Here's the Form of All the Horses Running To-Day in the Bennings Races

R. Edgren COLUMN

THE Pastime A. C. training grounds are at the foot of East Nineteenth street. If you happen along there during the afternoon hours any day in the next few weeks you will see strange missiles hurtling through the air overhead, and hear a chorus from inside whoop "Good boy, Martin. That's a beaut!"

Martin Sheridan is training every afternoon on the Pastime track. He is getting into shape early in the spring, for this year he expects to have a great fight on his hands in the all-around championships. Garrells, of Michigan the Westerners say, is intending to win, and Garrells is a grand man.

It is a treat to see Sheridan train. He is a horse for work, and he puts in a couple of hours daily doing stunts.

I watched Martin hard at it yesterday afternoon. There was a chilly breeze blowing across the river. Sheridan was dressed in a suit of black tights under his athletic costume and had a warm woolen shirt with long sleeves added to his upper defenses.

No one would suspect, after seeing Martin work, that he could get cold, even if shut up in a refrigerating plant, so long as he was supplied with a shot and a fifty-six pound weight.

Martin played two or three swift games of handball just to get started. Then he ran out to the track for the work of the day, dragging along a shot, a hammer, a discus, a fifty-six pound weight and one single, solitary hurdle.

WITHOUT any delay the work began. Sheridan led off with six or eight standing puts with the shot, and then took a few with a jump. He moves quickly, and finishes with a great push against the iron ball—a sor of a muscular last word. And the sho bounces out of his hand like a rubbe ball. Martin put about forty-three fee yesterday, which is pretty good for a starter.

As soon as the shot putting was over the champion picked up a discus and threw it lustily for fifteen minutes.

Sheridan's discus throwing is a peculiar art of his own. As John O'Brien, president of the Pastimes, says, Martin makes those statues of the Greek discus throwers look like Horace Greeley in distress.

Martin's best effort with the discus was somewhat short of the record—five or six feet or so.

Then came the hammer throwing, at which he worked hard for fully half an hour. The hammer isn't his strongest event, but Sheridan says it will be within a fortnight.

Without waiting for a rest he followed the hammer throwing with a walk of a couple of laps. Walking is one of the events in the all-around championship.

Then Sheridan, still fresh as a daisy, threw the 16 pound weight (athletes call it "the brute") half a dozen times, making well over thirty feet.

Any ordinary man would have been back in the dressing-room an hour before. But Martin Sheridan has nerves of brass and muscles of steel. He dropped "the brute" finally and practiced a few sprinting starts, then some standing and running broad and high jumps and a few flights over the single hurdle. That ended the performance, for two reasons. It was nearly dark—and Martin was hungry.

A HOT and then a cold shower bath and a hard rub down with a rough towel finished up the day, but as he was leaving the dressing-rooms Sheridan couldn't resist the temptation to take a whack or two at the punching-bags.

He walked up the street with him after that. He was whistling and singing. The hard work of the afternoon hadn't wearied him in the least.

"Don't you feel tired?" I asked.

"Tired," chuckled Sheridan. "Way, Bob, I haven't started my work yet. Wait until next week, when I begin to get into trim."

We went into a cafe, where red lamps glowed and obsequious waiters brought smoking viands and cool steins of liquid cheer.

"A steak would be the right thing for you, Martin," I suggested.

Sheridan looked the bill of fare over, hesitated a moment and grinned as he turned to the waiter.

"Bring me," he ordered, "a dozen fried eggs, a plate of toast, a Pilsener, ice cream and coffee."

The waiter, without even smiling a smile, turned on his heel. He brought the order. The dozen eggs were artistically arranged on a platter large enough to hold a Christmas turkey.

"I had a bully dish of pigs' knuckles and sauerkraut for lunch," commented Martin, as he put the dozen fried eggs where the pigs' knuckles had been.

Of such stuff, it seems, are athletes made. Old fashioned notions have been upset by these modern experiments. They say that white meat, dry toast and rare beef, once rigidly prescribed for all men in training.

American League GOSSIP

The Highlanders leave Atlanta Sunday for Baltimore, and the team will not be in New York until after the playing season was opened.

Jim McGuire is said to have done a 100-yard sprint in Atlanta in sixteen seconds. Later McGuire, when the time was given out, said a slow watch had been used.

Danny Hoffman and Elmer Flick are to run 100 yards in a match sprint on New York or Cleveland during the season.

Jim McGuire took eight players from the Highlanders bunch to Richmond leaving Griffith with twelve. Jack Kinnow was left to finish up the work in the catching department at Atlanta.

Hartsell, Harris and Criss, of the St. Louis Americans, have been released to the Pacific.

Jack Powell, the pitcher, is expected to join the Yankees next week.

Training Gallops, Past Races and Everything of Importance in Guide to Winner Picking.

Here is the form complete of all the horses entered to run to-morrow at Bennings. This is the latest racing feature. It gives at a glance a good idea of the fitness of every horse and should be invaluable to those desiring to pick winners.

FIRST RACE—Selling; four-year-olds and upward; seven furlongs. Columbia course.

57	Idle Dream	89
47*	*Azelina	91
33	*Chippewa	85
(57)	*Jack McKeon	96
43	*Geanian	89
42	*Niblick	84
(35)	Anna Smith	91
42*	*Ivanhoe	86
31	Society Bud	84

IDLE DREAM—Has fifteen pounds off from seven furlong race of April 4, when, after good start, she finished fourth. She had speed in that race. Also started in five furlong race April 1 and finished sixth. Has worked three-quarters in 1.19 4-5.

AZELINA—Came second to Workman in seven furlong race April 2 and easily held the field. Carried 97 pounds. Same weight up March 29, when she won at seven furlongs in 1.30 1-5, beating Water Dog and Niblick. Has shown well in gallops.

CHIPPEWA—First start here was March 30, when she came fourth in five and a half furlong race. Has seven pounds off to-day. Worked seven furlongs April 4 in 1.34 4-5.

JACK M'KEON—Won April 4 in seven furlong race in 1.29 4-5, and with 100 pounds up. In four starts has been three times in the money. Third to Fackaline with 100 pounds up March 30 and second to Tudor with 108 March 27, all seven furlong races. Nothing shown in gallops.

GENTIAN—Ran next to last in field of nine April 2 at five furlongs. Carried 96 pounds. Seventh in five and a half furlong race March 29 with 107 pounds up. No form in gallops.

NIBLICK—Has twenty-six pounds off to-day over last race at one mile April 1, when Hadike was up. Quit badly in the stretch and fell away to last place in field of five. Odds were 5 to 2. Third to Ardina and Water Dog in seven furlong race March 29, when he had 114 pounds up. Nothing shown in morning work.

ANNA SMITH—Won at five and a half furlongs from field of eleven April 29 with 101 pounds up, and, with Miller up, was easily best. This was her first start here. Worked, last three days, three-quarters in 1.25, breezing; three-quarters in 1.20, breezing, and a half in 0.54, breezing.

IVANHOE—In second start, at seven furlongs, April 2, came third to Workman and Azelina with 104 pounds up. Opening with 107 pounds up, finished fifth at one mile and forty yards. Nothing shown in gallops.

SOCIETY BUD—With 93 pounds up March 30 finished sixth from good start in race at seven furlongs. This was her second start. No form in gallops.

SECOND RACE—The Washington Nursery for two-year-olds; four and a half furlongs. Old course.

National League BRIEFS

Second Baseman Alperman, of the Superbas, got more than one "home" run as the result of good stick work in the game with Mathewson. He will spend a few days in his Pittsburg home.

President Pulliam's latest bulletin shows that Brooklyn has twenty-four men under contract.

Seven chances without error was doing pretty well for Mullen, second baseman for the Giants, in Wednesday's game with Louisville.

A resolution will be introduced in the annual meeting of the Southern Baseball Association to-morrow at Birmingham, Ala., that Memphis and New Orleans will. It is said favor the resolution. Representatives of Brooklyn clubs will give an exhibition game at Washington Park Monday afternoon.

After winning thirty straight exhibition games, the Chicago Nationals lost to the Springfield team in the Ohio Central League by 8 runs.

Rev. Father McGarty, of St. Augustine's Church, West Twenty-seventh, in Brooklyn, by throwing the first ball into the diamond in the game with Giants, April 16.

Wouldn't it be a surprise if Brooklyn should win the pennant? No team has a better record up to date during the training season.

Noted Cyclist Dead.

NEW HAVEN, April 5.—Ricardo Hausman, widely known as a successful rider on the National Bicycle Circuit, and afterward a promoter of motor paced races, died to-day after a long illness. With George H. Crosset, of this city, Hausman won the one-mile tandem national championship in 1896. When motor car racing began Hausman, with a car owned by R. W. Pickett, of New York, began making records at four-mile and half. Of recent years he had been in the automobile business.

O'Brien Leaves for California Tuesday.

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, who is matched to fight Tommy Burns for a purse of $50,000 before the Pacific A. C., of Los Angeles, Cal., the second week in May, will leave for the battle-ground next Tuesday and will start in training for the contest immediately on his arrival there. O'Brien is confidently expected to beat the champion with Burns's style of fighting.

DONLIN HAD ROW AND QUIT GIANTS

Fielder Explains Why He Signed with Theatrical Company.

(Special to The Evening World.)

CHICAGO, Ill., April 5.—Mike Donlin in explaining why he quit the New York Giants and signed a contract as assistant manager of Whitney, Opera House, this city, says:

"McGraw and I parted company in Louisville and I will not return to him. Already I have closed a very pleasant contract with Mr. Whitney which will enable me to remain with my wife during the entire season. That I regard as a bigger contract than any Mr. McGraw could offer me.

"I spoke in pretty plain terms to McGraw I guess. Yes, you might say we had a row, but as I was indifferent about what he had to say I didn't care much what passed. McGraw undoubtedly will have plenty to say about the case, and until he does I will say nothing."

BROOKLYN BOWLERS IN BIG TOURNEY

(Special to The Evening World.)

YOUNG'S PIER, ATLANTIC CITY, April 5.—Brooklyn bowlers had their innings on the alleys of the National Bowling Association tournament to-day. No records were broken, but good scores were made, those of particular interest to Greater New York bowlers being as follows:
