HEARTBROKEN, BOY FALLS DYING IN STREET CROWD

Musical Ambition Thwarted by Practical Father, Grief Kills Lad.

PICKED UP BY AN AUTO.

Bearing Note Dooming Him to Trade School Fourteen-Year-Old Expires.

Little fourteen-year-old Ernest Roth, of No. 153 East Twenty-ninth street wanted to be a musician. His father Charles, a practical man, decided that Ernest must learn a trade—bricklaying, plumbing or something of that sort. The boy, a nervous, frail child, was bitterly disappointed and he died of a broken heart to-day while en route to school with a note from his father, requesting that he be transferred from the High School of Commerce to the Stuyvesant School, where manual training is taught.

The passengers on a southbound Broadway car to-day noticed the Roth boy seated in the forward end crying bitterly. He wore knee pants and warm clothing. When the car reached Fifty-ninth street the boy got up with the other passengers who held transfers, and alighted to board an eastbound car on Fifty-ninth street. He was seen to stagger.

With a weak cry the youngster fell to the ground in the path of an automobile driven by a negro chauffeur, B. G. Davis. The automobile was stopped and Davis picked up the boy in his arms and carried him into the Flat garage, at Broadway. The child's face was flushed, but his flow of tears had stopped.

Boy Died in Garage.

Failure to revive the boy resulted in the attendants at the warehouse sending for an ambulance from Roosevelt Hospital. Meantime the boy's face had turned from red to white.

"Why, the boy is dead!" said the doctor. "His heart failed—a very remarkable case."

In the right pocket of the lad's Norfolk jacket was found this note:

"Mr. Hayward. Please transfer my son from the High School of Commerce to the Stuyvesant school, as I want him to learn a trade. Yours very truly,

"CHARLES E. ROTH."

The transfer had been granted by Principal Hayward of the School of Commerce, and the card, dated this morning, was in the boy's pocket, which showed that he was on his way from his old school to the Stuyvesant High School, at No. 225 East Twenty-third street, when stricken by his heart malady.

Dr. Swan after examining the body of the boy, said that death was the result of a blow to a delicate constitution.

The body was removed to the West Forty-seventh street police station. A woman, who said she was the wife of the sexton of St. Stephen's Church called at the station and told of the grief of the boy over his father's determination to have him learn a trade.

Ernest wanted to pursue a musical course, and in that view was sustained by his mother, who is prostrated over the child's death. The father is a grocer.

At the boy's home, his mother said that Ernest was hit on the head two weeks ago with a snowball thrown by an unknown boy. She says that the snowball was loaded with a nail and her boy was knocked down. She believes his death was caused by some result of this accident, and declares that her son was strong and well otherwise, and only last night assented to his father's plan, deciding that he would study and become an engineer.

BOY, WHO DROPPED DEAD IN CENTRAL PARK CIRCLE.

ERNEST ROTH.

THREE OVERCOME BY GAS.

Affected by the cold weather, a gas pipe in the home of James Clark, No. 932 Nostrand avenue, Brooklyn, burst early to-day and sent forth fumes that made three of the Clark family unconscious. They were Mrs. Elizabeth Quinn, twenty-eight, his daughter; and Mrs. Quinn's fifteen-month-old child Alice, and Joseph Clark, twenty-one.

Dr. Fetres, of the Swedish Hospital restored them. Mrs. Peter Stackwell, who lives in the upper floor of the house over the Clarks, smelled the escaping gas, and hurrying downstairs saved her neighbors, who were sleeping, from possible death.

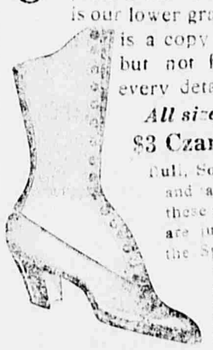
Shoe Bargains for Men & Women

Women's High-Cut Shoes at Reduced Prices

ONE of the styles offered at a special price is our Czarina Boot. The other is our lower grade high-cut shoe, which is a copy of our famous Czarina, but not finished as carefully in every detail.



All sizes in all these shoes

$3 Czarina Boots at $1.95

Full, Soft Calfskin Button Shoe and calfskin lace shoes. Both these styles have stout soles, and are just right for present wear; the Spring styles will have thin soles. These are very pretty shoes and have the stylish wave top. Our regular price is $3.00; reduced to $1.95

$2.50 High-Cut Wave-Top Shoes, $1.35

These shoes are copies of our Czarina Boots. They have the same style, fit and comfort, and about the same wear. Our regular price is $2.50; reduced to $1.35

(Siegel Cooper Store, Second Floor, Rear.)

Men's $3 to $5 Foot Mould Shoes at $2.40

We repeat briefly the story of the cause of this sale, which began a few days ago. The manufacturer who makes our famous Foot Mould shoes had some money troubles and was delayed about two months in the delivery of these Foot Mould shoes. You gain what he lost by the delay.

Naturally the few days' selling has cut somewhat into the assortment of sizes, but to make this offer fair to all who may come in response to this advertisement, we have filled in all breaks with Foot Moulds from our regular stock.

All sizes and widths in these styles:

Patent Calfskin "Foot Mould" Shoes—in button, lace and blucher styles; narrow toe shapes for dress wear; regularly $3.50, $4 and $5.

Calfskin and Kidskin "Foot Mould" Shoes—in button, lace and blucher styles; medium and wide shapes for business wear; regularly $3, $3.50 and $4.

Extra High-Cut "Foot Mould" Waterproof Shoes—for storm and slush; regularly $4 and $5.
