[illegible]isgusting
[illegible]ouisville Herald in its villification of everything connected with Louisville has resulted in that sheet being given the cold shoulder by business men and subscribers alike. Its daily appeal to passion and prejudice is but the beginning of the end for this foreign owned and foreign edited sheet.

ABOUT POLITICS.

The Kentucky Irish American heretofore has had little desire to take part in political campaigns, but during the past two months matters were forced into such a condition that it was necessary to expose the dirty work that had been undertaken and is still being carried on. That we were right in our surmise is proved by the utterances of Rev. Dr. Powell and Rev. Dr. Aquilla Webb, whose ringing words are approved by all true Christian men.

It is really strange that some people in Louisville can not profit by past experience. Anti-Catholic lying is not new in this city, though for a time the propagators thereof have been very quiet. Now, however, they have broken out afresh. They are not making much noise, but cowards that they are, underhandedly they are spreading their virus in an endeavor to defeat Catholic gentlemen who have been named for office on some of the tickets. This plan has been tried before, with the result that Catholics have entirely overlooked party and voted for men. This will happen again, though we are free to say the plan is intensely distasteful to those who in conscience can not do otherwise.

At this time we do not care to mention any names. We simply desire to utter a warning to the managers of the Progressive party, if not too late, that the question of religion must be eliminated from the campaign. Because a man happens to be a Catholic is no good reason for his not holding office. The fact that some candidates are Catholics is being discussed by narrow-minded bigots who are incompetent to fill any of the minor offices in the city or county government. For their own good, we call upon the managers to silence these contemptible fellows and conduct their campaign on lines that will appeal to all patriotic, loyal citizens.

WHAT WE WANT.

The best interests of the State of Kentucky require that every voter should cast his ballot for a revision of our tax laws at the coming election. The true meaning of the proposed constitutional amendment will result in equal and just taxation, whereby rich and poor will pay alike, and not as now, when the dog tax produces more revenue than all the bonds in Kentucky. Under the present system millions that should pay revenue to the State escape, but not so the home of real estate of the laboring classes. Here is the situation as it now exists and for which a remedy is sought:

"The present law does not produce sufficient revenue for the proper support of the State and local government, in spite of the constantly increasing tax rate. It unjustly places an undue portion of the public burden on some classes of property, and especially upon real estate, while permitting other classes of property entirely to escape taxation. Its inequalities have resulted in driving out and keeping from the State a large amount of capital that is needed in the development of its business. It produces evasion, dishonesty and perjury; encourages contempt for the law, and lowers the moral standard of our people."

This is the reason why Kentucky lags behind, its people are emigrating to other States and we have 7,000,000 acres of unimproved farm lands. Vote for the amendment and a change for the better.

PARTITION DISMISSED.

Only cheering news regarding the political situation comes from England and Ireland this week. Liberals and home rulers are engaged in a widespread campaign and the Irish members address crowded and enthusiastic meetings every night. At least 500 Irish meetings will be held in England and Scotland before the Christmas holidays. And while they are still active the Tories and Orangemen have to confess that it is impossible for them to work up any violent feeling against home rule, and besides there has come a significant lull in the Ulster campaign.

As expressed by the Hon. T. P. O'Connor, member of Parliament for Liverpool, it is increasingly evident that English Tories are now ready for any deal which will save their face, but the separation of the four Ulster counties, which was the price offered a fortnight ago by the Tories for acceptance of home rule, will have to be abandoned in the face of the fierce cry of resentment against the proposal, not merely from Irish Nationalists but from southern Unionists. Indeed, the partition of Ireland may now be dismissed as a possible solution.

OFFENSIVE AND UNTRUTHFUL.

During the campaign now closing much that has been offensive and grotesquely untruthful has been published in the Herald columns. The authors are persons whose opinions are not worth a moment's notice, and therefore for the present we refrain from making their identity known, lest some of the good but red-blooded people to whom they so unjustly referred should be tempted to give them the chastisement they so richly deserve. Meantime they should reflect upon the contemptible position they occupy as the willful and deliberate defamers of a city and people from whom they—strangers of unknown character and antecedents—derive an easy livelihood.

HARD TIMES GOOD.

On all sides one hears of hard times, which bring forth some very thoughtful and timely expressions. All this is a good thing, some contend, and the nation is fortunate which from time to time learns the lesson of economy from necessity, the best teacher of all. In Germany one hears of retrenchment. England is spending carefully, and the extravagant regime of King Edward has given way to sensible and cautious expenditures. America has similar reports. As the individual must learn self-control and thrift, so must the nation. Money was never given to a nation or a person for purely selfish enjoyment, and in a mysterious way it seems to desert those possessors who regard it as a personal privilege. No worry is so difficult to bear as financial worry. It seems that every one has worries of this sort. Even the very rich have the same difficulties in keeping up their positions as the debt ridden clerks. By exercising judgment and resistance one can escape all these woes and live within one's income, but people carelessly continue borrowing from Peter to pay Paul, and finally the day of reckoning comes. People never sympathize with those who reach the end of the financial tether unless these results have been caused by unpreventable misfortune. It is a hard lesson, but a good one.

Progressives' last shift: To curse everybody and everything.

TIMELY PAMPHLET.

A very timely and convincing pamphlet, entitled "Catholic Priests Distinguished Protestants Have Known," has just been published by the Central Bureau of the Central Verein. It consists of a collection of tributes to members of the Catholic priesthood given by famous men of other faiths, ranging from the eulogy of Thomas Carlyle on Abbot Samson, of Medieval England, to Theodore Roosevelt's complimentary reference to Father Curran, of twentieth century America, and including among others the expressions of praise that the lives and deeds of Bishop Baraga, Father De Smet and Father Damien have evoked. At the present time when such a wave of bigotry and calumny, directed particularly against the priesthood, is sweeping over this country, this pamphlet supplies a very urgent need. It has been written in such a way as to prove of value in combating rampant bigotry.

SECOND CATHOLIC GOVERNOR.

Gov. Glynn wil be the first Catholic Governor of New York State since 1682, when the great political genius, Thomas Dongan, was appointed the first Colonial Governor. Senator Kernan, a Catholic, ran for Governor in 1872, but was defeated by Gov. Dix. Thomas Dongan was a veritable constructive statesman. He called New York's first legislative assembly in 1683 and was its guiding light, passing "The Charter of Liberties," making the assembly a body coequal to but independent of the English Parliament—proclaimed religious liberty and election by a majority of votes, and to him with historical accuracy can be assigned the honor of American constitutional government, many of whose enactments afterward became part of our Federal law, and eventually England, after the war of 1776, made them a part of her policy toward her colonies, and they are in reality the framework of the present Government of Canada and Australia. It is worthy of notice that he first incorporated into New York the law, "No taxation without representation," which eventually became the slogan of the patriots of 1776.

PATRIOTIC CHARITY.

Catholic army veterans who die penniless in Kalamazoo, Mich., will be given a burial just as good as the one who dies amid plenty. The directors of St. Augustine's church have decided to lay out a plot in the Catholic cemetery there and give to any veteran who may die without means a funeral fitting a man who has served his country. The church will bear the entire cost of burial.

MARCH OF THE HOLY NAME.

Oh! the delight of it—
Glory and might of it!
March of the Holy Name—men of true mold!
Speeding to greet their King,
Bearing this offering,
Speech pure as silver, or silence as gold!

League of the rev'rent tongue,
Heroes, both old and young,
While the bands play and the banners appear,
Proudly their ranks proclaim
Praise to the Holy Name—
Praise to the Word Divine, deathless and dear!

Back to Inferno flee
Foul speech and blasphemy!
Demons profane to your Hades depart!
Here is no place for you,
Naught save disgrace for you,
Vanished by men of clean lips and clean heart!

Victors of vice and wrong,
God's grace hath made them strong,
Wide be their reign and triumphant their rule!
Vast be the multitude
Soon to be soul-subdued,
Listen and trained in the Great Captain's school!

Hark to the tramp of them!
Holy the camp of them;
Happy the homes where their voices are heard!
Life shall be bless'd for them,
Death sweetest rest for them—
Glory to God, to His Name and His Word!
