WOMAN DRUGGED IN THEATRE BOX ROBBED BY GIRL

Mrs. Fox, Made Ill by Candy Offered by Friendly Stranger, Loses Money and Gems.

ALICE MOSES IS HELD.

Arrested In Same Theatre While Talking to Two Strange Women.

Mrs. Robert Fox, of New Rochelle accepted some candy from a strange but engaging young woman in a Broadway theatre Saturday night and immediately became very ill. The young woman accompanied her to a dressing room, and during the recovery of Mrs. Fox, $350 worth of jewelry and $70 in cash disappeared.

Alice Moran, or Moses, whose parents live at No. 851 Cauldwood avenue, Bronx, was arrested last night and charged with the robbery. She ran away from home some time ago.

Detectives Kinsler and Duggan, who arrested her, believe that she has formed a partnership with some clever crook who conceived the idea of using knock-out drops in candy, just as a coarser grade of crooks use it in whiskey in the back rooms of disreputable saloons.

Under the eyes of the matron, and on the pretense of friendship, the stranger appropriated Mrs. Fox's purse, money and jewelry, and discreetly disappeared.

Caught in Theatre.

She was arrested last night in the same theatre, where the detectives found her in an orchestra seat. She was engaged in animated conversation with two richly dressed middle-aged women, who said they had never seen her before.

The candy eaten by Mrs. Fox was of the "brandy drop" kind—sugar concoctions, in the centre of which is a little liquid. It is believed that knock-out drops had been injected into the liquid cavities by means of a hypodermic syringe.

Alice Moran, as she calls herself, is a perfectly self-possessed young woman. She denied knowing anything about Mrs. Fox until the stolen purse was found pinned to her underwear. Then she admitted taking the purse, but denied stealing any money or jewelry.

Parents Abandon Her.

The Police Department records show that a complaint was made against her a few days ago by the manager of a Sixth avenue department store, where she was employed as a clerk. She stole a set of furs from the store and had them on when she was arrested.

Kinsler and Duggan produced her at Headquarters to-day for the inspection of all the Central Office sleuths. When she was ushered into the presence of the 300 detectives, who wore masks, concealing their faces, she laughed until the tears streamed down her pink cheeks.

"They're the funniest bunch I ever saw," she declared.

Mrs. Fox was too ill to appear in court against the girl, but her husband made the necessary complaint.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses, weeping and broken-hearted, were in court when their daughter was arraigned. They said they believed it best to allow the law to take its course, because they were convinced that the girl was beyond their control.

Magistrate Cornell, sitting in the Jefferson Market Court, looked the young woman over with considerable interest when she was arraigned before him and held in $1,000 bail for examination to-morrow.

The charge against her was one of grand larceny. She was taken back to the rooms of the Children's Society.

Mrs. Fox came in from her home last Saturday to attend the opera with her husband that night. In New Rochelle she had drawn $70 from the City Bank and taken a pair of pearl earrings and some other pieces of jewelry from a safety vault. She put these in her handbag, not intending to wear them in the afternoon.

Thought Them Friends.

To while away the time she went to a Broadway matinee, taking a seat in a box which she found occupied by a young woman. The two struck up a conversation.

The girl passed over a box of candy from which she had apparently been eating. Mrs. Fox ate two or three pieces.

They chatted a little time, when the fur buyer's wife felt sick. She said she would go to the ladies' parlor.

"I'll go with you," the girl volunteered.

In the parlor the matron thought the two women were friends. The girl was well dressed, seemingly refined and created no suspicion by her presence. Seeing Mrs. Fox was very ill, the matron sent for Mr. Fox, at the same time busying herself to make her charge comfortable. Before Mr. Fox reached the theatre the girl had quietly slipped out. Mrs. Fox's silver bag, jewelry and $70 were gone.

Mrs. Fox was taken to the Hotel Earlington and doctors called in. She was at the point of death several times, but on Sunday became better and was taken home. Her condition was worse on Monday, and it was not until last evening that her physicians felt sure of her recovery.

GAS ONLY 70 CENTS; BUT IN LONDON.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Gas Light and Coke Company announces a reduction in the price of gas to 2 shillings 10 pence—not quite 70 cents.

STOCKS LOWER ON BRISK SELLING

Smelting Liquidation Started Decline that Wiped Out Early Gains.

A variety of causes combined to depress stocks in the market to-day, following a rally which had brought some good gains. The decline was started by heavy liquidation in Smelting. Then the court decision compelling E. H. Harriman to answer the questions in the inquiry on railroad deals by the Interstate Commerce Commission brought prices down further, while the cut in Amalgamated Copper dividend added to the bearish tone.

The selling, which was brisk all around, continued almost until the close, when the losses of the list averaged about a point.

American Smelting broke 4 3-8, New York Central and Amalgamated Copper 2 1-4, Union Pacific, Reading, American Sugar, National Lead and New York Air Brake 2, Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson and Colorado & Southern 1st preferred 1 3-4, and Atchison, People's Gas, Brooklyn Transit, Southern Pacific and Consolidated Gas 1 1-2, St. Louis Southwestern preferred advanced 1.

A final rally bettered matters a bit, Northern Pacific finishing with a profit of 2 1-2, although few other active issues showed gains.

The total sales of stocks were 1,020,100 shares and of bonds 4,003,000.

The Closing Prices.

To-day highest, lowest and last prices of stocks and of net changes as compared with yesterday's final figures, are as follows:

NO VOTE FOR WOMEN, SAYS SWEDEN'S KING

Gustave in His First Throne Speech Declares They Must Wait Awhile.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 16.—The formal opening of the first Parliament under the reign of King Gustave took place in this city to-day with simple ceremonies.

King Gustave announced that the suffrage bill adopted at the last session of the Rigsdag would be resubmitted to the present house for final approval, but he said there was no intention of giving the franchise to women for the present.

HAMILTON BANK TO REOPEN ON MONDAY

New Management Officially Announces the Day for Resumption of Business.

Frank L. Grant, the new president of the Hamilton Bank, to-day issued a circular to the depositors and friends of the institution, announcing formally the reopening of the bank for business on Monday, Jan. 20, at 10 o'clock A. M. Mr. Grant, as president, succeeded William R. Montgomery, who was indicted yesterday by the special Grand Jury on a charge of making false drafts. G. R. Thomas preceded Montgomery as president, holding the office for nine months.

Mr. Grant says:

"For a bank to have actually been in the hands of a receiver, to have been searchingly examined by the receiver's examiners, to have been declared solvent by the Supreme Court of this State after an examination, to have been then re-examined by the State banking authorities and a corps of experts, and finally to have been approved as thoroughly solvent with a handsome surplus besides, is indeed a badge of character which any institution may be proud to wear.

"The incident leading to the temporary closing of the bank are too familiar to need repetition here, nothing less than cash representing the total amount of the deposits of the bank at the time the run commenced would have sufficed to have kept the bank open, and, as you know, no bank keeps its deposits all in cash on hand; that's not what the bank is for.

"The Hamilton Bank reopens under the most auspicious circumstances. It has a board of directors of men eminently fitted to take care of its destiny; its stock is held in strong hands, and it has ample financial support. To make the Hamilton Bank a great institution is the aim and object of the new management. To accomplish this we need your individual support and the support of your friends. We want not only your individual support, but your personal good will and your co-operation, and we earnestly solicit both."

Mr. Grant was for twenty-six years an officer and employee of the Central Trust Company, and more recently First Vice-President of the Carnegie Trust Company. He is regarded as a conservative and capable banker.

BREWER JOHN F. BETZ DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

One of Philadelphia's Wealthiest Citizens, He Had Been Honored by Pope Leo.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—John F. Betz, one of the best known brewers in the country, and one of Philadelphia's wealthiest citizens, died at his home here to-day, after a long illness. He had suffered a general breakdown, due principally to old age. Mr. Betz, although a Lutheran, was a Chvalier of St. Gregory by grant of the late Pope Leo XIII.

He was born in Germany in 1831, and was brought to this country when an infant. In 1853 he started the Eagle Brewery in New York, under the name of Clausen and Betz. Fourteen years later he started a brewery in this city from which he derived most of his wealth.
