SHOPLIFTERS ORGANIZED IN REGULAR GANGS

Lawyer Tells Court They Have Association to Protect Interests.

Louis Loewenstein, of Loewenstein, Wentworth & Stone, counsel to all the department stores of Manhattan in the prosecution of shoplifters, opposed the adjournment of the trial of a shoplifter in the Court of Special Sessions to-day and revealed a startling situation in the shoplifting "trade." Seven previous cases had been adjourned, there being no opposition. Mr. Loewenstein, opposing the eighth adjournment, said:

"Because of the failure of the courts to try this class of cases during the summer months under the practice of trying only prison cases, shoplifting is on the increase in this city. The records show that fifty shoplifting cases are pending trial. When a shoplifter is arrested, arraigned before a magistrate and held in trial by this court bail is promptly furnished and the prisoner liberated.

"The repetition of this situation led to an investigation and our detectives discovered that there are at least three organized gangs of shoplifters in New York. One is composed of light-fingered Syrians, another is an Italian gang, and the third is that to which this prisoner, Frank Levy, a Spanish Hebrew, belongs. Each gang is composed of both men and women. Goods are stolen by one and secreted on the person of another. These gangs are organized on business principles. They use a sinking fund out of which bail is furnished and counsel retained and paid.

"The failure to try these cases and punish the guilty all summer long means no publication of the facts in the newspapers, with its deterrent effect upon others, and hence the increase of this class of crime."

Justices McCoy, Olmsted and McKeon ordered Levy to trial, whereupon he promptly pleaded guilty to stealing a box of nine pairs of gloves at a department store on Sept. 12. He was sentenced to three months in the penitentiary.

"I'M NOT MARRIED," WIRES HAL CHASE

Ball Player Denies Story Told by Former Fiance of Miss Hefferman.

The announcement to-day by the young lady's parents of the engagement of Miss Nellie Hefferman, of No. 14 West Tenth street, Bayonne, to "Hal" Chase, the handsome young first baseman of the New York Baseball Club of the American League, led to the declaration by one man that Chase had already married and has been since last April.

"Why, I was engaged to marry Miss Hefferman until last April," said Joseph McGrath, manager of the Frankford Baseball Association of Jersey City, to-day; "but when she told me she was already married to Chase I asked him, and when he corroborated the story I retired respectfully and have since known the young lady as Mrs. Chase."

Not Wed, Says Chase.

The Evening World sent a telegram to Hal Chase, who is playing with the Highlanders in St. Louis, asking him if he was married. This is his reply:

"Editor Evening World:

"I am not married. Will let you know when I am. HAL CHASE."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hefferman, in their announcement, say the wedding will be consummated at their home in Bayonne next April. McGrath says it was celebrated last April in Stamford, Conn., and that Chase has already purchased a home for his bride at No. 239 Race street, San Jose, Cal., and that as soon as this season ends, in less than a month, he intends to take her there.

"My baseball team was to play an exhibition game against the Baysides, of Bayonne, in May, 1906," said McGrath to-day, "and one of the big leaguers I employed for that occasion was 'Hal' Chase. When he came over to Bayonne he was accompanied by Yeager, the utility man of the Highlanders, and Hogg, the pitcher.

"I introduced the three to Miss Hefferman, who was a 'fan,' and with whom I had been keeping company. While Chase played in the game Yeager and Hogg sat in the grand stand with Miss Hefferman. After the game she again met Chase, and the two went away for dinner. After that Miss Hefferman was a regular attendant at the Highlanders' games in Manhattan.

Says Other Players Knew.

"I always thought I was going to marry the young lady until last April. One day at a game I saw a wedding ring on her finger. I asked her about it and she told me she and 'Hal' had been married a few days before in Stamford, Conn., but that her folks did not know anything about it.

"I did not believe her, and I hunted up Chase and asked him. He said it was true, and I said 'All right' and the young woman has had only the greatest respect from me as the wife of a great baseball player and a mighty decent fellow.

"The last time I saw 'Hal' he told me he had purchased a nice home at No. 239 Race street, San Jose, Cal., and that when the season closed he was going to take his wife out there. You know 'Hal' was born and raised in San Jose and his folks live there. He certainly has the finest girl in New Jersey for a wife, and she has the best first baseman in the business for a husband."

DE KOVEN ASKS FOR MISSOURI ORDER.

Reginald De Koven, the composer, owner of the Lyric Theatre, to-day applied to Chief Justice O'Dwyer, of the City Court, for an order directing Florenz Ziegfeld, husband and manager of Anna Held, to allow De Koven to inspect a paper purporting to be a release from the latter to Ziegfeld.

De Koven had sued Ziegfeld for $1,200 for royalties due him, he said, for the production of "The Red Feather," one of De Koven's operas.

Ziegfeld set up as a defence that De Koven had given him a written release. De Koven said he knew nothing about any such release.

The application was opposed by Samuel D. Lasky, counsel for Mr. Ziegfeld. Decision was reserved.

STOCKS GAIN, WITH THE TRADING BRISK

Reading and Amalgamated Continue as the Market Features.

Opening prices of stocks to-day showed mixed changes with gains predominating and trading very active. Reading was the feature with opening sales of 3,500 shares at 152 1-4 and 152 1-2, compared with 150 7-8 last night. The price ran off sharply on subsequent dealings.

Amalgamated Copper was also very active at a rise of 3-4. Anaconda gained 2 1-2. Distillers' Securities and Central Leather preferred, 1 1-4; Erie, 1 1-8, and Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and Locomotive a point. There were large fractional gains in Northern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Pressed Steel Car. Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault St. Marie fell 3 and General Electric 2.

The market held its strength in later dealings.

In the afternoon after the general list had run off below last night the demand for Reading was revived and the stock touched 153 3-4, its top price. Reading second preferred also became active and moved up 4 1-4 to 100 1-4. Brooklyn Rapid Transit and North American gained 1 1-2 and Colorado Fuel 1 1-8. There was very little doing in the standard railroad stocks, and they rallied but feebly.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 1,467,000 shares and of bonds $200,000.

LIGHTNING CURES RHEUMATISM

DELAWARE CITY, Del., Sept. 18.—Charles Pancoast, a leading citizen of this place, and who had been so ill with rheumatism for some time that he was unable to leave his home, was one of a party of five stunned by lightning from a clear sky while sitting on the porch of his home. His condition was so improved that to-day he went to Wilmington to sit with the Grand Jury, of which he is a member.

WOMAN TRAPS GANG OF YOUNG THIEVES

Her Own Purse Stolen, She Finally Catches Them Picking Other Pockets.

While out shopping from the push-carts on Mulberry street last Friday Mrs. Constantia Revetti, of No. 121 Mulberry street, had her pocket picked and her purse, containing $100 and some cheap jewelry done up in a handkerchief, stolen.

Mrs. Revetti decided to keep watch on a gang of six boys she observed always together up and down Mulberry street, but not playing with the other Italian boys.

Yesterday her patience was rewarded, for while trailing this gang of boys, she saw two of them ostensibly playing tag bump into Mrs. Michelina Steffano, of No. 161 Mott street. One of the boys, who afterwards confessed, she saw put his hand into a pocket in the woman's apron, and pull out a pocket-book. This was passed rapidly to a second boy. Mrs. Revetti grabbed the two culprits until the arrival of Patrolman Howe of the Elizabeth street station. Through Mrs. Revetti's identifications, the police of the Elizabeth street station were able to arrest the whole gang of boys during the afternoon and evening.

When arraigned in the Children's Court this morning before Justice Deuel they gave the names of Antonio Bruno, fourteen, No. 178 Canal street; Frank Guarano, fifteen, No. 181 Mulberry street; Frank Varel, No. 63 Mott street; John Frigliolo, fourteen, No. 115 Mott street; Frank Fantoli, fifteen, No. 111 Mott street, and Frank Nicce, fourteen, who refused to give his address. Bruno and Guarano confessed and were committed to the Children's Society. The other four boys were held for further examination.

Magistrate Deuel complimented Mrs. Revetti highly on her patience in tracking the boys.

SHOT TWICE ON STREET.

Colo Romonelli, a saloonkeeper living at No. 361 Nevins street, while standing near No. 458 Carroll street, Brooklyn, early to-day, was shot in the breast and shoulder. Romanelli says he has no idea who shot him or why he was shot. He was removed to the Seney Hospital.

DEPEW DROPPED FROM BALLOT.

For the first time in many years, the name of Senator Chauncey M. Depew is not on the Republican primary ballot to be voted for to-day in the Twenty-ninth Assembly District. The Senator resides in the district.

What's Your Choice in The New Fall Waist Styles?

WHATEVER your taste may demand, it's here. Do you like the beauties of simplicity? Here are waists in lawn and poplin that exemplify them. Do you like the rich, striking, elaborate effects? Here they are. Or do you prefer the happy medium—the designs that are neither severely simple nor conspicuously elaborate—the new, dainty, not-like-everybody's waists? Well, there are probably five hundred designs like that here.

Can't begin to describe even a hundredth part—this is the largest collection of waists in New York City. But here's a hint of three new ideas:

Women's White Lawn Waists—clever, new Fall models; three styles from which to select; open front; all have the new sleeves and cuffs; one designed with entire front of cluster pin tuckings and hemstitching; the other has front of all-over embroidery and side plaits; the third is designed with insertions of lace embroidery and graduated French tucks. Exceptional value at 85c

Women's White Mercerized Poplin Waists—two new and effective models; one button back, the other button front; made of fine quality white poplin; designed with embroidered panels and Maltese lace insertions. Remarkable value at $1

Women's Silk-Finished Brilliantine Waists—in black, white, navy and brown; a smart tailored model; button front; entire front designed with clusters of pin tucks and side plaits; new sleeves, finished with tucked cuffs; stock collar has silk turnover. Exceptional value at $1.95

Can You See This Coat Without a Picture to Help?

JUST as this advertisement is going to press, news comes of the arrival of fifty more of a certain style of coat that made a little sensation all by itself a week ago, when it was first shown. The fifty we had then lasted just one day and we have been taking orders for the style ever since.

No time to have a picture drawn—try if you can see the coat from this description:

The material is a tweed woven in the true "shadow plaid." Color, choice of light, pearl gray and a dark gray. At neck and cuffs and around the side pockets are deft little touches of contrasting velvet—black for the dark gray, gun-metal for the light gray; immensely effective. The buttons are of metal in the same sharply-contrasting colors.

The style is a circular-back, 50-inch Tourist. The circular back is not often seen in coats at this price. Coat has also inverted plaits at sides, which, with the circular back make a roomy, full coat, yet one which "hangs" gracefully. The price is attractive as the style $10.75

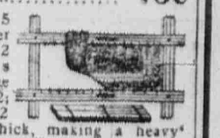
Curtain Stretchers

Curtain Stretcher—6 by 12 feet; stationary pins, 2 inches apart; measuring rules printed on the frame, by which the stretcher can be fitted to any size curtain. This stretcher can be used for the finest curtains and is so constructed that it cannot sag 65c

The No. 2 Curtain Stretcher is similar in construction to the above; size 7 by 14 feet; special at 75c

The No. 5 Stretcher has pins 2 inches apart; size 6 by 12; has rails 2 inches thick, making a heavy solid frame. The rails are joined with heavy strips of steel. The advantage of this stretcher over other makes is a center bar and measuring rules; can be used for portieres, quilts and the finest curtains; special at $1.25



The No. 8 is 7 to 14 pins 1 inch apart, measuring rule; pins are close enough together for any curtain scallops to fit over; special at $1.25

In addition to the above curtain stretchers we carry the Gilray, from $1.50 to $2.50; the Champion, from $3.50 to $4.25; the Wagner, at $2.25 and the Dewey, at $1.95
