TOPLINERS PLAY FIVE-DAY STAND IN WORKHOUSE

Precinct Man Says Quips and Jests of Thespians Were Unseemly.

Rarely has the Workhouse had as "classy" a pair of sojourners as Ralph Post, of the "Gay White Way" Company, and Thomas Glenroy, the well-known monologist. Magistrate Wahle booked them for five days in light parts amid the embattled walls of Blackwell's Island's famous donjon keep. The Rialto shudders at their plight, for Ralph and Tom are good people, top liners and real artists. Forsooth, 'tis passing sad, yet from the sorrow one needst must draw a smile.

Ralph and Tom are great pals, and when they met on yestere'een, 'twas fitting that they should split a grape or two in honor of the encounter. And when the night shadows began to fall, the two friends, arm wound in arm, fared forth in the biting October air. Their way led them along Fourteenth street, and now and then they stopped and apostrophized the stars, drawing upon Shakespeare and other early Elizabethan poets for inspiration.

This to the Man With the Broom.

As they neared Third avenue their eyes fell upon the swarthy visage of Buoni Carozzer, a white wing. Buoni was resting upon the handle of his broom and gazing contemplatively into a wine shop, from which many gaudily labelled bottles smiled at him. The two actors brought up sharp before him and gripped each other gently about the waist. Post raised his free hand and levelled a long finger at Buoni.

"Away, accursed shape," he cried, "you soil the earth." The monologist gathered his tongue together and added:

"Shade of a fiend blacker than cimmerian night, we doom you to everlasting shackles. Minions, away with him!"

Pedestrians gathered about to listen. Buoni, realizing that he was the butt of unintelligible jests, boiled, and, raising his broom above his head, shouted:

"Getta to hell, you coupla bums."

"Ods, bobs," cried the actors in chorus, "he reviles us. To the dungeon with him."

Buoni had near him a metal barrel, mounted on two wheels, and into this the exuberant young men jammed him, head foremost. Then, while the monologist held his kicking feet, Ralph addressed the gathering crowd.

"Friends, countrymen and merry villagers: There comes a time in the lives of men when they brook not affront. Yonder struggling, caterwauling catiff hurled the deil in our teeth, and"——

But at this moment Policeman McMahon plunged into the crowd and rescued Buoni.

The "Watch" Resentful.

"What ho, the watch!" exclaimed the two artists, stepping back and bowing profoundly to the policeman. "A fair night on your head, little one."

"Shut up, or I'll run yez in," snapped the policeman.

Detective Finnegan, of the East Twenty-second street station, butted in, and, recognizing one of the two immaculately clad young men, bid them "beat it" before they got into trouble.

"Prithee, my pretty sir," said Post, with a stately bow, "and who may you be?"

"I am the princt man," responded Finnegan, "and if you fellows get fresh I'll pull you in." The two friends linked arms again.

"He is the princt man," they sang in deep basso, to the excruciating delight of the crowd that had now almost become a mob. "Yes, he is the precinct man. What, the precinct man? Yes, verily, the precinct man."

The urchins in the throng took up the chant, and, dancing about, sang, "Oh, he is the precinct man."

Chorus Incensed Finnegan.

Finnegan rose in the air with a nexplosion of wrath and seized the two actors with no gentle touch. Then he bade Policeman McManhon to escort the white wing as a complainant, and marched his prisoners to the stationhouse. Lieut. Flaherty was at the desk. When the pair were lined up Post remarked:

"Greetings, little one; again we meet in shady places."

"Jug 'em," snarled Flaherty, and, shouting sombre Shakespearean lines, they were herded to a cell. A little while later Finnegan took them out and started for the night court. They had traversed a block, when they refused to budge.

"Our legs grow limber," said the monologist, "and we desire a coach and pair."

Persuasions and threats would not move them, so a patrol wagon was provided. In whispered lines they heaped insults upon the head of the plain-clothes man, and arriving at court he got the ear of the Magistrate and related the indignities he had suffered. Buoni was also there with his plaint.

Arraigned, the friends swayed gently back and forth until finally the shining light of the "Gay White Way" spouted:

"Prompter" Butted In.

"Sleath, men, yonder judge is passing fair; how high his brow, how raven black his hair."

"His curls, thick, curly curls," whispered Glenroy in a loud aside.

"Shut up," shouted the Magistrate furiously, "and allow the complainant to talk."

"We obey, fair judge," said young Post, with top-heavy dignity. "Henceforth we are clams, silent as clams, wise as oysters, as lobsters."

The Magistrate's gavel descended with a mighty bang, and his voice stirred the rafters:

"Five days in the Workhouse; take them away."

A squad of court officers snatched them from the bridge and led them to the pen to await the Black Maria. As he left the courtroom the monologist raised his voice in tragic tones:

"Sleep, gentle sleep, how have I affrighted thee, that thou no more will weigh my eyelids down."

But the police say that the two handsome actors slept profoundly.

STOCKS RALLY ON ACTIVE BUYING

Smelting, Great Northern, Pacifics, Reading and Brooklyn Transit Leaders.

There was a substantial rally in the stock market to-day following an excited and weak opening, and a flood of liquidation. The after affect of Saturday's demoralized conditions was effectually checked. Sharp losses were recovered and the list averaged a gain of a point.

In the initial drive American Steel Foundries preferred broke 4 points, Atchison 2, Canadian Pacific 1 3-4, Reading and Erie first preferred 1 5-8, National Lead and American Car 1 1-2, United States Steel preferred and People's Gas 1 1-4 and Southern Pacific, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Delaware & Hudson a point. The first sales of United States Steel were of 3,000 shares at 22 1-2 and 23 1-8, compared with 23 7-8 on Saturday.

On the rebound Smelting recorded a clear gain of 2 1-4, Great Northern 1 3-8, Northern Pacific 1, St. Paul, Reading, Union and Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Brooklyn Rapid Transit large fractions. Buying on the rise was active.

Professional realizing affected prices in the afternoon, but the selling was at no time urgent, and the market continued very dull on the reaction. Union Pacific and Reading fell back a point and the rest about one-half. Atchison preferred improved 1¾, and Delaware & Hudson, Southern Railway preferred and Texas & Pacific 1. American Smelting's gain reached 3. The market closed active and generally higher.

22 MEN GO DOWN WITH SCAFFOLD AS IT COLLAPSES

Three Seriously Hurt, but Others Are Back at Work in a Few Minutes.

A scaffold on which twenty-two men were working collapsed to-day and dropped twenty feet in the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel near Eleventh avenue and Thirty-second street. Three of the men were seriously injured, but all the others escaped with slight bruises.

Michael Bacle, a fireman, had his right arm broken. He went to his home at No. 76 Walnut street, Hoboken, to have the bone set by his wife, saying he was afraid of ambulance doctors. Stanley Silkman, of No. 339 West Thirty-fourth street, and Michael Verle, of No. 222 Jefferson street, Hoboken, sustained internal injuries and were taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

The tunnel work at the point where the accident occurred is being prosecuted by the O'Rourke Construction Company. The twenty-two men were working on a scaffold piled high with concrete materials and the load was too heavy. All but the three who were badly hurt fell clear of the falling cement and stone and landed in soft mud.

Another scaffold was run up in a hurry. The ambulances were scarcely out of sight when the nineteen who had escaped were back at work.

HUSBAND AND WIFE DIED ON SAME DAY

Death Came Suddenly to Jersey Couple, Who Separated Eight Years Ago.

(Special to The Evening World.)

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 14.—The body of George Matts, sixty years old, who was found dead in the office of the Beer-Bottlers' Exchange, in Hackensack, last Friday, was taken to Nawark for burial this afternoon. Matts was formerly a wealthy contractor in Newark. He separated from his wife and came here eight years ago. Last fall he was elected a Justice of the Peace.

To-day word reached Undertaker Ricardo's office that Matts's wife died suddenly in Newark last Friday, the date of Matts's sudden death.

DIED ON CAB BOX.

Veteran Driver Expired at Post He Held Twenty Years.

Sitting on top of his cab outside the Bible Teachers' Training School, No. 541 Lexington avenue, William O'Gorman, fifty years old, of No. 207 East Forty-sixth street, died suddenly of heart disease.

He had been employed as a cab driver for the Grand Central Cab Company for twenty years.

Another cabman, James McCabe, of No. 616 Second avenue, saw O'Gorman lying backward, with his eyes wide open and his lower jaw drooping. Dr. Eckert, of Flower Hospital, pronounced O'Gorman dead.

SILVER DROPS IN LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Silver to-day experienced a sharp fall of a penny, to 27 7-8d., making a fall of 3 1-4d. since Sept. 30. This steady drop was chiefly due to selling from India, the bazaars there, finding that the rain was not coming as freely as expected, assumed that the crops would be poor. Then the Indian Government, which had been the chief support of the market, stopped buying. This induced speculators to unload freely. China also sold.

POKER GAME WINDS UP WITH SHOOTING

William Baker, "Pool Room King" of San Juan Hill Section, Wounded Twice.

William Baker, a negro known on San Juan Hill as "Bill, the Pool-Room King," gave a poker soiree at his home, No. 216 West Sixty-second street, last evening. He is in Roosevelt Hospital to-day with two bullet wounds in his abdomen. George Lewis, one of the men who played with him, is a fugitive, and Joseph Washington, Fritz Peterson, Carter Johnson and Baker's wife are in the custody of the Coroner.

It was a polyglot brunette assemblage that sat in the poker game. Lewis is a West Indian negro and talks with a Scotch accent. Fritz Peterson is a negro who talks with a Swedish accent. Joseph Washington is a plantation negro while Baker was born and reared in New York. There were other players, and Carter Johnson, the woman, looked after the "kitty."

Lewis, who appears to have taken on some Scotch canniness with his accent, protested at times during the game that he was getting the worst of it. Finally, when he was about all in financially, he refused to continue. Baker thereupon declared the game closed.

The West Indian asserted that he had been cheated, and a fight started. Baker and the witnesses in custody say that Lewis drew a revolver and began to shoot. Two of the bullets found a temporary home in Baker.

Policeman Holland, passing the house, heard the shooting, rapped for assistance and ran to Baker's flat. Lewis had escaped by way of the roof. The woman, Washington and Peterson were trying to drag Baker to another flat.

Baker's chances for recovery are about even with his chances for figuring in a funeral. A general alarm has been sent out for Lewis, who, the police figure, is sure to be located because of his Scotch burr.

MET. TESTIMONY SENT TO JEROME

Utilities Board Has Not Asked Governor to Name Special Prosecutor.

Chairman Willcox, of the Public Service Commission, was asked to-day as to a report that the commission or its counsel had requested Gov. Hughes that a special Deputy Attorney General be appointed to conduct a criminal prosecution of persons whose names have appeared in connection with the general investigation of Interborough-Metropolitan affairs. Mr. Willcox said:

"We have not made any such request of the Governor, nor have we sent any communication to him whatever bearing upon the subject. We have sent day by day a full report of the testimony taken at the investigation to District-Attorney Jerome, but further than that I do not care to discuss the matter at present."

The general investigation is set down to continue to-morrow. It is possible that another adjournment will be taken after a very short session.

The hearing on the proposed order for an increase of service on the Broadway line and its feeders was resumed before Commissioner Maltbie. Oren Root, general manager of the company, said it had concluded to comply with the terms of the proposed order for an increase of service below Houston street, between the hours of 7 A. M. and 7 P. M.

ST. LOUIS JEWELLER'S SON A SUICIDE IN HOTEL.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 14.—It became known to-day that the body of Arthur A. Mermond, a son of the late Alexander Mermod, one of the founders of a large jewelry company here, was found in a room at the Commercial Hotel yesterday and that he had committed suicide. Despondency is believed to have caused his act.

MAN ON DEATH BED SHIELDS HIS ASSAILANT

Thomas Guarrio Refuses to Tell Who Fractured Skull and Shot Him.

Although he is dying from a fractured skull and two bullet wounds in his head, Thomas Guarrio, a young Italian, remains mute when questioned by the Staten Island police about how he received his injuries. He was found yesterday evening unconscious in a deserted swamp near Huguenot, on the western shore of the island, and removed to Smith Infirmary.

An examination of his wounds showed that he had been struck across the back of the head with force enough to crack the skull, and that two bullets had been fired into his temple. The surgeons believe that the fracture of the skull was inflicted before the man was shot.

He had no money or jewelry, and his identity was not discovered until to-day, when he revived and told his name and said he lived in Twenty-third street, Bayonne, N. J. Then detectives went sleuthing around Huguenot and found that a man named Guarrio had been living at a hotel kept by Charles Newman.

Witnesses were found who said they saw Newman in the woods yesterday afternoon with a pistol in his hand, and that soon after seeing him thus armed they heard two shots. Newman was arrested and taken to the infirmary.

Guarrio, who had refused to tell how he received his injuries, was confronted with Newman. He said he had never seen the hotel man before, although Newman had admitted that he knew Guarrio. On the strength of the circumstantial evidence produced by the detectives Magistrate Maren held him in $1,000 bail as a suspicious person. Guarrio can scarcely survive his wounds.

HORNET NEST PROPHET PREDICTS MILD WINTER.

FRANKLIN, Oct. 14.—This winter will be a mild one, if the prediction of John Peterman, the hornet nest prophet, comes true. He says the insects are building high, which means that there will be no real cold weather. The prophet says that if the signs are for a severe winter they build on the ground where the snow drifts cover them to protect the larvae from the cold. If they select a place high for their nests their prophesy a warm, open winter.

The corn husks, too, tell of a mild winter, says the hornet nest prophet. The husks are thin and the ears are not as numerous as in years of ordinary yield.

RICHMOND MAN FOR SPECIAL SESSIONS

Mayor McClellan has selected—as the political prophets predicted he would—a man from Richmond to take the place on the Special Sessions bench of the Second Division of Thomas W. Fitzgerald, whose removal was decreed by the Appellate Division. Morgan M. L. Ryan, of New Brighton, S. I., is the Mayor's selection for the place, and the new boss of Democratic affairs in Richmond prompted the appointment which was made to-day.

The "Nick" Mullers were supplanted at the last primaries by former Sheriff McCormick and he has declared since his success that he would see that one of his own henchmen was appointed to Fitzgerald's place. The new Justice was one of McCormick's active advisers.

The new Justice was born in Batavia, Genesee County, in 1867, and graduated from the Batavia high school in 1889. After completing his education in Cornell University he graduated from the Cornell Law School with special honors in 1896. A year later he removed to New Brighton and was admitted to the bar of this State, then entering upon a law practice.

Swift & Co.'s sales of fresh beef in New York City for the week ending Saturday, Oct. 12, averaged 7.94 cents per pound.

THE REGINA Co

Big Price Reductions Are Still the Rule at The Regina Company's Broadway Store

In this sale of musical instruments Regina Music Boxes play a conspicuous part. These sweet-toned instruments bring to the home a range of music as great as that of the player piano, and with thousands of Regina tune discs to draw upon, every purchaser can always have the latest and best in music.

The Regina Music Boxes now offered at reduced prices are perfect musically and of the most high-grade construction. A few have been used; the majority are merely a trifle shopworn or not of the newest style of design. The regular prices on these instruments range from $10 to $425. Now

You Can Save from $2 to $250

Another feature of this sale is the line of Reginaphones, a combination Regina Music Box and talking machine which will give you every kind of music and songs that the world knows. These are greatly reduced by reason of having been slightly used or perhaps a year behind in style of case.

Some excellent, well-known pianos, taken in exchange for Regina goods, are also offered at prices which it will pay you to investigate.
