AUSTRIAN RULER COMMON THIEF

(Correspondence Associated Press)

VIENNA, May 15.—A new turn has been given to the dispute between Italy and Austria over art collections by the statement that former Emperor Charles has carried off to Switzerland the imperial jewels, the whole of which are regarded in Austria as being his private property but claims for which have been filed by Italy, particularly the Florentine diamond of 133 1/3 karats.

The Italian Commissioner Professor D'Ancona has stated that this diamond formed part of the collection left to the city of Florence under the will of Anna Maria Medici but that it was carried off by the house of Austria in 1748, when Duke Leopold became emperor of Austria. He said that the Austrian government had been notified of the Italian claims to the jewel months ago and that if it is permitted Emperor Charles to carry it away it would be necessary to obtain possession of it again. It is unknown here whether the emperor has disposed of the diamond while in Switzerland in order to pay his living expenses.

Professor D'Ancona has carefully traced the history of this remarkable stone which legend relates was lost on the battlefield of Granson by Charles, Duke of Burgundy, six centuries ago. It was then picked up and believed to be a piece of glass and was sold for a small sum. It found its way to Switzerland where it was sold for 11,000 ducats to the Duke of Milan and brought to Rome in 1601 by Ferdinand Medici. It has been on exhibition of late years in the Hofburg Museum.

Professor D'Ancona pointed out to The Associated Press correspondent that the Austrians cannot claim that in surrendering this stone they would be injuring Vienna's art collection since they were willing to part with it to the former emperor who is now a private citizen and has left the country.

ANOTHER OUTLAW CHIEF APPEARS

(By Associated Press)

CHAUTLA, Morelos, May 22.—There is no lack of candidates to carry out the work of the late Emiliano Zapata, recently killed by the forces of General Pablo Gonzalez. Among them is Fortino Ayasuica, an outlaw chieftain, who, in a manifesto which has fallen into the hands of the federal military authorities, proclaims himself to be a worthy successor to the late "Attila of the South," if not for the reason that he was one of the signers of the Plan of Ayala which started the Zapatista movement in 1910, then because he is Zapata's nephew.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE ONE BEST BET

It is absolutely a fact that THE KICKAPAH DIVIDE MINES COM treasury stock at 10 cents per share. Why should we? There is no occasion to spend forty or fifty thousand dollars in exploration work to determine if our estate has pay ore from the grass roots down the shaft thirty feet averaging over $40.00 per ton in GOLD ORE, one-ninth being silver. This week is absolutely the last chance to get any of the 10c KICKAPAH stock. Buy now or you will tell your friends what a chance you lost in not grabbing "KICKAPAH" stock. WOMAN VOTERS RULE CHURCH

(Correspondence Associated Press)

DUBLIN, May 16.—The question of women suffrage in church government was keenly debated at the annual synod of the Protestant Episcopal church in Ireland and seven laymen were decided against the claims of the women.

Since its disestablishment and separation from the Church of England the Irish Protestant church has been a democratically governed body but only men have votes. The demand for woman suffrage was opposed by the bishops of Ossory and supported by Judge Wakely, mainly on the ground that women had shown their capacity during the war. It was strongly opposed by Dr. Bernard, the archbishop of Dublin, as not in its more representative bodies. On a vote of the whole synod the woman suffrage advocates lost by a majority, but by the constitution neither can pass unless it has a majority of both orders separately clergy and laity. The clergy decided a majority for women's suffrage but the lay vote showed a small majority against it.

The proposition is certain to be reopened.
