MRS. NACK OUT OF PRISON AND COMING BACK TO NEW YORK

Has Served a Sentence of Nine and a Half Years in Auburn Prison for Part She Took in the Killing of Guldensuppe.

RETURNING HERE TO SEEK WORK AS SEAMSTRESS.

Woman Who Was Heavy, Stout and Strong on Entering Penitentiary Has Been Wasted by Confinement to a Thin and Worn Out Creature.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 19.—Mrs. Augusta Nack was released from Auburn Prison this morning, after having served nine years and five months for the murder of William Guldensuppe, a Turkish bath rubber, in New York City.

Mrs. Nack went to Syracuse, where she boarded the Metropolitan Limited at 10 o'clock for New York City. To a reporter she said that she left the prison a better, sadder and wiser woman, and that she intended to lead a good life.

SYRACUSE, July 19.—Mrs. Augusta Nack was in the Syracuse station for about half an hour this forenoon, waiting for the Metropolitan, on which she went to New York.

The woman is thin and very pale. She was dressed in a cheap new black gown and hat. She carried a new suit case and a tin box of luncheon. She talked to an Evening World correspondent and expressed her desire to lead a new life.

"I have paid my debt to the State," she said "and all I ask now is to be allowed to live my life in my own way. My children are dead, and my husband may be, too, for all that I know or care.

"When I went to Auburn the papers all said that I would be disciplined the first day I reached there, but I made up my mind to be a model prisoner and I succeeded. I never had a harsh word to say to the about my work, and I have come out a sadder, wiser and better woman.

"I expect to find work as a seamstress, but I have no definite plans. There is no one who belongs to me in New York, but I want to go back there because it's the only place I know."

The Guldensuppe murder case was one of the most sensational in the history of the city. Ten years ago this summer it was the talk of the entire world wherever newspapers are published.

William Guldensuppe was a rubber in the Murray Hill baths. He boarded with Mrs. August Nack, a midwife, who lived in Ninth avenue, near Thirty-fourth street. Mrs. Nack's husband also lived in the house, but he was a subdued member of the family.

Guldensuppe was enamored of Mrs. Nack, but she had centred her affections upon one Martin Thorn, a dashing barber. In order to gain possession of some small wealth that Guldensuppe possessed and to keep him from revealing things he knew of, Mrs. Nack and the barber conspired to kill him.

Under pretense of eloping with Guldensuppe, Mrs. Nack lured him to a house in Woodside, L. I. Thorn was waiting for them and struck Guldensuppe over the head in a dark hallway. Thorn and Mrs. Nack put the body in a bathtub and carved it up.

They dropped parts of the trunk wrapped in peculiarly marked pieces of oilcloth, into the East River from the dock of a Thirty-fourth street ferryboat. These gruesome relics of the crime floated ashore and were identified at the Morgue by fellow-workmen of Guldensuppe by tattoo marks and other physical signs. Mrs. Nack and Thorn were arrested and locked up in the Long Island City Jail.

Mrs. Nack made a full confession to her counsel, the late Emanuel Friend, who advised her to turn State's evidence. She did and was the chief witness against Thorn, who was sentenced to death. He was electrocuted at Sing Sing. Mrs. Nack was sent to the women's prison at Auburn.

$7,000 IN POCKETS; DEAD ON THE STREET

Broker's Messenger Suddenly Expires While on His Way to Bank.

One of the victims of the heat to-day, Joseph Jackson, of No. 274 College avenue, the Bronx, who dropped dead in Park place, near Broadway, had $7,000 in his pockets when his clothes were searched. His identity was established by papers on his person, which showed him to be a messenger for Frederick Hatch, a broker, of No. 30 Broad street.

Mr. Jackson was sixty-five years old and had been with the Hatch concern for forty years. He was on his way to a bank with the money when the heat overcame him and he dropped unconscious in his tracks. A crowd gathered about him and half a dozen volunteers took care of him until a policeman arrived and summoned an ambulance.

Coroner Acritelli discovered the fortune in money secreted in a big wallet that had been handled by numerous persons. A permit was issued allowing the removal of the body to Mr. Jackson's home, where his widow and children live.

WASHINGTON PARK, BROOKLYN, July 19.—The Trolley Dodgers kept up their winning streak again to-day by trouncing Ned Hanlon's Reds from Cincinnati in the first game of the series by a score of 8 to 1.

The Reds were utterly unable to do anything with Pastorius's curves, while the Dodgers slammed Hitt's offerings to all parts of the field. The teams will play a double-header to-morrow, the first game to begin at 2 P. M.

First Inning.

Huggins slapped to right for a base. Lobert flied to Lumley. Mitchell beat out a bounder, advancing Huggins. McLean hit to Lewis, who threw to Alperman too late. Ganzel raised a foul to Casey. Kruger drove a long fly to Maloney. NO RUNS.

Alperman singled. Casey sacrificed. Mowrey to Ganzel. Lumley walked. Batch forced Lumley, Huggins to Lobert. Alperman reaching third. Jordan walked, filling the bases. Maloney forced Jordan, Lobert to Huggins. NO RUNS.

Second Inning.

Mowrey bunted out. Pastorius to first. Odwell's bounder went the same way. Hitt flied to Alperman. NO RUNS.

Lewis singled. Ritter bunted safely. Pastorius singled, filling the bases. Alperman was hit with an inshoot, forcing in Lewis. Casey was retired by Huggins and Ganzel, Ritter scoring. Lumley singled, scoring Pastorius and Alperman. Batch flied to Mitchell, who doubled Lumley by running in and touching first unassisted. FOUR RUNS.

Third Inning.

Huggins flied to Casey. Lobert singled to the infield. Mitchell bounced to Alperman, who threw him out. Lobert taking second. McLean flied to Lumley. NO RUNS.

Jordan singled. Maloney singled, but as Jordan tried to reach third he was nailed. Odwell to Mowrey. Maloney reaching second. Lewis singled, Maloney scoring, and on the threw to the plate Lewis reached second. Ritter lined to Ganzel. Pastorius struck out. ONE RUN.

Fourth Inning.

Ganzel struck out. Kruger singled. Mowry flied to Lumley. Odwell singled. Hitt out, Lewis to Jordan. NO RUNS.

Alperman walked. Casey's grounder was fumbled by Lobert, both runners being safe. Lumley fanned. Batch singled, scoring Alperman, and on the throw in Casey reached third and Batch second. Jordan hit to Ganzel, and Casey was run down, Ganzel to McLean to Mowrey. Maloney struck out. ONE RUN.

Fifth Inning.

Huggins out, Lewis to Jordan. Lobert singled. Alperman muffed Mitchell's fly, but managed to get the ball to Lewis and catch Lobert at second. McLean hit for three bases, scoring Mitchell. Ganzel flied to Lumley. ONE RUN.

Lewis fouled to Ganzel. Ritter flied to Odwell. Pastorius singled. Alperman flied to Odwell. NO RUNS.

Sixth Inning.

Kruger singled through Casey. Mowrey hit into a double play, Pastorius to Alperman, to Jordan. Odwell doubled. Hitt filed to Maloney. NO RUNS.

Casey lined to Huggins. Lumley out.

FAKE BADGES IN BETTING RING AT BRIGHTON TRACK

Stewards Issue an Order to Cashiers to Examine All Presented.

BRIGHTON BEACH RESULTS.

FIRST RACE—Uncle (2 to 5 and out) 1, Gene Russell (7 to 10 for place) 2, Dead Gone 3.

SECOND RACE—Blue Pigeon (9 to 10 and 1 to 3) 1, Thistledale (1 to 3 for place) 2, Judge O'Gin 3.

THIRD RACE—McCarter (2 to 7 and out) 1, Cressina (3 to 5 for place) 2, Kentucky Beau 3.

FOURTH RACE—Rapid Water (2 to 1 and 4 to 5) 1, Rye (7 to 5 for place) 2, Orbicular 3.

FIFTH RACE—Nimbus (4 to 5 and 1 to 3) 1, The Squire (7 to 10 for place) 2, Imitator 3.

SIXTH RACE—Sonoma Belle (16 to 5 and 4 to 5) 1, Flavigny (10 to 1 for place) 2, Racine 3.

BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACK, July 19.—The stewards here issued an order to the ring cashiers to-day to look out for counterfeit badges and to examine all badges thoroughly at the cashing-in line. No counterfeits, however, were discovered.

That there was something in the quest for counterfeit badges later became apparent when Otto Steifel, who once owned Columbia Girl, bet $1,000 against $700 on Cressina for the place in the third race, but when he went to collect the bet had already been paid.

Steifel didn't lose the money, but Bookmaker Brown did. He insisted on paying Steifel.

Uncle Won the First.

Spooner and The Squire were scratched from the opening event, leaving J. E. Madden's Uncle a prohibitive favorite at 2 to 5. Miller had the mount on Golden Pearl, but this company was too shifty for the Joyner colt. Gene Russell broke in front, but Uncle soon went up to him and held the lead to the end. Gene Russell hung on gamely under the whip, but never troubled Uncle. Jack McGinnis's Dead Gone was third, three lengths back.

Entry Ran One-Two.

The Colt entry ran one-two in the steeplechase, with Judge O'Gin third. There were all sorts of tips on this race, one in particular on Leonalla. She finished absolutely last. After the first jump, where Progress threw Davidson, who appeared to be badly hurt, Thistledale went off as if he was going to make a runaway race of it. He stuck it out until the second round, where he began to come back. Blue Pigeon, his stable mate, caught him and at the last jump was ridden out to come away and win handily.

Mile Record Still Stands.

The mile record still stands. McCarter, Kentucky Beau and Cressina went after the old mark, in the third race here to-day, but 1.39 was the best McCarter, the winner, could hang up. The association keeps the extra $1,000 offered to the horse that could beat 1.38. There was nothing exceptionally fast about to-day's attempt at record breaking. The field was sent away on a line, with Kentucky Beau getting round the turn first and leading at the quarter in 0.24. At the half McCarter was in front and as far as the race was concerned he had it won then. The half was run in 0.47 and the five furlongs in a minute flat. McCarter meanwhile had lengthened his lead to two lengths, and Kentucky Beau had dropped out of it. Cressina made an attempt to make up some ground and did so just before the stretch was reached. In the stretch Miller and McCarter were never in danger. She reached the seven-eighths in 1.25, and came swinging home in 1.39, nearly two seconds slower than Charles Edward ran here on July 10.

Race Won by Rapid Water.

Rapid Water was added from the "also eligibles" in the fourth race, and was plunged on by the club-house crowd. The public took Orbicular, and the Lord Lovat tip sent other thousands into the ring. The club-house bettors cashed, for Rapid Water won easily from Rye, with Orbicular third. In the backstretch Tommy Waddell led for a while, but shut up at the stretch turn. Radtke was up in the stand after the race, going through all the motions of a race, but the result wasn't changed.

Nimbus Won by Four Lengths.

Backers of Queen Marguerite, a 50 to 1 shot, were jubilant for a while during the running of the fifth race. She was off flying and beat Nimbus the hot favorite to the stretch turn, where she blew up. Nimbus then came on to win in a gallop by four lengths. The Squire was second. Imitator ran a remarkable race, getting off badly in the ragged start. She came all around the field to get third money.

Head-and-Head Finish.

Sonoma Belle's great stretch run won the sixth event by a head from Flavigny, who beat Racine a head, a real blanket finish. The ring took in bundles of money on First Mason and kept it. He never was prominent.

May Postpone Polo Meet.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Threatening clouds and light showers threatened to cause a postponement in the opening of the national championship polo tournament, scheduled to open to-day at Onwentsia. The field was soft from the effects of the rain.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, July 19.—The Cubs gave the Giants one of the severest drubbings ever seen here, when they walked away with the opening game of the all-important series by a score of 12 to 3.

McGinnity was pounded all over the lot, and at the end of the ninth the New York fielders were weary from chasing long drives. It was a hard-fought contest up to the ninth inning, when the Giants apparently lost their nerve, allowing Chicago to make seven safe hits and as many runs.

Brown pitched an excellent game for Chicago, and topped it off in the ninth with a home run drive into the bleachers, with two on bases.

First Inning.

Slagle tripled to left. Sheckard walked. Schulte doubled, scoring Slagle. Chance flied to Seymour, and Sheckard scored. Steinfeldt singled, scoring Schulte. Tinker singled and Steinfeldt was forced at second, Dahlen to Strang. Kling walked. Brown struck out. THREE RUNS.

Shannon out, Chance to Brown. Browne out, Brown to Chance. Devlin walked. Seymour out, Evers to Chance. NO RUNS.

Second Inning.

Slagle walked and went to second on Sheckard's sacrifice. Devlin to Bresnahan. Schulte hit to Strang, but Bresnahan missed the throw and Slagle scored, while Schulte took second. Chance's grounder bounced from McGinnity, but Devlin got it and put Schulte out. Steinfeldt singled and Chance took third. On an attempted double steal Steinfeldt was run down, Bowerman to Dahlen, to Bresnahan, to Strang. ONE RUN.

Bresnahan fouled to Kling. Dahlen beat a slow one toward third, and went to second on a passed ball. Evers threw out Strang, and Dahlen took third. Bow-

DEATHS.

AVORELLO, PATRICICIAN, nine months old, No. 230 Mulberry street.

BARYLEZYUSKY, JOSEPH, four months old.

GARET, FRANCIS, nine months old, No. 555 West Fiftieth street.

HALLERAN, MICHAEL, thirty-two years old, No. 2453 Third avenue.

HESS, AUGUST, sixty years old, No. 777 St. Ann's avenue.

HILBROTH, JOHN, No. 27 Johnson avenue, dropped dead at Morgan avenue and Stagg street, Brooklyn.

HOSTER, ANTHONY, one year old, No. 426 East Eighty-sixth street.

JACKSON, JOSEPH, sixty-five years old, No. 374 College avenue, Bronx. Dropped dead at No. 22 Park place.

LUPBERT, CHARLES A., thirty years old, No. 1171 Kelley street, Bronx.

M'CARTLAND, CATHERINE, six years old, No. 121 Rogers avenue, Brooklyn; went to roof to escape heat and fell to her death.

PROSTRATIONS.

BADER, JOHN, seventeen years old, of No. 86 Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn; to Hudson Street Hospital.

HOFFMAN, FRANK, thirty years, of No. 203 Wyckoff avenue, Brooklyn; went home.

LECOUNT, HARRY, twenty-one years, of No. 61 Gansevoort street; to Roosevelt Hospital.

CORCORAN, JOHN, thirty-seven years old, No. 190 Park Row; to Hudson Street Hospital.

MCENTEE, BARNEY, twenty-seven years old, No. 40 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street; to St. Gregory's Hospital.

A record of tragedies due to yesterday's trying heat and the residue of torridity remaining in the atmosphere piled up at the Coroners' Office and Police Headquarters today. Some deaths were reported as directly due to the suffocating heat and humidity, and more were attributable to the weather. One was the death of a child allowed to seek comfort on the top of a house.

She was Catherine McCartland, six years old, of Brooklyn, who tumbled a distance of six stories to the pavement below and was crushed to death by the fall. Three-year-old David Rubin, of No. 534 Brooke avenue, the Bronx, was put by his mother out on the fire-escape to sleep this morning. He rolled through the space between the railing bars to the courtyard, two stories below. He was taken to the Lincoln Hospital. He may recover.

To-day's prostrations and deaths came more as an aftermath of yesterday's heat than as a direct result of to-day's weather, which was pleasant. Up to noon the temperature had not climbed to within five degrees of its high mark yesterday and the humidity was from 30 to 40 per cent. lower. The forecast is also refreshing, as it promises cool breezes and showers for the next two days.

Had the heat of yesterday and the day before continued, the death list, physicians declare, would have been enormous. Weakened by more than fifty hours of sweltering, the people of the crowded districts could not have stood the strain.

The whole eastern country was affected by the temperature. At New Haven many factories closed at noon.

WERE TRYING TO STEAL KISS AND NOT A RING.

Edward J. Runden, twenty-seven, of No. 240 West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street; Thomas J. Allen, twenty-nine, of No. 63 East One Hundred and Fifth street, and William Dempsey, twenty-five, of No. 1112 Second avenue, all electricians employed by the New York Telephone Company, who were arrested last night on complaint of Mrs. Sadie Uiman, who claimed to have been robbed of a ring, were discharged to-day. They claimed it was kisses they were after—not the lady's ring.

'YOU WOULDN'T DARE SAY THAT OUTSIDE'—JEROME

Challenges Inquisitor Shearn When Suggestion Is Made That He Purposely Shields Names of Campaign Contributors.

TIME WASN'T OPPORTUNE TO "TRAIL CORRUPTION."

Believed Penal Code Violated by Mutual Life, But Didn't Want to Prejudice Election of Officers—Metropolitan Probe Didn't Go Very Deep, He Admits.

District-Attorney Jerome, pierced by a bitter shaft in the searching inquiry into his official acts by Clarence R. Shearn, counsel for W. R. Hearst, whom he is suing for $200,000 damages for alleged libel, to-day resented a question with a retort that might have led to an encounter of more than words, had it not been for the semi-court dignity of the examination. Mr. Shearn asked if the District-Attorney was ignorant of the names of those who contributed to his campaign funds for the same reason that the officials of the Metropolitan Railway Company did not choose to inquire into the manner in which moneys were expended when paid to alleged jury-fixers.

Jerome blazed into anger and even dropped his cigarette in his emotion, as he told Shearn the insinuation was untrue, that no gentleman would make it and that he would not have dared make it in private, outside of the court-room.

He then explained that the reason why he did not want to know who backed him in the race for office was that he did not want to be hampered by personal obligation in the discharge of his official duty.

Stump Talk Doesn't Count.

He was closely questioned as to his public utterances on the stump during his campaigns for office and his record as a prosecutor of those whom he had promised were to come under the lash of his scourging action as a county officer. In one case, hard pressed, he said his utterances on the stump were based on current beliefs, while as an official his acts were guided by evidence.

Through it all Jerome defeated the main object of his inquisitor—the production of the list of names of those who subscribed to his campaign fund. He never had seen it, he alleged, although he knew $5,000 was unexpended at the close of his campaign.

The examination was temporarily broken off while Supreme Court Justice Dayton heard argument on a disputed point.

Mr. Shearn, who got the order for Jerome's examination in advance of trial yesterday afternoon, asked the District-Attorney to furnish him with a list of the men who contributed to Mr. Jerome's campaign fund in 1905. Mr. Jerome said he didn't have the list; that he had purposely refrained from looking at it because he did not want to know who had given to it. The fund, he said, was entirely in the hands of Howard S. Gans, one of his assistants, who is now, as it happens, in Europe.

"If the paper is under Mr. Jerome's control, I rule that he should produce it in this court for my consideration at the trial," said Justice Dayton. "If it is not under his control I have no power to force him to produce it."

"We will endeavor to produce it at the trial of this case, Your Honor," said Mr. Rand, smiling broadly.

After the argument all hands went back to Part VII. for the continuation of the examination of Mr. Jerome by Mr. Shearn.

"How much of your campaign fund remained unused when the election was over?" asked Shearn.

"Mr. Gans told me there was about $5,000 remaining," said Jerome.

"Did it occur to you to send that $5,000 back to Mr. Sam Untermyer?" asked Shearn.

"It did not, any more than it occurred to me to send it to you."

"Didn't Judge Herrick come to you after your election and tell you that he believed President Peabody, of the Mutual Life, had been guilty of offenses against the Penal Code?"

"Although this matter is not mere-

BOTH TELEGRAPH COMPANIES TAKE BACK OPERATORS

Peace has come in the war between the operators and the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies in San Francisco, which avoids a threatened national strike.

Robert C. Clowry, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, issued the following statement late to-day:

"The difference between the Western Union Telegraph Company and its former employees at San Francisco and Oakland have been settled. The company will re-employ all reliable and efficient operators who left its service, on their individual applications, and at the salaries paid when they quit work."

No recognition of a union among the telegraphers is recognized by the telegraph companies, according to Mr. Clowry.

Charles T. McInerney, secretary of Local No. 16 of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, when officially told that a settlement had been effected, said: "In behalf of the telegraphers, you may quote me as saying that we are very glad to learn that a settlement has been reached."

Vice-President E. J. Nally, of the Postal Telegraph Company, also verified the agreement between the telegraphers and the telegraph companies have been agreed upon in San Francisco, and the agreement has been ratified.
