PRINCETON AND YALE BATTLE FIERCELY

crowd looked it over critically and decided that it was good. The better the field the faster and more exciting the play.

Lots of Blue, Little Long Green.

There was some small betting among the college students while waiting for the game at the prevailing odds of 5 to 4 on the Tigers. Curiously enough there was no big betting either last night or to-day. Not a single bet of $100 was recorded in Princeton. There was plenty of Princeton money around town, but it was all in chicken feed five or ten dollar bills. Rumors of big betting in New York failed to excite the local collegians, and, as for Yale, why, Yale exhibited her confidence more in waving the blue than in waving the long green.

It lacked only ten minutes of 2 when Yale and Princeton rooters crowded in their opposing sections and began to whoop their college yells. With the first whoop there was a sudden flurry in the southeast corner of the grandstand, and all at once the Yale warriors swept upon the gridiron. They were stalwart heroes in blue as they snappily went through a few swift formations. Yale's rooters stood up and sang an Eli song of battle.

In front of the widespread Blue rooters' section stood five leaders, white-sweatered, swaying their blue megaphones in unison. The warriors of old Eli gathered in mid-field and listened to final instruction from the coaches. Across the canyon floated "Princeton," played by the Princeton band.

"Rah, rah rah! Tiger, Tiger, Tiger! Sizz, sizz, sizz! Boom, boom, boom! Ah, ah, ah! Princeton, Princeton, Princeton!" shouted the Tiger rooters. And then at just five minutes past the hour the Tiger warriors dashed out to face the Bulldog. There came a short wait. Princeton warmed up. Princeton rooters sang. Yale rooters rose and cheered. Tiger rooters across the way stood up and cheered Yale, for one moment it was a rivalry of friendship. No derisive songs.

Princeton won the toss, chose the south goal and the kick-off. In ten seconds the thump of Rulon-Miller's toe on the leather drum could be heard throughout the silently waiting grandstands. The ball went out of bounds. Immediately Yale's line echoed rose in one solid roar. Princeton's Yale rooters waved their megaphones of blue. Up went the undertaker's song, derisive, full of ridicule for Rulen-Miller.

"More work for the undertaker, another job for the casketmaker.
In the village cemetery they are very, very, very busy on a brand new grave.
No hope for Princeton."

The Great Game On.

But Princeton didn't mind. Rulon-Miller kicked off again with better success. Princeton's line dashed forward sharply. The great game was on, and then came a long interval of seesaw sport.

Up and down the field travelled the ball, kicked from side to side, punted, fumbled, passed from hand to hand, now Yale's, now Princeton's, and yet no startling advantage was developed by either side.

The ball was punted far down into Princeton's territory. Dillon caught it. Yale's warriors were on him in an instant. Blue jerseys dotted the whole field.

Dillon looked like a man in a trap. There was a swift scurry, and out of the bulldog's grip shot Eddie Dillon like a flash, dodging, jumping, twisting with the slippery wiggle of an eel. Dillon went right through the whole Yale team for full forty yards before he was brought down.

The Princeton rooters went temporarily insane. They shrieked and yelled and jumped up and down while steadily the yellow ball travelled down to within an arm's reach of Yale's goal line.

But back it came in plays that carried it midfield again. The ball was in Yale's territory for long minutes that must have seemed ages to the Blue rooters, who sat with cold feet and chilling hopes on their benches. At last Veeder's iron toe sent the ball to Dillon on Princeton ground. Dillon squirmed and went down in his tracks. More punts, and suddenly the two teams were lined up only twenty-five yards from the Tigers' goal.

Five yards more the Tigers lost for holding out. The ball travelled nearly to midfield. Suddenly Knox made a curious pass straight forward and over the heads of both teams 25 yards. Biglow was under it and he snatched the leather away from a crushing horde of Tigers. Passes and kicks came with a bewildering speed. Dillon caught a punt and was dropped only 5 yards from Princeton's goal line.

Out came the ball on a desperate punt. Morse made a free catch. There was a heart-rending pause.

Painful Silence Over All.

Both teams lined up. In the great bleachers rooters and all other common, ordinary spectators sat frozen into silence. There was not a whisper. Even Yale's derisive undertaker song, which had been going incessantly like a Mahometan prayer, for fifteen minutes was hushed.

Biglow Kick Failed.

You could have heard a man puff on a cigar when Biglow moved up slowly, moving back his pigskin-covered foot for the fatal kick. Thump went Biglow's toe on the ball. Up it rose in a drive apparently straight for Princeton's goal. Thirty-eight yards it soared. But the time had not yet come. The hurtling leather missed the mark, slipped just outside the south goal post. No score.

Orange rooters rose with a great shout of joy.

Almost instantly Harlan kicked out again. The battle went on with undiminished fury, and then the whistle blew. The first half was over. Score, Princeton, 0; Yale, 0.

Both Princeton and Yale sang and shouted lustily through the rest of the interval.

"Wow-wow-wow-wow-wow! Hear the Tigers roar.
"Wow-wow-wow-wow-wow, rolling up the score," sang Princeton.

SECOND HALF.

On came the teams; on went the game. A couple of kicks, then Veeder sent the leather away down into the Tiger jungle. Dillon brought it back fourteen yards, and then the ball began its travel towards Princeton. But Yale got in an outside kick that brought the Tiger rooters' hearts into their throats. But a Yale jersey was simply rolled in the dirt.

Back into Yale territory surged the battle, while Princeton whooped in ecstasy. Yale changed her tactics here and began smashing through the Tiger line. Veeder was used like a battering ram. Time and again that Yale avalanche fell on Princeton. The Yale team literally walked down the field driving Princeton headlong. Thirty yards from home the Tigers held.

Morse tried a drop kick for goal and missed. Back went the ball to mid-field, propelled by Harlan's toe again. While the Blue rooters roared Yale's battering ram smashed into Princeton's line. This time the Tigers held. A long forward pass by the great Tad Jones to Biglow netted twenty-five yards. In the scramble Knox was hurt. Linn took his place.

In a desperate series of plunges Yale beat Princeton back within her fifteen-yard line, but lost fifteen. A long kick sent the ball straight toward the Tiger goal. A foot in front of it little Eddie Dillon caught the ball and ran nearly to the side lines before he was downed. A kick, a forward pass, and once again the ball was in neutral territory.

Praise of Old Nassau.

There was a delay and up rose Princeton's cohorts and sang "In Praise of Old Nassau."

The awe-inspiring rhythm of it swept over the field. Yale stopped her cheers and listened, looking across at her hereditary rivals standing there with heads bared. And even Yale could not refrain from a cheer and a volley of hand-clapping for the brave foe across the way.

When "Old Nassau" is sung Princeton men always rally. Atlas like they rise from the ground with redoubled strength. Princeton shoved Yale back. The Bulldog held at last. There was an exchange of punts between Veeders and Harlan on her 40-yard line. Princeton again knocked seeking Yale's wall of giants. Here it was that Eddie Harlan went out and Tibbetts took his place.

Tad Jones Knocked Out.

A moment and the ball travelled down within twenty yards of Yale's goal. Tad Jones was knocked senseless, but recovered in time. The ball was punted back and forth but still on yale ground, until Linn carried it over into Tigerland.

Yale beat Princeton back twenty yards more. It was the old-style mass play, such as Yale has used against the Tigers for many years. Morse ripped through for five more. The Princeton rooters were standing now, singing "Old Nassau." After a fierce attack Roome was called out to take his place on the team, and just then the whistle blew. Score—Princeton, 0; Yale, 0.

GREAT YALE AND TIGER GAME AS TOLD IN DETAIL.

BY HARRY BURKE.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 17.—Following is a detailed account of the great game, play by play:

Rulon Miller kicked off for Princeton. The ball went out of bounds to the 30-yard line, and was brought back for a second kick. Tad Jones got the second kick on the 20-yard line and ran it back fifteen yards. Vaeders then kicked to Princeton's 40-yard line.

Rulon-Miller made a short kick, and Dillon got the ball on Princeton's 40-yard line. Harlan made a dash around left end to Yale's 50-yard line, and on the second try Rulon-Miller plunged through left tackle for five yards.

Yale finally got the ball, and Veeders promptly kicked back to Dillon, who was down on Princeton's 45-yard line. Harlan sent the ball back into Yale's territory, where Morse was pulled down on the 20-yard line. Tad Jones made four yards through centre, and then Veeders kicked to the centre of the field. Rulon-Miller was tackled for a loss of three yards, and Harlan kicked to Yale's 25-yard line. Yale was penalized five yards at this point for holding, the ball going to Princeton.

Rulon Miller made three yards through the line, but the Blues held on the second plunge, and then Princeton was penalized fifteen yards for violation of rules, the ball going back to Yale's thirty-two-yard line. Princeton tried a forward pass, which failed to gain any territory, and the Tigers were again penalized, the ball going to Yale on the forty-yard line.

Yale kicked to Dillon, who was tackled in his tracks on his own 35-yard line. Harlan kicked back to Jones, who was downed on Yale's 42-yard line. Morse tried an on-side kick and made twenty yards. The next try gained three yards, but on the third attempt the ball rested on the 48-yard line. Eddie Dillon got the ball when Morse repeated the on-side kick play and was downed on the Tigers' 42-yard line.

E. Dillon Makes 40-Yard Run.

A series of fumbles marked the next play, but Yale finally got the ball on their own fifty-yard line, and Morse kicked to E. Dillon. The Princeton stand broke loose as the Tiger quarter made a brilliant dash through a broken field for forty yards back to Yale's forty-five-yard line.

Harlan then kicked to Jones, who was pulled down in his tracks on Yale's five-yard line. Veeders promptly pulled the coals out of the fire by kicking out of bounds at the forty-five-yard line. Dillon made eight yards on a fake kick and end run.

Wister and Dillon worked the forward pass successfully, Wister being pulled down within a foot of Yale's goal line.

The referee brought the ball back to the ten-yard line and then penalized the Tigers fifteen yards, the ball going to Yale's twenty-five-yard line.

An on-side kick gave the ball to Yale on the 12-yard line. Morse tried a left end dash but failed to gain and then Veeders kicked out of bounds to the second line. Dillon tried a quarterback run and lost two yards.

On the next attempt Yale broke through and blocke Harlan's attempt at forward pass, but Harlan saved the ball on the 48-yard line. McCormick made 3 yards through centre, Harlan kicked to Jones, who raised his hand for a free catch on the 15-yard line.

Princeton was penalized 15 yards for interfering with the free catch. Veeder kicked to Dillon, who was downed on the Tigers' 45-yard line. Harlan promptly returned the ball to Yale on Yale's 35-yard line, and Veeder sent the ball back into Princeton's territory. Dillon fumbled the ball and Yale got it for the first down on the Tiger's 40-yard line.

Yale made 8 yards, and Knox smashed through tackle for 5 more. It was Yale's ball on the Tigers' 25-yard line. The Tigers lost 5 yards over a mixup between Cooney and Biglow, but regained 15 when Yale was caught holding.

Knox then worked a sensational forward pass to Biglow, gaining 25 yards. The ball went to the Tigers on a fumble, and Harlan kicked to the Tigers' 40-yard line. Yale tried another forward pass, but Harlan got the ball on his own 20-yard line.

A fake kick gained 15 yards for the Tigers, but they lost the ball on a fumble. Veeder made a try for goal from the 35-yard line but missed. Dillon was tackled with the ball on the Tigers' 5-yard line, and when Harlan kicked out of danger Morse made a free catch on the 38-yard line.

Biglow missed the ball from placement. Princeton kicked out from the twenty-five-yard line, the ball going to Morse on his thirty-five-yard line. Veeder then kicked back to Dillon, who was downed on Princeton's thirty-five-yard line, where the first half ended. Score: Yale, 0; Princeton, 0.

SECOND HALF.

When the teams came out for the second half Capt. Dillon was missing, Daub taking his place. Phillips took Daub's place. Roome replaced Veeder for Yale.

Dillon got the kick-off on the 25-yard line, and Harlan kicked back to Morse, who ran ten yards to his own 46-yard line. Roome booted the ball to Dillon on the Tigers' 15-yard line, but the referee called the ball back. After a conference of the officials the ball was taken back to the Tigers' 38-yard line and given to Princeton.

After a failure to gain Harlan kicked to Yale's forty-yard line. Yale lost two yards on two attempts to break through. Princeton blocked a kick, but lost ten yards for offside. It was Yale's ball on the forty-five-yard line. An on-side kick gained thirty yards, being Yale. Knox made five yards, being downed on the Tigers' thirty-five-yard line, and Yale lost the ball on downs. Harlan kicked to Yale's forty-five-yard line.

Tigers Got Rattled.

The Tigers seemed to be rattled, and the Yale enthusiasts cried with joy when Roome got around right end for ten yards.

Another drive through the centre was successful, and it was Yale's ball on first down on Princeton's forty-eight-yard line. Veeder then bolted through for five more, and Knox smashed through centre for as many more. The Tigers were Princeton's thirty-two-yard line. The Tigers seemed to be going to pieces and failed to hold on Yale's next attempt. The Blue backs smashed through to Princeton's twenty-five-yard line. A fake kick play failed to gain. Morse failed on a drop-kick, the ball going to dillon for a touchback. Harlan then kicked to the centre of the field. The Blue backs made 5 yards on two attempts, and then Yale worked the forward pass for a 20-yard gain, getting the ball on first down on the Tigers' 35-yard line.

It was Biglow who got the ball. Linn replaced Knox at left half.

There was a long wrangle between the captains and officials, but the ball was given to Yale on the Tigers' 33-yard line. Two plunges and a fake kick gained the required ten yards for the Blues. It was Yale's ball on first down on the Tigers' 23-yard line. Knox got around the left for five yards, but on the next try Yale was penalized 15 yards yards, putting the ball back to the Tigers' 38-yard line. Veeder failed at an attempt at a goal from the field. The Tigers punted to Yale on Princeton's 35-yard line. Rulon-Miller smeared an attempt at a forward pass and carried the ball forward to the Tigers' 45-yard line.

An on side kick carried the ball to the Tigers' 53-yard line. The Tigers braced up when their rooters began singing "Old Nassau," and carried the ball through Yale's centre to Yale's 32-yard line. McCormick made five more on two attempts. Harlan tried a drop kick, but Biglow got through and blocked it. The ball going out of bounds on Yale's 30-yard line. Yale made first down on the first attempt through the line.

Veeder kicked to Dillon, who made a free catch on his own 40-yard line, but it was disallowed. Princeton then kicked to Yale's 25-yard line. Veeder booted the ball back to Dillon, who was pulled down in his tracks on the Tigers' 45-yard line.

Harlan Out of the Game.

At this point the Tigers' chances were minimized when Harlan, their peerless drop-kicker, was replaced by Tibbitt. A kick and a line plunge placed the ball on Yale's 45-yard line.

Princeton kicked to Jones on Yale's 15-yard line. The little tackle was thrown with terrific force, and was knocked out for some time. Yale kicked back to the centre of the field, and Dillon and Wister made a successful attempt at a forward pass which netted 25 yards.

For mysterious reason the referee brought the ball back to the centre of the field. Cooney argued in vain with the officials. It was Yale's ball.

Evidently the referee claimed the ball had touched the ground. Linn made a brilliant dash around right end and was tackled on Princeton's 40-yard line. The Blue backs then plunged through the centre for the necessary ten yards, the next try they found a weak spot at tackle. They were finally held on the Tigers' 18-yard line on the second down. Morse went through for five yards and Linn for three. Roome then ran out on the field to replace Morse, when the half ended before the Yale backs could make a final dash for the Princeton goal. Score, second half and final score: Princeton, 0; Yale, 0.

Startling Discovery in Interest of Men.

I have discovered a process for the treatment of weak men and lost vitality that has been pronounced by over 200 physicians as being the only real reliable and sure method yet discovered.

I do not expect, nor do I want, any money until satisfied by statements as facts. All I ask is a thorough investigation, and if the sufferer does not feel himself capable of determining its value, he is cordially invited to bring his physicians to patient's home or office.

It does not cost you a single penny to investigate my treatment. Brilliant and advice are absolutely free. You are not buying "a cat in a bag." You see what you get and you don't have to pay for it until after you are sure it will do all I claim for it. No money will be taken from any patient while under treatment. Consultation with specialists until you are satisfied. Many who have tried other specialists without benefit are delightfully surprised.

My New York office is located at 30 East 23d street. Take elevator to fourth floor and enter my reception room, numbered 48. Office hours, 9 to 12, 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M.; Sundays, 2 to 4 P. M. Call to-day. Dr. B. HAWLEY, M. D.
