETS OF TRENCH RAIDS ON THE WESTERN FRONT

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, Headquarters, France, June 1.—Between the battles, and German modern submarine warfare wherein every man was supposed to have become a lone wolf without initiative of his own, has been developing perhaps the deadliest form of scout maraudings that can conceive—where, every combatant places his cunning, his strength and his skill in hand-to-hand against those of his adversary.

Hardly a day passes that there is not a treacherous "raid" by one side or the other and sometimes several such sallies. No subject is more tabooed in its details by the censor. Commanders do not want to let the enemy know why their raids succeed or fail or why the enemy's succeed or fail, invention fights invention; secrecy fights secrecy.

All the elements of boxing, wrestling, fencing and mob tactics plus the stealth of the Indian who crept up on a camp on the plains and the team work of a professional band all nine are valuable to the player.

The weapon that is least needed is a rifle. A club or a sandbag or an Indian battle axe or school club is better. A good slugger without any weapon at all may take an adversary's loaded rifle away from him and knock him down and then kick him to death.

How Soldiers Make Raids.

The monotony of trench existence these days is broken by preparing for raids and against them. Battalion commanders work out schemes of strategy which would have won them fame in smaller wars. Fifty men or a thousand may be engaged in a raid. It may be on a front of fifty yards or a thousand. Its object is to take as many prisoners and kill and wound as many of the enemy as possible in a few minutes; and then get back into their own trench. The assailters try to hold on to the piece of trench they have taken, the guns are turned on them, the bombers close in on either side, and machine guns and rifles are prepared to sweep the zone of retirement.

An uncanny curiosity gives the soldiers incentive for the raids. Ordinarily they never see their enemy hidden in his burrow across "No Man's Land" from their own burrows. Unseen bullets from unseen sniper crack overhead. Hose in guns suddenly concentrate in a deluge of shells. For months this sort of thing goes on and the trenches of the adversaries remain always in the same place; the even monotony of casualties and watching continues. This arouses the desire to "get at" the enemy which the trench raid satisfies. It means scrambling over the parapet and rushing across "No Man's Land" into the very houses of the enemy and man to map on his knife and stocking which is a better finder.

Over the Parapet is Death.

To go over the parapet ordinarily means death. In order to make such raids there must be "interference" as they say in football, and the barbed wire in front of the enemy's trench must be cut. This is usually done by the guns which become more and more deadly in their ability to turn accurate sprays of destruction on given points. They cover the rush and they cover the return of the raiders with their prisoners.

But the guns are not all; there is all kinds of organized trickery in order to enable a body of soldiers to get into the enemy's trenches for a few minutes of activity, when the occupants throw themselves on their invaders at such close quarters that it is a question if even a revolver is now a practical weapon. It cannot be thrown over a traverse and a bomb can. Running into a German around the corner of a traverse a blow may be better than a shot.

There have been trench raids every man who went out was responsible for a casualty or prisoner while the raiders own loss might not have been one in ten to the enemy's. There are also failures. Success requires that every detail should work out right. The British inaugurated trench raiding which the Germans promptly adopted. Where its development will end no one dares venture to say.

One advantage of any raid is that those who return are bound to bring back some information of value to the intelligence corps.

Wear Steel Corsets.

Officers in the trenches as well as in other military units usually wear steel corsets as a protection against bullets.

"Some one for the Lord's plate said an officer who had been disabled over by a small fragment which hit him in the abdomen. Imagine on a flow of blood enhancing his illness all that was visible through the rent in the cloth was an abrasion on a steel surface.

"But for your new corset you would have been dead by now," the surgeon told him.

Early in the war an officer who wore protection of this kind would have been frowned on by his fellows as unsoldierly.

The corselet is some time no protection against bullets unless the latter are spent. Such is their power of penetration that they go through the thin steel, "mushrooming" and making a larger wound than if nothing had been in their way.

The use of the corselet is limited virtually to officers who pay for them out of their own pockets.

HUGHES IS FAVORED BY NEW YORK MEN

New York, June 1.—A majority of the New York delegation to the Republican national convention favor the nomination of Charles Hughes for president, according to a statement given out today by Frederick C. Tanner, chairman of the Republican state committee and a delegate at large. This is notwithstanding the stand received for Senator Root's entry into the race, and it is quite of Senator Root's friends to take any part in the contest, Chairman Tanner said.

A letter signed by William Barnes, a Republican national committeeman, and made public here today, announced there would be a meeting in Chairman of the New York state delegation to the Republican national convention, Tuesday evening, June 6, for the purpose of organizing and the transaction of such business as may come before the meeting. The letter was sent to every state delegate.

Some politicians interpreted the letter as a call "for a count of noses" of Roosevelt, Hughes and Root favorites in view of reported threats by delegates from all three camps to introduce resolutions at the first meeting looking to that end.

WILL SPEND MILLION ON ROAD TO DENVER

Officers of the Union Pacific system have just agreed on an expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 for improving the Kansas City-Denver line. There has been much work on this road for several years and when that which has just been authorized is finished the line will be on a par with the Omaha-Ogden route of the Union Pacific.

One of the items just authorized is the ballasting with Sherman granite of the line between Oakley and Ellis, seventy-four miles. This will complete the ballasting of the line between Kansas City and Limon, Colo., 530 miles. This will cost about $500,000. The entire system from Kansas City to the Colorado terminus will be ballasted with 90-pound steel. This will cost about $260,000. There will be new steel bridges put in costing $175,000.

Electrical block signals will be installed between Salina and Ellis at an estimated cost of $175,000. This will complete the electrical block signals between Kansas City and Ellis, about 365 miles.

This is one of the biggest expenditures made by any western road this season and the work is to be pushed as fast as men and money will do it.

CIGARET CASE SAVES THIS MAN'S LIFE

Boston, Mass., June 1.—Fred McDuffee of Shirley street, Winthrop, told the Chelsea police a story that sounds like the European war.

"I was driving my car down Central avenue, Chelsea," he said, "and I passed two boys shooting at a tin can with a revolver. I felt a blow on my chest, but thought no more of it for the moment.

"But when I had put up the car I reached in my breast pocket for a cigaret—and found a bullet embedded in my silver cigaret case."

So the police started out to hunt for the boys.
