AMUSEMENTS.

JEWELL KELLEY STOCK CO.

—Much interest is being manifested in the appearance at the opera house all next week of the popular favorites, the Jewell Kelley Stock Co. The company is a decided favorite in this city, having made a most favorable impression here last season.

Monday night "The Gates of Justice" will be put on. The play is a new one and gives every member of the company an opportunity to excell. Ladies will be admitted free on Monday night upon the usual conditions. A big matinee will be given Saturday afternoon when "Little Lord Fauntleroy" will be the play for the ladies and children.

The "Red Fox" Will Run.

From information given out at Lexintgon it is now practically settled that Charles J. Bronston, former State Senator from Fayette county, will reenter the political arena, and that he will shortly announce his candidacy for Attorney General.

This announcement will likely cause a shudder in the ranks of the Beckham machine and its followers, as it is known that the "Red Fox" of Kentucky politics, as Bronston is known throughout the State, is a warm supporter of Senator McCreary and N. B. Hays, and if he consents to become a candidate he will advocate the election of both these men while stumping the State in his own interest.

McCreary Given Ovation.

Senator James B. McCreary was given an enthusiastic reception at the Elks Fair at Georgetown yesterday, in marked contrast with the perfunctory welcome and formal courtesies shown Governor Beckham on the occasion of his visit on Tuesday.

McCreary arrived there yesterday morning and was called upon at the Wellington Hotel by several hundred poiltical supporters and citizens generally. Between 2,500 and 3,000 people assembled at the Fair Grounds to listen to Senator McCreary, and the greeting he received was spontaneous and enthusiastic in the extreme. Judge J. F. Askew made the introductory speech.
