SOLDIER'S FIELD, Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13.—Ideal football weather and a crowd of 12,000 gridiron enthusiasts greeted the Harvard-Amherst Aggie elevens when they trotted on to the field here this afternoon.

The crimson was expected to play a fast game and roll up a big score, as they have been showing splendid form in their last practices. The Harvard regulars, MacDonald, right end; Wendell, right half, and Mason, full back, were not in the line up, their places were taken by Orr, Lockwood and Gray.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Oct. 13.—With ideal weather conditions prevailing, Lehigh and Haverford fought it out on Lehigh Field this afternoon. Haverford was accompanied by practically all of the students of that institution, and the college cheers of both student bodies made the welkin ring. Both teams looked fit and dandy. Last year Lehigh won, the year previous Haverford. This year both teams seemed evenly matched.

"KID M'COY" IN COURT.

Norman Selby's name was called out by the clerk of the Harlem Police Court to-day and answered by that person, who is better known as "Kid McCoy."

The prize fighter was summoned to explain why he had not properly registered his auto. It seems that McCoy's chauffeur was arrested a few weeks ago by Bicycle Patrolman "Ajax" Whitman at Madison avenue and One Hundred and Sixteenth street for overspeeding. He said it was McCoy's machine.

"Ajax" looked up the number of the machine, 9,114, and found it was registered under the name of Edward C. Ellis, of No. 133 West Thirty-eighth street.

McCoy, who gave his age as thirty-three, and his residence as No. 250 West Fiftieth street, said Ellis died some time ago, and he purchased the machine from the widow and never took the trouble to register it in his own name.

On his promise to have the machine properly registered, Magistrate Barlow discharged him.

WAGNER CHAMPION HITTER

Hans Wagner, shortstop of the Pittsburg Club, is the champion hitter of the National League for 1906. Last year Wagner finished second to "Cy" Seymour, who carried off the honors by hitting .354. The unofficial figures this season give Wagner .349. Seymour is fourteenth on the list, with an average of .280.

Only eight men batted over .300 in the major league this year. Harry Lumley, the fast outfielder and hard hitter of the Brooklyn clubs, finished second to Wagner, with a percentage of .324. Lumley was twenty-first on the list last year with an average of .287.

Shortstops, who played through the entire season for Chicago, was third with .322, also making a great jump. Last year he was No. 41 in the standing, and hit for only .266. Chance, of Chicago, who was sixth in 1905, with .319, was seventh this year with .310.

Wagner did some of his best hitting for Pittsburg, as did also Chance, of Chicago, and Magee, of Philadelphia.

The averages of those batting .267 or better are:

TRAINING SPRINTS AT GRAVESEND

(Special to The Evening World.)

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The track was very fast early to-day, and the training gallops were more interesting than during the past few days. The principal ones noted were:

MAY PINK, Five furlongs in 1.03 2-5, breezing. Going very nicely.

KILTER—Five furlongs in 1.02 3-5, handily. Shows speed in the morning.

QUALIFY—Four furlongs in 0.49, handily. Not much account.

ARSENAL—One mile in 1.46 2-5, handily.

MINTIA—Four furlongs in 0.49 1-5, handily. Has early speed.

MIRZA—Four furlongs in 0.52, breezing.

CANNON BALL—Six furlongs in 1.16 3-5, handily. Very good work.

LOGISTILLA—One mile in 1.44 3-5, breezing. In very good trim.

KING COLE—One mile in 1.45 4-5, handily. Not reliable.

BURLEIGH—Six furlongs in 1.18, breezing.

EARL ROGERS—Six furlongs in 1.18, galloping. Is fit and very good.

OXFORD—Seven furlongs in 1.28, galloping. Looks well.

REBA STONE—Four furlongs in 0.48 3-5, handily. Shows speed.

CARONAL—One mile in 1.47 3-5, handily.

LITTLE MINISTER—Six furlongs in 1.18 2-5, breezing. Looks very fit.

VOORHEES—Four furlongs in 0.51 3-5, handily. Good form.

JAMES CRAWFORD—Five furlongs in 1.04 2-5, handily. In good trim.

FOOTBALL HURTS PROVE FATAL

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—W. Glinn Ellis, aged twenty-one, of Toronto, fourth year modern history man at Toronto University, died last night from injuries received in a practice football game on the varsity lawn Wednesday afternoon. He walked home after the game, and no serious results were looked for until to-day, when he suddenly collapsed. It is believed he was kicked in the head.

THOUSAND BOYS IN THIS MEET

One thousand entries have been received by the Sunday-school Athletic League of Brooklyn for the big meet that will be held at Washington Park, Fourth avenue and Third street, Brooklyn, to-day. Twenty-event games make up the programme and will bring together the best Sabbath-school athletes in the City of Churches.

Special features of the carnival will be two relay races. One is open to the senior teams of the Young Men's Christian Association and the other for the high schools of the Public Schools Athletic League.

CHAMPIONS MEET IN INDOOR GAMES

The 600 and 1,000-yards championships at the National Indoor meet of the Amateur Athletic Union, to be held on Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 9 and 10, at Madison Square Garden, promise to be events well worth seeing.

Eli B. Parsons, of Yale, the present 600-yard champion, it is expected, will be on hand to defend his title, and it is also probable that Melvin Sheppard will compete. If these two flyers should come together a cracking race is assured, and in all probability the record of 1 minute 14 seconds, held by his opponents, the Philadelphia flyer may be forced to better the present indoor figures for the distance, 3 minutes 22 seconds, made in 1904, by Charley Bacon, whom Sheppard defeated for the title at the Pastime games last March.

Sheppard will likely start in the 1,000-yard run, also, being the present champion at that distance, and as some of the fastest middle-distance runners in the country will be among the present indoor figures for the distance, 3 minutes 32 seconds, made in 1904, by Charley Bacon, whom Sheppard defeated for the title at the Pastime games last March.

The 600 and 1,000 yards races will be held on different nights, the former being scheduled for Saturday night, and the latter for Friday night.

BELMONT PARK ENTRIES.

The Athletes of Yore Were Mere Corachauns

(Small Potatoes.)

Historical Research Shows that Old-Timers Were Not in It with the Strong and Speedy Men of Twentieth Century.

"I have the tape that measured the jumps at the Tailtin games on the Hill of Tara twinty-wan hundred years ago," said John McCarthy, the Central Park topographical delineator and keeper of the Cumauns owned by Laory, the red-headed King of Ossory. John had a ring of triumph in his voice to-day as he spoke to the group of contentious Irishmen who insist that the athletes of old were better performers than those of to-day.

"I have also looked up some of the archives touchin' on an' apartainin' to the distances covered in those days, and I have come to the conclusion that most of those way-back fellows were shines when compared with the goods we will have over at the Irish-American Club's annual games at Celtic Park to-morrow.

"Be specific," said Kenny, who inherited a lot of parliamentary skill from his great ancestor, Wolf Tone Kenny, who was a Poor Law Guardian in Ballinakill the year of the famine."

"Aisy, now. I'm on the job," said John. "Don't rush me or you'll blow out your carburetor. I find that the best mark made for the hop, step and jump was in the year 138 B. C., at a set of games run off for a family about to emigrate to the United States. Long O'Donnell Dhu, who was scratch man and champ of his day, went the distance of a bandle of flannel, according to the Galway Weekly Patriot, published the day after the sports.

"What the blazes is a bandle of flannel?" asked Tracy, who is a newcomer among the Kickers.

"Such ignorance is sad in a free country," replied John. "A bandle of flannel in our family down in the Golden Vale of Limerick where everybody got good measure was seven times the length of the glaum of the two arms of the King's son."

"How wide was his reach?" sneeringly inquired Luke Finn, who believed he had McCarthy in bad.

"He had a reach like a janitor after a tip," said John, "but in any case the best you can make out of seven glaums would be about forty-two feet. Sure, I know a bookach tailor at Rathkeale that could make that at alone. What Dinny Lanigan, the Greenhorn, who has just come over, who will try the trick to-morrow, can do. He has gone forty-nine feet, and that's goin' some, sye mind."

"How about sprinting?" inquired Dave Naughton, the point-of-order man.

"Sure, the split-second watches of the 'Big Bill' Hughes boom, were dam, bad timers. A dollaar and it would cost a holding of land, and it was hard to keep them in repair when they got to Ireland. The man at the tape used to time the runners by a clepsydra that was run by water. When a certain amount of water ran out of a hole in the side of a tub that meant such-and-such a time. People of old didn't go much on records made with wather, and I don't take much stock in it myself—except on the aisle. Fix it up, Barney."

After the fixing was attended to John proceeded. "Here, Sheppard the Kid from Philadelphia, who gets a quarter mile in about 50 second. Now, where the divvil would the heavy-footed slobs of ancient Greece, or Tara, or any other old place be if Shep let himself out? Why, it would be like springing a greyhound against a Forty-second street lobster."

"Well, they were strong at the weights," suggested Tom Curran, seeking the last word of home.

"Did ye ever see the shirtes of armor that the gasabos used in wear years ago?" asked McCarthy in reply. "Well, they's a lot of bareoiled boys knittin around Skibbereen to-day who are too big to fit into those things. That proves that the old-timers were a lot of sawed-offs and that lets them out in the weight class. Of course they's exceptions as in the case of Samson and Hercules, who were written up by the sporting editors of their times. But I'd like to see either of these fellows go through the paces for a roof garden engagement, with Oscar Hammerstein: 'They'd fade at the first try-out.'"

"Pretty enough, it may be that Samson slew three thousand Protestins with the jaw of an ass. Sure, the word of command from the jaw of an ass caused the slewing of many thousand good Americans on the battlefield until a general with brains took hold. Suppose John Flanagan got in among a bunch of haythins with the sixteen-pound hammer, what would happen?"

"Glory be!" exclaimed Casey, while his eyes turned up in rapture at the contemplation of the slaughter.

"Twas thus the committee got ready for the final touches for the games of their club to-morrow.

"I am proud to say that the 'Fighting Ninth' Regiment of Massachusetts will be at the park with the Sixty-ninth as our guests," said P. J. Conway, who just entered. "They will see Sheppard break the 600-yard record. They'll see Sheridan throw the discus across the East River and Flanagan smash down the fence with the fifty-six. They'll see John Daly leaping over three hurdles at a clip in the two-mile, so as to bate Nellson, the plucky little Englishman. They'll see high jumping and long jumping such as was never seen before, and they'll see the best-behaved crowd of pure-blooded sports ever gathered in Celtic Park. Now get your feet on the rail."

And once more Barney got busy.
