MARINO BURIED WITH POMP IN $2,000 CASKET

Fifteen Secret Orders Unite to Give Member Costly Funeral.

To have a costly funeral was always the ambition of Girardo Marino, a wealthy and popular real estate dealer, of No. 56 Oak street. When he died suddenly Sunday his family, friends, and the members of the fifteen secret orders to which he belonged decided to gratify his wish.

The result was a funeral to-day on the lower east side which cost $5,269.

Marino was forty years old, leaves a wife and seven children. He was one of the most popular Italian residents of Manhattan. He came to America twenty years ago, and was a leader among men of his nation. Prosperous from the start, in the course of time he boasted a membership in fifteen Italian secret orders. He was the adviser of thousans of Italians, and his home was always open to the poor and destitute.

"He shall have the greatest funeral ever known on the east side," declared the members of the societies to which he belonged. And he did.

Thousands viewed the body to-day and yesterday. It rested in a room banked with fifty floral emblems and containing over 12,000 roses besides the other flowers used. The casket cost $2,000 and was made of mahogany and rosewood, trimmed in silver and covered with lavender silk and satin.

The funeral was held to-day from St. James's Church, at James street and New Bowery, the Rev. Father Curry officiating. The march was started from the residence to the church, on the shoulders of eighteen men. The family, friends and members of secret orders followed in 125 coaches.

The church was decorated in flowers and was crowded to overflowing. The streets along the line of march were jammed. The hearse was drawn by ten black horses draped in white, and fifteen brass bands were interspersed in the procession. The burial was at Calvary, where an imposing monument will be erected by the fifteen secret societies.

LEITER'S COLLIERY IS ABLAZE INSIDE

Big Mine at Duquoin May Have to Be Flooded to Subdue Flames.

(Special to The Evening World.)

DUQUOIN, Ill., Sept. 25.—The interior of the monster Zeigler colliery of Joseph Leiter is ablaze to-day, and all operations have been suspended. Large heaps of slack within the mine have become ignited, presumably by spontaneous combustion, and volumes of smoke are issuing from the mouth of the mine. Huge forge fans at the mine are being used to force out the smoke and gases.

It will be several days before the flames are under control, and flooding the mine may be resorted to to quench the fire.

The Zeigler colliery is famous because of the way Joseph Leiter has fortified it with a stockade, block house and gatling guns to prevent attacks by union miners.

Over a year and a half ago an explosion in the mine resulted in the death of sixty men. Leiter was indicted on a charge of criminal negligence. The State mine inspectors made an examination after the explosion and charged that they found the entire mine filled with gas, the fans worthless or inadequate, the air chambers obstructed and powder left about carelessly. The case against Leiter failed, his attorneys demonstrating the criminal negligence was all on the part of the State mine inspectors, who tried to shift their responsibility on the shoulders of the mine owner.

ELEVATOR FLOOR GIVES WAY

Colored Porter Falls Through and Is Instantly Killed.

Sammy Jennett, colored, address unknown, employed as a porter by John Jungmann, a drug firm, at No. 1026 Third avenue, was riding on the elevator to-day when the flooring gave way. Jennett fell through to the bottom of the shaft, a drop of two stories and was instantly killed.

ROCKEFELLER USES REAL BABY TALK

Great Nurse of Infant Industries Tries Art on Bawling Youngster on Train.

Rocky'll buy baby nice spinning tops,
Any old thing if baby but stops.
When the storm breaks the system will fall,
Down will go prices, baby don't bawl.
—Rockefeller Lullabies.

Wall street persons to-day are asking "where did John D. learn to talk baby talk in soothing infants?" This is the result of the oil king's wonderful performance when he quieted a crying baby who was travelling with its mother on the Delaware and Ulster Railroad. The answer is very simple:

He learned it through long experience nursing infant industries. When John D. and his athletic body-guard changed from the West Shore to the D. and U. yesterday afternoon and participated in a baby-quieting fest the financier brought into play all the wonderful abilities he showed back in those years when he was so poor, but yet so happy—when he nursed Standard Oil from a sickly, unloved infant into the fattest and most flourishing giant the century had seen.

Was Travelling Incog.

Mr. Rockefeller was travelling incognito, which some people might believe to be the name of a Pullman private car, but it was just a stuffy, smoky coach on the D. and U. Opposite him sat a wan and thin young mother with a fretful child. The child emitted a succession of yells. Several grouches got up and plunged into the smoking car. The rest glared. All but the smooth-faced old party incognito, and also in a sack suit that wrinkled around the neck. He knew what it meant to have everybody glaring at him with unkind feelings in the heart. That's why he didn't do any grouching.

What did he do?

Occasionally he has been pictured as taking the loaf from the starving child's mouth. He didn't do it. Possibly because the child had no loaf. Nothing but yells. Did he rise in his might and lash the child to the track or grind it beneath the keel of the trust? Nay, reader, nay. His action has become history.

There is an affinity between bald heads. He moved over into bald-headed row and picked up the milk bottle the mother had dropped. If they had known it was the octopus they might have expected to see him take it on the run with the bottle. But the passengers only saw a mild old gentleman sit down and give imitations of beasts and birds of the forest to amuse the baby.

"Don't c'y, baby. Nice icky, bitsy baby," he said, patting the infant's cheek. "Mommer get um nice icky wig like mne."

Noise Like a Rebate.

After which he probably did a little parlor car magic, producing a roll of money from empty air, a trick others have wondered at and which Mr. Rockefeller has to perfection. He shook the roll under the boy's nose, whereupon the child sat up and took notice. If he used his old infant industry nursing tactics he probably made a noise like a rebate, which always makes the I. I. I. smile.

When John D. left the train at Twilight Park the baby-quieter was greeted by S. C. T. Dodd, former general solicitor of Standard Oil, but now chief personal counsel for the oil king. Several one-horse brokers and financiers who had been on the car growling at the baby were at the windows with their eyes hanging out like doorknobs, when they heard Dodd greet his boss. Then they realized the significant croon to which the baby had fallen asleep:

Bye, baby, bye low,
Sell high, oh, sell, oh!
Don't cry, don't cry, oh,
Don't yell, don't yell, oh!

HAD CASH TO PLAY, WAS ABLE TO PAY

So Thought Banker in Poker Game; Collected Old Debt When Levy "Cashed In."

"If a man owes me money, Your Honor, and I catch him in a poker game where I'm the banker it's time to collect."

This was the defense offered by Jacob Hess, of No. 27 Beekman place, to-day when arraigned in Yorkville Court, charged by Simon Levy, of No. 16 Beekman place, with defrauding him of $5.

Every Sunday the men, with three others, have a quiet little game of 10-cent limit, "five straddle to call fifteen" on unusual occasions. The play last Sunday, they said, was at No. 969 Second avenue, in the back room of a barber shop.

Hess was the banker. Levy bought in a stack of whites at $2, followed with another, and as the game was about to come to a close he dolefully called for a dollar's worth.

When the session finished Levy had got even as his chips showed. He passed them over to the banker. Hess threw the chips into a cigar box, placed the $5 cash in his pocket and gave to Levy only a smile. The latter got tired of trying to collect and he caused Hess's arrest. In court Hess said Levy was indebted to him to the extent of $8.50 from a previous game.

"You'll have to settle it between yourselves," said Magistrate Whitman. "The court can't collect poker debts of this sort."

STOCK LEADERS CUT IN SLOW TRADING

Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Pacifics and Louisville and Nashville in Decline.

Prices were very irregular in the opening dealings of stocks in the market to-day. Brooklyn Transit was carried down 2 points, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific and Atchison and Louisville & Nashville 3.

Canadian Pacific advanced 1 5-8 and Great Northern preferred a large fraction. Pullman sold at a gain of 3 and Anaconda 2 points.

Slight gains were made later, but the list was still mixed. Trading was slow.

A successful drive was made against the list later, and the market went back to near the opening figures.

The general tone at noon was heavy, in spite of advances in a few stock. Canadian Pacific rose 3 3-8, Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic preferred 3, Pacific Coast 3 1-8, Knickerbocker Ice 4, and Pullman 5. The selling pressure forced Union Pacific and Reading 1 1-2 under yesterday, and St. Paul, Atchison and Interborough-Metropolitan 1. Manhattan fell 1 1-8 and American Express 3 3-4.

Speculation became more active in the afternoon at the expense of prices. Brooklyn Rapid Transit falling 2 3-4, Reading 2 1-8, Northern Pacific 1 3-4, Atchison and Missouri Pacific 1 5-8 and Baltimore & Ohio, Kansas & Texas preferred and National Lead 1. There was a temporary rally lead by the Copper stock which did not hold.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 1,131,700 shares and of bonds $2,380,000.

"DEAD NOBLEMAN" WAS A SHOEMAKER.

The mystery surrounding the identity of Adolpi Zicherman, an old Hungarian, who died in an east side cafe while sipping on a glass of wine, was cleared to-day by the appearance at the Union Market police station of his wife and children. Zicherman was a shoemaker.

Eight years ago he came to New York from Buda Pesth, Austria, and opened a shoe repairing shop in East Third street. Five years later he sent for his wife and family. Three years later he separated from his wife, who has since been supported by her eldest offspring.

"My husband never claimed to be of noble birth, as reported," said Mrs. Zicherman to an Evening World reporter to-day. "He never owned a silk hat. He was a good shoemaker, but a poor husband."

The Zichermans are in poor circumstances, and the wife said that she would have to let the county bury the body of the shoemaker.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON STORM FEARS.

The local cotton market opened steady this morning 4 to 6 points higher. The traders displayed considerable nervousness over the Gulf storm. There was some selling of October that looked like an attempt to restrain the upturn, but the demand from other sources swung the list upward.

The opening prices were: October, 8.73 to 8.74; November, 8.88 bid; December, 9.08 to 9.09; January, 9.16 to 9.17; February, 9.26 to 9.28; March, 9.34 to 9.35; April, 9.41 offered; May, 9.45 to 9.46; July, 9.50 bid.

The closing prices were: September, 8.77 to 8.78; October, 8.7 to 8.74; November, 8.92 to 8.93; December, 9.09 to 9.10; January, 9.17 to 9.18; February, 9.24 to 9.26; March, 9.32 to 9.33; April, 9.38 to 9.37; May, 9.43 to 9.44; June, 9.45 to 9.47; July, 9.48 to 9.50.

WHEAT HIGHER WHILE CORN PRICES DECLINE.

Wheat was steady and fractionally higher in the market early to-day. The bullish factors included good cables. Corn declined on easy cables and good weather. New York's opening prices were: Wheat—December, 83 1-8 to 83 1-4.

Chicago's opening prices were: Wheat—December, 75 1-4 to 75 3-8; May, 79 1-4 to 79 3-8 to 79 1-2; September, 73 1-8. Corn—May, 43 5-8; September 43 3-4; December, 42 3-8; October, 40 1-2.

New York's closing prices were: Wheat—May, 85 offered; September, 79 7-8; December, 82 3-4 bid. Corn—May, 50 1-8 bid; January, 49 1-2; September, 50 3-4; December, 52 1-4 bid.

Chicago's closing prices were: Wheat—September, 72 7-8; December, 75 1-8 to 75 1-4. Corn—September, 47 1-2 offered; October, 46 1-2; December, 48 bid; May, 48 5-8 to 48 3-4.

ASSASSINS FIRE ON MAN AND WIFE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 25.—An aftermath of the execution of Marie Spiridnova, the assassin of Luchenoffsky, chief of the secret police, was the attempt in her native town of Borrissoglebsk to kill Chief of Police Tomushan and his wife, while they were out walking under escort of two guards.

The Terrorists fired from ambush, wounding the Prefect seriously. His wife and the guards were hit, but only slightly hurt.

Thirty-eight members of the Revolutionary Military League have been caught in the garrison at Vilna, where they were sowing sedition among the troops. Their papers revealed the workings of the league in other garrisons.

The Government is punishing all the Constitutional Democrats who signed the Viborg manifesto by suspending them from their position in the provincial Zemstvos. They have also been indicted for promoting rebellion by signing the manifesto.

PASSED A WORTHLESS CHECK.

Among the prisoners lined up in the Detective Bureau at Headquarters today were Joseph J. Miller, twenty-five years old, of No. 45 West Twentieth street, a painter, and Frederick W. Miller, twenty-seven, of the same address. They are charged with passing a worthless check for $26 on the West Side Bank. According to the police several other worthless checks were found on them. They were arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court and held in $500 bail for examination to-morrow.
