aroused the neighborhood. Men came pouring from the apartment-houses and private homes in the neighborhood. These men took the course followed by the policemen. Kearns came upon his man hiding under some shrubbery near the Harlem mere. He ordered the man to hold up his hands, when suddenly he was attacked with the fury of a maniac. Dehrankent came to Kearns's aid and the two beat the man down with their nightsticks.

At the West One Hundredth street police station Miss Wilbert identified the man. Then he gave his name as Petro Dowrie, twenty-six, of No. 215 Eighth avenue. He said he was a fruit dealer.

When Dowrie was arraigned in the West Side Court by Policeman Kearns Miss Wilbert failed to appear against him. Kearns said that he had gone to the addresses she had given, but could not find her there. Magistrate Corrigan said that she was undoubtedly keeping away in order to avoid notoriety. He ordered the prisoner held on a short affidavit and instructed Kearns to find the nurse between to-day and to-morrow, when the Italian will be arraigned again.

ACCUSED ITALIAN ROUGHLY HANDLED.

Guiseppe Tristre, an Italian of New Rochelle, was arraigned in the Night Police Court charged with attacking Miss May Mace, sixteen years old, of No. 360 Seventh avenue. His eyes were closed, his face and body cut and bruised from head to foot and he was weak from loss of blood, having narrowly escaped death at the hands of a mob that had chased him five blocks through the Tenderloin last night. The police saved him.

Miss Mace was standing in the doorway of her home when the Italian approached her.

"I want you to come and have some ice-cream with me," he said.

Miss Mace turned without answering him, when it is alleged that the man seized her. She fought with all her strength, and breaking free from his grasp ran down the street, pursued by the Italian. She burst into the doors of "Bob" Nelson's saloon at Thirtieth street and Seventh avenue, which offered the first place of refuge.

Peter McDonald, of No. 360 West Thirty-first street, heard the girl's story and dashed into the street in time to see the Italian run through Thirty-first street toward Sixth avenue. Other men took up the chase and soon the men chasing the Italian had assumed the proportions of an angry mob.

At Sixth avenue the man tured north. Reaching Thirty-first street he swung around the corner and sprinted toward Eighth avenue. At the corner of Thirty-first street and Eighth avenue McDonald ran up to the Italian. Men beat him to the ground with their fists and then they trampled upon him. They were kicking the life out of Tristre when the police came. When the Italian was rescued he was more dead than alive.

Felix Fillers, a broker living in Flatbush, who was in the mob, was arrested. The charge against him was attempting to take a prisoner from the police.

Magistrate Kernochan held the Italian in $500 bail for examination to-morrow on the attempted assault charge.

GIVES CANDY TO CHILDREN, GETS 90 DAYS' SENTENCE

James Allison, thirty-one years old, a porter in a saloon at No. 306 River street, Hoboken, was given a sentence of ninety days in the penitentiary to-day in the Recorder's Court at Hoboken, on the charge of being a disorderly person.

In reality Allison's offense consisted in giving pennies and candy to Ollie and Meme Birts, the little daughters of a woman who lives at No. 204 River street. The mother had caused his arrest, saying she believed he had an evil purpose. Allison protested that he meant no harm, but his plea didn't do him any good.

SLAIN WOMAN NOW IDENTIFIED AS ELLA DRENKEN

There was another identification this morning of the body of the young woman found murdered in an areaway in front of No. 204 East Ninetieth street a week ago.

Sunday night the body was fully identified as that of Ella Miller Renton. To-day Mrs. Catherine Sims, who said she lived at No. 74 Third avenue, called at the morgue, and, after looking at the body made positive identification of it, and said she had known the young woman under the name of Ella Drenken, twenty-one years old and single, and that she lived at No. 12 Washington Terrace. She said she had not seen the young woman for several weeks.

Woman Who Would Be Firebug and House She Tried to Burn

23 1/2 E. 80TH ST.—MATILDA GARDNER.

GIRL'S CRIES PUT TO FLIGHT MAN WHO ACCOSTS HER.

Sadie Momat, thirteen years old, of No. 251 Madison street, was standing in the hallway of a clothing house at No. 200 Greene street this afternoon waiting for her mother, who was delivering a bundle, when a young man accosted her. She answered him, and he stepped into the hallway with her.

His actions caused the girl to scream. The man ran across the street and into No. 197 Greene street, with the girl in pursuit. Policeman Irvine joined the chase, and made a search of the building. He caught one man, but the girl could not identify him.

O'KEEFFE'S NEW RULE AROUSES CORONER'S IRE.

Acting Police Commissioner O'Keeffe issued the following order to-day:

"Commanding officers will instruct the members of the police force that in all cases of murder, homicide, assault or similar cases they prevent any one from coming in contact with the body of the victim or any object in the immediate vicinity of the crime until some one from the Detective Bureau appears, so that a careful search can be made for finger print marks. In the event of representatives of the Coroner or District-Attorney reaching the scene before the police officer from the Detective Bureau the officer first on duty at the scene will request that the conditions of this order be observed."

When the order was seen by Coroner Harburger, the President of the Board of Coroners, he said the Acting Police Commissioner was exceeding his rights. The Coroner said Section 1776, of the New York Consolidation Act provides that no one but the Coroner or his clerk shall touch the body or clothing of any one who meets a violent death, until permitted by the Coroner or his representative.

GIRL'S ANNOYER GOES TO PRISON FOR THREE YEARS.

Magistrate Wahle, in Harlem Court to-day, read a lengthy opinion in sending Dominic Reda to the New York Reformatory for a term that may last three years for annoying twelve-year-Jennie Fitzgerald, of No. 104 Lenox avenue. Reda is nineteen years old, and had a bootblack stand at One Hundred and Sixteenth street and Lenox avenue.

HAD FIGHT WITH BOSS, BUT MOB DIDN'T KNOW IT.

"In these parlous crime-waving times the man who runs is the man who suffers, especially if he be a brunette. Just to show:

Jeneta Fosta, a nineteen-year-old Italian, of No. 316 East Fifty-sixth street, quarrelled with his boss, Conrad Ottoff, as the two were loading one of Ottoff's ice wagons at the foot of East Seventeenth street this afternoon. In the course of the argument Jeneta was moved to lam the boss on the head with a pair of ice tongs. After which he took it on the hop.

As he ran past Stable A of the Street Cleaning Department the stable hands jumped at the conclusion that he had been attacking a little girl. They also jumped at Jeneta.

It took Policeman Foley, then a patrol wagon, then half a dozen extra cops to get the ice-wagon driver away from the mob that wanted to lam him.

Fosta was arraigned before Magistrate Breen in the Yorkville Court and held in $1,000 bail for further examination to-day.

RICH MAN DIES ON TRAIN, POLICE HOLD HIS NURSE

Coroner Acts on Conflicting Stories Told of Valuables of Albert Littlefield.

ALBANY, Aug. 6.—Albert Littlefield, President of the Littlefield Manufacturing Company, of Pawtucket, R. I., died suddenly on a train which arrived here from Saranac Lake early to-day.

James J. Finnegan, who said he was a nurse and employed by Mr. Littlefield for several weeks, was detained at police headquarters here at the direction of Coroner Schupp. Finnegan was held because of the conflicting stories told by him relative to Mr. Littlefield's valuables. An investigation is being made.

BROKER ENDS HIS LIFE BY PISTOL IN LARCHMONT CLUB.

a successful trader for many years and was well known in yachting circles. He made his home in Larchmont and was a member of the Larchmont Yacht Club and the famous Larchmont Volunteer Fire Department, the membership of which is composed almost exclusively of millionaires.

In 1897 Mr. Alley failed. Through an arrangement with his creditors he was enabled to resume business, and everything went smoothly with him until in the summer of 1904, when the Stock Exchange opened a war upon the connection between certain Stock Exchange houses and houses doing business on the Consolidated Exchange.

Mr. Alley's firm, Alley, Conger & Co., was one of eleven to fall under suspicion. The telephones of these firms were summarily removed from the trading floor of the Stock Exchange. In September, 1904, Mr. Alley's firm was suspended from the Stock Exchange for one year. The Board of Governors reinstated him in May, 1906.

Forced Into Bankruptcy.

The suspension was a blow to Mr. Alley's business from which it failed to recover. He always insisted that he had been unjustly treated and appeared to lose interest in his trades. In July, 1906, William Oothout secured a judgment against him for $25,276 on a note. When the judgment was entered Mr. Alley was suspended from the Stock Exchange, according to the rules.

He took to trading on the curb, but was unable to retrieve his fortunes, which went from bad to worse. On May 4 last he filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of nearly $200,000 and no assets.

Following that he continued his curb operations at No. 43 Exchange place. The slump yesterday completely wiped out his resources and he was very despondent when he returned to Larchmont from Wall street last night.

By a peculiar coincidence the news of Mr. Alley's suicide first reached Wall street on the ticker tape right in the rush of opening quotations showing a general decline in the market. Mr. Alley had been out of active business so long that his death had no effect upon trading, but the news caused sorrow to all the old-timers who knew him well in his days of prosperity, when he had his own yacht and was a liberal entertainer.

STEAMER RAMS A BARK.

LAS PALMAS, Aug. 6.—The German steamer Windhuk, from Hamburg, was in collision to-day with the Norwegian bark Agda, recently arrived from Fernandina. The Agda sustained considerable damage.

SAY OLD WOMAN TURNED FIREBUG TO GET REVENGE

Mrs. Matilda Gardner Held After Blaze Was Started in a Tenement.

SHE WAS DISPOSSESSED.

Building Where 150 Persons Live Has Been Fired Three Different Times.

An old wrinkled woman, shrunken in stature to the height of a child, was arraigned in Harlem Police Court to-day on a charge of attempting to burn down the flat-house at No. 232 East Eightieth street. It is said she was caught last night in a hallway on the third floor, firing a pile of newspapers. In her pocket was a bottle filled with kerosene.

It is charged that to gratify a grudge against the landlord of the house this old woman—Mrs. Matilda Gardner—endangered the lives of 150 persons on three different occasions. There are more than one hundred children in the house. She refused to confess or make a denial, and at the request of Fire Marshal McGuire Magistrate Wahle held her in $1,000 bail for trial.

Put Out of the Flat.

Mrs. Gardner, with her husband, a waiter, who is now employed in the country, formerly lived at No. 232 East Eightieth street. She had lived in a flat on the third floor for years. When her husband went away in the spring she fell behind in the rent, and a month ago she was dispossessed.

The old woman moved to No. 220 East Eightieth street, and the flat she vacated was rented by Mrs. Edna Carling. Mrs. Gardner appeared to be unable to keep away from her old home and spent much of her time sitting on the front stoop.

A week after Mrs. Carling moved into the house a fire was kindled in the hallway outside her door. It was discovered just in time to avert a disastrous blaze. While there was no doubt that the fire had been kindled by an incendiary suspicion attached to the shrinking old woman who had been dispossessed.

Second Blaze Started.

Two weeks passed, and again an attempt was made to destroy the flat-house by fire. As on the former occasion, the blaze was started in the hallway outside the door of Mrs. Carling's apartment. As soon as she could obtain other quarters Mrs. Carling moved away. Neighbors noticed that old Mrs. Gardner was an interested spectator when Mrs. Carling's furniture was carried off.

Following the second attempt to burn the building James Gilroy, the janitor, and several of the tenants established a guard. They stood watch in relays through the night on the third floor, hiding in a place from which a view could be obtained of the door of the flat from which Mrs. Gardner had been dispossessed.

Gilroy and Philip Levine, a tenant, were on watch at 2 o'clock this morning. They heard a noise in the hall and saw an old woman carrying a bundle of newspapers in her arm sneak up the stairway and make her way along the wall, in the shadow, to the door of the marked flat.

Then Lighted a Match.

There she dropped the newspapers. She was leaning over them with a lighted match in her hand, when the janitor and Levine seized her.

They found that they had caught Mrs. Gardner. Old as she is and feeble, she fought viciously with her captors, continuing her resistance until she was turned over to Policeman Fuller, of the East Eighty-eighth street station. When searched at the station-house the bottle of kerosene oil was found in her pocket.

Her first explanation was that she had been out late and had reached the wrong house on her way home because she had forgotten that she had been dispossessed. When asked about the lighted match, she said she had been searching for some money she dropped on the floor. She denied any knowledge of the previous attempts to burn the building.

Fire Marshal McGuire is of the opinion that the old woman was spurred to a murderous feeling of revenge by her expulsion from the flathouse. In her desire to hurt the landlord she lost sight of the sleeping women and children in the house, many of whom had been her friends.

COMSTOCK CLOSE TO A WALLOPING

Bumps Into Crescent Athlete and Calls Him "Hog" at Post-Office.

Anthony Comstock, head of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, narrowly escaped being pummelled in the Post-Office Building to-day, because he called a man who bumped into him a "big hog." The man who offended is said to have been one of the best athletes of the Crescent Athletic Club, of Brooklyn, and is a giant in physique. He said afterward: "Nothing but the old man's years prevented me from hitting him, after he shoved me out of his way."

The story, as told by onlookers, is to the effect that Comstock was coming out of the Post-Office building. In his hands was a letter which he was reading intently, and as he was about to pass through the door into Broadway he encountered the athlete and a friend who was with him, and there was a collision which ruffled the vice-hunter, and, turning to the younger man, he said:

"You're a hog. Why don't you look where you are going? You saw me here and you deliberately bumped into me. You're a hog, that's what you are."

"You have a nerve to call anybody a hog," replied the Crescent man, apparently not recognizing Comstock. "Your very appearance stamps you as the real hog."

This reply caused the old man to fly into a rage and he raised his hand as if to strike the young fellow, but seemed satisfied to try and push him aside to get past. But he might as well have tried to move a stone wall. It looked as though there would be a fight, but the younger man kept cool and did not attempt to strike Comstock, who had by this time become furious and threatened to have him locked up, but left the building without carrying out his threat.

Employees in the Post-Office later told the young man that the "old crank" was Anthony Comstock.

WARSHIPS SHELL MOROCCAN TOWN; MANY ARE KILLED

Land Battery at Casablanca Returns Fire of French and Spanish.

TROOPS ARE LANDED.

Moorish Commander Seeks Pardon After Fight, but Surrender Ordered.

TANGIER, Aug. 6.—The French cruiser Galilee was bombarding the Moorish quarter of Casablanca and the neighborhood of the city when the last steamer, which has just arrived here, left that port.

The Kabyles attacked Casablanca and the Moorish authorities applied to the commander of the Galilee for assistance. He thereupon landed sixty men and a Spanish cruiser landed forty.

This landing party was fired on by the Kabyles, and seven Frenchmen, including an officer, were wounded.

The combined Franco-Spanish force thereupon cleared the city of hostile tribesmen, guards were placed about the foreign consulates and then the Galilee opened fire with her big guns on the rebels.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A special despatch received here from Tangier to-day describing the bombardment of Casablanca says that the French cruiser Du Chayla and the Spanish gunboat Don Alvaro de Bazan participated with the Galilee in the bombardment of the villages surrounding Casablanca, which were destroyed by the fire of the warships.

During the bombardment large reinforcements of tribesmen came up and many of them were killed or wounded.

The Casablanca battery joined in the firing on the foreign warships, whereupon the guns of the French and Spanish cruisers were turned on the battery, which soon caused the Moorish commander to send a messenger to the French Admiral requesting his pardon.

This was refused and the Admiral sent a peremptory order to the Moorish commander to surrender himself to the French Consul.

According to another special dispatch from Tangier about one hundred and fifty Moors were killed in the town, battery and villages around Casablanca during the bombardment of the foreign warships. The Casablanca battery was reduced to ruins by the warships' shells.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Foreign Minister Pichon and the Spanish Ambassador here, Senor Leon Y. Castillo, have agreed on the terms of a Franco-Spanish note informing the powers signatory of the Algeciras Convention, including the United States, of the intention of France and Spain to keep within the terms of the convention.

The situation after the landing of troops at Casablanca will largely determine the subsequent measures to be taken by France and Spain, who are charged with responsibility for the security of the Moroccan ports. No outside power is expected to co-operate with the two powers mentioned. The French Government has no confirmation of the reports thhat British or German warships are on their way to Morocco.

MADRID, Aug. 6.—The garrison of Algeciras, near Gibraltar, has been ordered to be placed on a war footing, with the view of sending troops from there to Morocco.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—A special despatch received here from Tangier to-day says that the German Charge D'Affaires at Tangier called the attention of the French Charge D'Affaires to the dangerous position of foreigners at Mazagan, on the west coast of Morocco, and that the French official thereupon dispatched a French cruiser which arrived at Tangier yesterday to proceed to Mazagan. The many Germans at Mazagan, most of whom live outside the city, will be protected by the French cruiser.

ORAN, Algeria, Aug. 6.—The French armored cruisers Gloire, Jeanne D'Arc, Conde and Gueydon to-day embarked detachments of artillery and the foreign legion and a battalion of sharpshooters and sailed for Morocco.

TROOPS OFF TO HELP FREE MAC LEAN.

TANGIER, Morocco, Aug. 6.—A column of troops from Alcazar is marching in the direction of Fahs to co-operate with the forces of Caid Bagdani, who is seeking to effect the capture of Raisuli, the captor of Gen. Sir Harry MacLean.

On suspicion of having stolen a diamond ring valued at $1,100 from Mrs. Alice Arivo, of Pittsburg, who is a guest at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, Frank Schwartzman, employed there as a waiter, was held this morning in $1,000 bail for examination to-morrow afternoon by Magistrate Harris in the Jefferson Market Court.

Yesterday morning when Mrs. Arivo had finished breakfast she took off her ring and laid it on a tray which was on the table. She forgot it and left the table. A few minutes after she had left the dining-room she hastened back, but the waiter had gone off for the day and the ring could not be found.

The waiter denied having seen the ring when brought to court.

BROOKLYN WINS FIRST GAME OF DOUBLE-HEADER

McIntyre Is Phillippe's Master in Splendid Duel of Pitchers.

(Special to The Evening World.)

EXPOSITION PARK, PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—Brooklyn took the first game from the Pirates by the very good pitching by McIntyre. Pittsburg had half a dozen chances to score, but McIntyre kept the batters from doing anything except hitting the ball in the air. Five hits were made off the visiting twirler, three coming in the second inning, one in the fifth and the last in the eighth.

Phillippe pitched a fair game, but the errors behind him, combined with long hits, gave the visitors enough runs to win.

First Inning.

Alperman fanned. Casey flied to Clarke. Lumley out same way. NO RUNS.

Anderson safe on Alperman's fumble, but was out trying to steal, Bergen to Alperman. Casey captured Leach's high fly. Clarke struck out. NO RUNS.

Second Inning.

Lewis was thrown out by Sheehan. Jordan walked. Maloney singled. Burch flied to Abby. Bergen sent a fly to Leach. NO RUNS.

Wagner singled. Abby lined to Jordan. Nealon singled, Wagner taking second. Sheehan singled. Gibson fouled to Bergen. Phillippe flied to Lewis. NO RUNS.

Third Inning.

McIntyre doubled to right. Alperman sent him to third on a pretty sacrifice. Phillippe to Nealon. Casey fouled to Nealon. Lumley doubled, scoring McIntyre. Lewis flied to Anderson. NO RUNS.

Anderson out, McIntyre to Jordan. Leach out, Lewis to Jordan. Clarke retired, Alperman to Jordan. NO RUNS.

Fourth Inning.

Jordan flied to Gibson. Maloney out. Sheehan to Nealon. Burch out same way. NO RUNS.

Wagner walked. Abby also went four-ball route. Nealon bunted toward third as Wagner and Abby started a double steal. When Casey threw Nealon out at first Wagner scored. Sheehan flied to Lumley, whose throw home doubled up Abby. ONE RUN.

Fifth Inning.

Bergen flied to Clarke. McIntyre struck out. Alperman doubled. Casey fanned. NO RUNS.

Gibson safe on Lewis's error. Phillippe singled, sending Gibson to third. Anderson flied to Maloney. Leach fouled to Jordan. Clarke flied to Alperman. NO RUNS.

Sixth Inning.

Lumley out to Phillippe, unassisted, on his bunt. Lewis safe on Nealon's drop of Abby's toss. Jordan singled. Maloney doubled, scoring Lewis. Burch hit to Wagner, and on Gibson's drop of his throw Jordan scored. Leach got Bergen's fly and doubled Maloney at home. TWO RUNS.

Wagner walked. Abby walked. Nealon sacrificed. Casey to Jordan. Sheehan flied to Lewis. Gibson flied to Maloney. NO RUNS.

Seventh Inning.

McIntyre singled. Alperman flied to Phillippe, who threw to Nealon in time to catch McIntyre. Casey fouled to Gibson. NO RUNS.

Phillipe fouled to Casey. Anderson fanned. Leach out, Alperman to Jordan. NO RUNS.

Eighth Inning.

Lumley out to Nealon, unassisted. Lewis flied to Anderson. Jordan out, Phillippe to Nealon. NO RUNS.

Clarke made a funny hit, the ball hitting his bat behind his back. Casey got the ball and threw wild, Clarke taking second. Wagner walked. Abby sacrificed, Jordan to Alperman. Nealon fanned. Sheehan fouled to Casey. NO RUNS.

Ninth Inning.

Maloney fanned. Burch took first on Abby's fumble, but was out, Gibson to Abby, trying to steal. Bergen flied to Leach. NO RUNS.

Storke, batting for Gibson, was thrown out at first. Hallman, batting for Phillippe, flew out to Lumley. Anderson walked. Leach fanned. NO RUNS.

EXPOSITION PARK, PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—After defeating the Pirates in the first game of to-day's double-header by outplaying and outbatting them, Brooklyn took the field in the second with a determination to make it two straight.

About 5,000 persons saw the second battle.

The managers agreed to call the game at the end of the seevnth inning.

First Inning.

Alperman out, Willis to Nealon. Casey singled. Lumley hit to Nealon, who threw low to Wagner, trying to get Casey, and both were safe. Lewis forced Casey, Willis to Sheehan. Jordan died, Abby to Nealon. NO RUNS.

Anderson out, Casey to Jordan. Leach walked and stole second. Clarke struck out. Leach stole third. Wagner walked. Leach and Wagner started a double steal, both scoring on Lewis's wild throw to Ritter. Abby singled. Nealon also singled to right, Abby and Nealon pulled off a double steal, Abby scoring. Sheehan out, Louis to Jordan. THREE RUNS.

Second Inning.

Maloney out, Willis to Nealon. Burch struck out. Ritter hit to Wagner and was thrown out. NO RUNS.

Phelps flied to Burch. Willis singeld. Anderson singled. Leach flied to Maloney. Clarke tripled, scoring Willis and Anderson. Clarke got home on a passed ball. Wagner fanned. THREE RUNS.

LAD'S LIFE PRICE OF HEROISM IN SAVING HIS CHUM

Boy Dies of Lockjaw Following Hurt Received in Rescuing Another.

Alfred Leroy Whitty, nine-year-old son of a merchant in Walden-on-Hudson, died in convulsions to-day at Fordham Hospital as the result of tetanus contracted while saving the life of a chum. The young victim of lockjaw was an expert swimmer and with his boy companions spent much time this summer swimming in the Hudson. On July 24 he was in swimming when Joe Kopp was taken with cramps.

Alfred swam to the rescue and succeeded in bringing the boy to the dock. After the other boys had lifted Joe to the dock Alfred was scrambling up when he scratched his right thumb on a rusty nail. He paid no attention to it at the time, and went in swimming again last Saturday. After he had dressed he suddenly stiffened and was unable to move his jaws.

He was hurried to the Fordham Hospital, the nearest to Walden, and Dr. Louis Taft, the house surgeon, worked hard on the case. During the treatment 4,500 units of anti-toxin were administered but in vain. On Sunday morning the boy was taken with chronic convulsions, which continued until this morning when he died.
