WON BALL GAME, THEN ENDED LIFE BEFORE CROWD

Pitcher Conk Jumps From Steamer Returning From Day's Outing.

By jumping from the bow of an excursion steamer while opposite North Beach, William Conk, twenty-two years old, who lived in Bergen street, near Carlton avenue, Brooklyn, committed suicide in the presence of about a hundred men who had been his companions at an outing. His body was not recovered.

Several hundred members of the New American Club, a political organization on the lower west side, left on the steamer Sea Gull for Witzel's Point, L. I., yesterday. Conk, who was a ball player, was to pitch on one of the teams. As the steamer passed under the Brooklyn Bridge, Conk pulled off his coat and threw it into the river, exclaiming, "This is the last time I will ever pass under this bridge."

At the grove Conk played in the ball game and his team won, but it was noticed that something was worrying him. When the steamer started back Conk went to the bow, where there were a score of his friends. Singing was indulged in during the trip, and in the middle of a song Conk got up and dived overboard before any one could stop him.

The steamer was stopped, but no trace of the body could be found. The Sound steamer Edgemont stopped and threw her searchlight about the spot for more than half an hour, but in vain.

KERRY WILL DROP "KINGDOM" TITLE

Famous Irish County Will Vote Against It at Great Reunion.

"'The Kingdom of Kerry' is doomed! The people of that world-famed county have decided to officially repudiate the title of kingdom which has hung to it for 1,728 years and 2 months." Dennis J. Buckley, president of the Kerry Men's Protective and Benevolent Association, to-day is authority for this statement.

"We have decided to cut out the title kingdom because the people in the old land are great admirers of the republican form of government and the Kerry men here have no use for a king anyhow. If we give the county a title at all we will call it a republic."

The Kerrys were all tickled when they heard of this move of President Buckley. The subject will be voted upon at the yearly gathering of the Kerry clans at their picnic and games in Sulzer's Harlem River Park next Saturday. It is expected that there will be a full representation of the Sullivans, Moriartys, Buckleys, Quinlans, O'Briens, Murphys and Kellys, of whom there are a quarter of a million in Greater New York, when the vote is being taken. It will be the twenty-seventh anniversary of the formation of the society.

Befittingly honor the event the grounds of the park will be laid out in imitation of an Irish crossroads, with hawthorn scrubbery lining the streets. The most expert Gaelic dancers in America will foot it in the middle of the road, as was the good old custom in Ireland. Hanging in the shrubbery will be cages containing hundreds of linnets, thrushes and skylarks, imported by Matt Brassel and Father Henry, and the most skilful Irish bagpipers will furnish the dancing tunes. Please remember that these Irish bagpipers give real music, not to be confounded with the Scotch or Italian article. Go hear them play.

ACID INJECTION BRINGS "DEAD" BURGLAR TO LIFE.

Man Who Fell at Policeman's Threat to Shoot Fooled the Bluecoats.

With revolvers drawn three policemen pursued two burglars through Avenue B yesterday afternoon. When near Seventeenth street one of the policemen levelled his revolver at one of the burglars and ordered him to stop or be shot.

The man fell to the sidewalk as though dead. When the policemen gathered around they saw that he had apparently ceased to breath, and not a muscle in his body moved. Dr. Sears, who came in an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital, smiled when told what had taken place, and said he would quickly determine whether the burglar was shamming or not.

Taking a hypodermic syringe, he filled it with fiery acid. He then administered a small injection. As quickly as he had fallen "dead" the burglar sprang to his feet with his hand clasped to the spot where the injection had been made. He said he thought the policeman had fired and wanted to appear injured so he would be taken to the hospital instead of to the police station.

The burglars had forced an entrance to the home of Mrs. Abraham Kessler, of No. 295 Avenue B, and when she tried to drive them out they attacked her. Mr. Kessler heard her cries and came to the rescue. The burglars knocked him down and fled. Then the chase began.

WEDDING GUESTS THROWN INTO PANIC

Fight Over Twenty Cents Almost Prevented the Ceremony.

Starting in a disagreement over the amount due for hat checks, a fight developed last night at the Central Hall, at No. 1915 Third avenue, which threatened to break up the wedding ceremony of Miss Marie Rosenfield, of No. 72 East One Hundred and Tenth street, and her husband-to-be, Samuel Chuck, of No. 95 East One Hundred and Sixth street.

Seated on the platform at one end of the hall, the bridal couple were receiving congratulations when there came from the entrance the sounds of an altercation. The doorman, Jake Greenberg, was trying to collect 20 cents hat-check money from two men, who afterwards said they were Ike Woods, of No. 7 Morton street, Boston, and Samuel Miller, of No. 64 East Seventy-second street.

The women in the room screamed as the three men came to blows. One woman ran crying into the street, and attracted the attention of a crowd who had been watching guests arrive.

There was a wild scramble of the crowd to reach the door of the hall when a man, whose head was cut, and whose face was red with blood, came out and fled down the street for the police.

Detectives Higgins and Naughton, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, found the guests in a state of wild confusion.

The rabbi who was to have performed the ceremony had disappeared. The bride had fainted, and the bridegroom was making frantic efforts to find some one who could manage the tumult and find the rabbi.

The presence of the policemen quelled the trouble, and after they had arrested Greenberg, charged with assault, and Ike Woods, charged with disorderly conduct, the ceremony proceeded.

TEAMSTER DIES SUDDENLY.

Charles Brown, fifty years old, was found dead in bed to-day in his room in the Alabama Lodging-House, on the Bowery. Dr. McCrea, of the Gouverneur Hospital, said that heart disease was the probable cause of his death. Brown was a teamster.

Stirring After-Inventory Bargains in the Basement Clearance of Women's Apparel.

Basement.

WHEN a store, carrying suits and garments of the high character as does the Simpson Crawford Store, announces a final clearance of its stock, it means a great deal.

It means that every suit involved in the clearance is an embodiment of the smartest style, high quality fabrics and best workmanship. It means, too, that the regularly low standard of pricing has been lowered about fifty per cent. to effect a speedy achievement of the object in view.

Women who are economy-wise will therefore appreciate the importance to individuality of this sale, and it would be superfluous to advise that they take advantage of its opportunities. It might be well, however, to suggest early purchasing, as naturally those coming first will have the widest choice.

Four of the Clearance Specials.

150 Women's $5 Linene Suits at $1.97.

These are fashioned in a particularly smart Prince Chap style, like illustration, of an excellent quality of linene. The coats are double-breasted, with collar and cuffs trimmed of contrasting colors, and the skirts are full pleated models, with or without folds.

250 Women's $4 Linene Skirts at $1.79.

They are made up of good quality linene or poplinette, in several attractive models. Some are full pleated, with or without folds, and others are effectively trimmed with embroidery.

Women's $3 All-Wool Panama Skirts at $1.87

Tailored of plain all-wool Panama and cheviot, with invisible stripes, in a very full 27-gored, plaited model. Some have kilts at foot finished off with tabs. Colors blue, black and brown.

Basement Sale of Women's Bathing Suits at $1.55

At this price have been grouped together our entire basement stocks of Bathing Suits. The styles are various. One especially attractive model is made with surplice neck effect, with or without sailor collar, and smartly trimmed with good washable braid.
