HANG BY HANDS TO SILL TILL FLAMES MAKE THEM DROP

Mother, Daughter and Son, Driven from Bed, Narrowly Escape Death.

FALL THREE STORIES.

Girl and Boy Injured, but Mrs. McKenna Is Rescued by a Policeman.

Clinging to the window sills on the third floor of a burning building at No. 961 Jamaica avenue, Brooklyn, two women and a boy shouted for help to-day until forced to drop to the street. Two were injured. They are:

May McKenna, twenty-three years old, scalp wounds and concussion.

Harry McKenna, fourteen years old, knees cut, ankles sprained.

Mrs. McKenna jumped into the arms of a policeman and escaped injury.

The building is a three-story structure in a long line of houses. Cyrus Moffatt and family occupy the first floor, using it as a dry goods store and storehouse. The second story was vacant. Mrs. McKenna and family occupied the third floor.

The fire started in the cellar and was discovered by a passing milkman. He drove rapidly until he found Policeman Louis E. Eagleton, of the Liberty avenue station. The officer ran three blocks and turned in an alarm, then started back to the fire.

Flames Prevent Escape.

Henry Hosner, who has a lunch-room near by, and William O'Hara, a man about sixty years old, who lives near, reached the house just as the occupants of the lower floor came out. The hallways were burning and filled with smoke, and nothing was known of the McKenna family until all three appeared in the windows and shouted that they were cut off by the fire and smoke.

The nearest hook and ladder company was twenty blocks away, and the policeman realized that desperate steps were necessary to prevent the frightened family from jumping.

The girl and boy became panic-stricken and screamed that they were going to jump. They lowered themselves and were hanging by their hands when the crowd below shouted to them to hang on until help came. The mother also pleaded with them not to jump, but with each moment their fright seemed to increase.

Policeman Eagleton saw an awning rolled up and lowered it to break the fall, and then ran to a neighboring tenement to get an iron ladder from one of the fire-escapes.

Policeman Rescues Mother.

While he was gone the girl, exhausted, released her hold and fell to the cornice, bounding off onto the awning and into the arms of O'Hara, who was knocked down by the force of her fall. She was picked up unconscious, and an ambulance was summoned from the Bradford Street Hospital.

Shortly after she was carried away the brother dropped, struck the cornice and caromed to the awning, and fell to the street, receiving numerous bruises and two sprained ankles.

The mother, who is fifty years old, remained in the window until she saw her two children fall. The heat then became so great that she was forced to also lower herself from the window. She was still hanging there when Policeman Eagleton arrived with the ladder.

He climbed to the top of it and told her to drop, and when she fell into his arms he passed her on to those below and she escaped injury.

The fire damaged building and contents to the extent of $7,000.

PANIC CREATED BY RUNAWAY HORSES

Thousands of Williamsburg Residents See Policeman Struggle With Beasts.

Two runaways within the period of fifteen minutes threw several thousand Williamsburg residents on their way to the bridge into a panic this morning. Policeman Dobson was severely bruised about the body after heroically stopping one horse. Isaac Einstein, driver of one of the vehicles, was pitched over a guard gate and taken to the Eastern District Hospital.

A horse attached to a light delivery wagon driven by Joseph Henerschmidt, of No. 195 Stanton street, took fright at the approach of an auto and dashed down the bridge toward Williamsburg. Policeman Dobson grabbed its reins. The horse dragged him almost a block, when he fell under the wheels. Spectators brought the horse to a stop.

This horse had hardly been led away and Dobson taken to the station house in a patrol wagon, when another frightened equine came dashing down the incline with the driver screaming at the top of his voice. Policeman Scott tried to emulate his brother officer, but his effort to grab a line failed. A runaway gate was dropped. Horse and wagon crashed into it, throwing the driver who sustained several lacerations.

RIOTING FEARED TO-DAY IN STRIKE ON LONG ISLAND

300 Laborers Under Police Guard to Take Place of Men Who Quit.

Rioting is feared to-day when the Long Island Railroad Company puts 300 laborers to work in the places of those who went on strike on Wednesday. The new men were taken to East New York on a special train from Long Island City at 5 o'clock this morning under a police guard.

As nearly all the strikers are Italians who have made threats, trouble is expected. The men were employed on the Bay Ridge grade crossing improvement and on work between that point and East New York on the Manhattan Beach division.

Because the trains which took them home every night to Long Island City was delayed for an hour by the special race-track trains returning from Sheepshead Bay, the laborers demanded that the railroad company compensate them for the hour's time. A committee waited upon the railroad officials, who agreed to this. Victorious in their demand, the workmen then threatened to go on strike unless the railroad agreed to pay them when the weather prevented them from working.

This the railroad company refused to do and discharged every man who went on strike. The strikers went to the Long Island City office of the railroad yesterday and received their pay. Late in the afternoon strikers stoned the caboose of one of the construction trains as it was passing New Lots avenue, East New York, and the police reserves of the Liberty Avenue station were called out to disperse them.

NEW YORKER WEDS IN PARIS.

PARIS, June 28.—Louise Robbins, daughter of Mrs. Lynch, was married yesterday to Robert L. Hoguet, son of the New York banker, at the Church of St. Honore d'Eylau.

THE REV. DR. AKED BETTER.

Physicians Decide that an Operation Is Not Necessary.

The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, has been suffering from gall stones at his home, No. 2 West Eighty-sixth street. An operation was contemplated early in the week, but Dr. William S. Bainbridge said to-day that it would not be necessary.

Dr. Aked became ill last Friday, but preached on Sunday, although in pain. There was a consultation between Dr. Bainbridge and Dr. Theodore C. Janeway before it was evident that an operation could be dispensed with. Yesterday Dr. Aked sat up in bed and he expects to preach on Sunday morning. After next Sunday the church will be closed until September.

In which the Tailor Does Justice to His Craft

TAILORING as expressed in our $15 Summer suits defines a degree of excellence which is generally supposed to exist only in the product of the high priced custom tailors. They combine every quality that will appeal to men who are seeking style and comfort. Notwithstanding the fact that they are very lightly constructed, they possess a stability that insures the permanent retention of shape—no wrinkling or bagging. And this stability they owe to the clever manner in which they are tailored. The shoulder alone—where most coats go astray—is a masterpiece, shaped and modelled by hand, without the use of superfluous padding.

These Suits at $15 take form in 2 and 3 button single-breasted models, fashioned of light weight cheviots, worsteds, cassimeres and blue and black serges.
