TOMMY MURPHY HAS ADVANTAGE OVER B. HURLEY

Slam-Bang Battle Results When Harlemite Clashes With Passaic Wonder in Gruelling Six-Round Fight.

R. Edgren's COLUMN

It was no pink tea when Battling Hurley and Tommy Murphy met at Sharkey's last night. Umm-umm! How those boys did fight! The fireworks lasted for six rounds, much to the amazement of Tommy Murphy's Harlem following, which howled like a calliope when the Battling boy from Passaic went down in the second.

Yes, Hurley went down—but he got up again. It was the first knockdown in all his fighting career and for a moment Hurley didn't understand it. But before the count had much more than begun he was on his legs, fighting like a wild man.

The scrap began with Hurley hurling himself at Murphy with the same battering, irresistible rush that has carried so many light-weights off their feet. During the first round Hurley had the lead by a big margin. Tommy seemed satisfied with studying the situation and holding Hurley's hands, until Referee Buckley ordered him to let go. In the meantime Hurley walloped away whenever he could get an arm free, and the instant he was released he rushed in again with smashing hooks and swings for Murphy's stomach.

The fighting in the second was furious, fluctuating to one side or the other for half a round. Then Tommy Murphy, who had taken the Battler's measure carefully, whipped a terrific right inside punch against Hurley's chin. That single smash might have knocked out nearly any other lightweight in the game. Hurley fell forward as if he had been hit with a mallet. His knees thumped the floor and he sprawled out on the mat. But there's no quit or let-up in this Passaic boy.

He pulled his legs under him and forced his way up again. Murphy, waiting, stepped in and beat furiously at Hurley's chin. The Battler staggered and reeled into a corner—a thing he has never done before in any fight. Once more Murphy's fist collided with his jaw, and again Hurley dopped to his knees. This time he was up almost instantly, still dalling away with both hands! In a rush the two came together, and Hurley was wrestled down. Up he rose, Anteus-like; he seemed only to grow stronger after the fall. Once again they mixed, Murphy trying furiously for a knockout, Hurley tearing in, a little wobbly on his pins, and beating at Tommy's ribs with both fists. At the end of the round Hurley was recovering his strength, although still dazed.

Fighting Was Furious.

During the minute interval spectators at the ringside watched the two fighters eagerly. In his corner Hurley, grim and serious as he is always until the fight is over, glared across at Murphy, while his seconds bathed his head with cold water and waved their towels.

Then came fighting that brought every man in the house to his feet. Battling Hurley leaped at his foe like a little bulldog released in the pit. He jammed Murphy against the ropes and beat him in the body until Tommy was forced to break and run. Right after him went the Passaic wonder, smashing furiously with left and right. Murphy, cool and deliberate even under the hail of blows, timed his punches to meet Hurley's rush, and one smash after smash squarely against the point of his chin. Hurley only fell in against the blows with an unending rattlebang a patter of punches as steady—left-right—left—right—as the ticking of a clock. At the end of the round he was strong again.

The fourth was a long three minutes of steady hammering on both sides. At times Hurley's body punches forced Murphy to break ground. Now and then he pinned the Harlemite against the ropes and beat at his body relentlessly until Murphy was forced to cover up. Just at the end of the round Murphy placed three terrific rights squarely on the point of Hurley's chin. To the amazement of the crowd Hurley, although each blow nearly twisted his head off, only plunged forward for more.

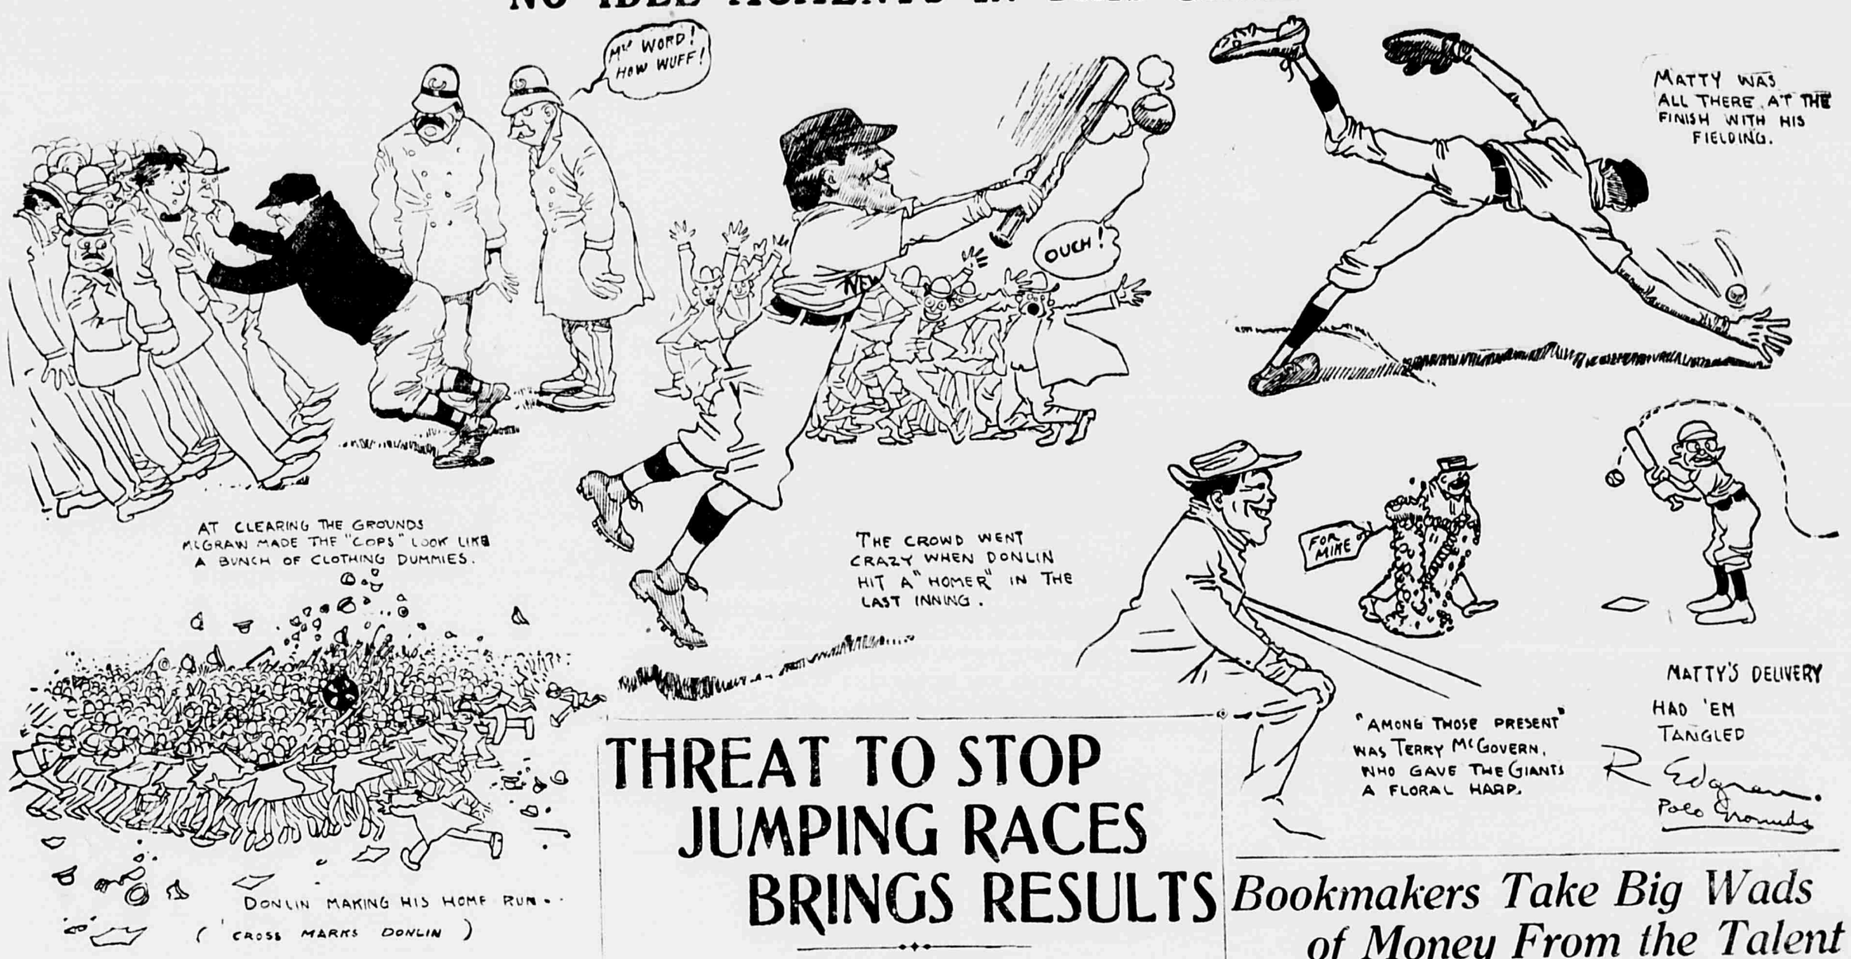
The fifth was a hard one for the Battler to weather. He was showing signs of wear, and before the fighting had gone a minute Murphy's savage smashes brought the blood streaming from his nose and mouth. Still Hurley fought. There was less sting in his blows, and his speed slackened appreciably.

Murphy Has Better of Bout.

In the last round both tried to finish matters with a knockout. But Murphy, strong and unhurt, had the best of the mixing. He was hitting cleanly, placing his punches like a sharpshooter smashing glass balls. Hurley drove him against the ropes, and, head down, battered him from post to post. Still it was more a matter of tearing in headlong and hurling Murphy back by the weight and fury of his rushes than of landing blows. Murphy was doing more execution. Time after time he nooked his left and right over again Hurley's chin, rocking his head from side to side, but never stopping his advance. Murphy was doing his full share of the aggressive work. The capacity for punishment that Hurley showed in this round was amazing. Nothing could stop or stagger him. Yet at the end Hurley was weakening fast. His blows were taps which Murphy could disregard while timing his counters. The fight ended as it began—in a mix-up.

Murphy won by clean, hard hitting. Hurley wasn't "whipped;" he was only outpointed.

NO IDLE MOMENTS IN THIS GAME



Goodman and Murphy Sign for a Six-Round Bout Here

BY JOHN POLLOCK.

TOMMY MURPHY, the Harlem fighter, who defeated Battling Hurley last night after a slashing six-round battle, was immediately matched by Jim Buckley to meet Jack Goodman, the clever local light-weight, in a six-round bout at 133 lbs. to be held by the Sharkey A. C. a week from next Wednesday night. Murphy and Goodman are the two best boys of their weight in this vicinity, and as several efforts have been made to bring them together it is safe to say that they will furnish a great battle when they meet. Goodman has already boxed Hurley two hard six-round draws, and his admirers will surely turn out in force to see him boy Murphy. They will box at catch weights.

Hurley Won't Fight for a Month.

Battling Hurley will not be able to fight again for at least a month, as he broke three knuckles on his left hand by hitting Tommy Murphy on the head in the third round of their contest last night. When Hurley got back to his corner at the end of that round he said to his manager, "I have broken my left hand, but I will go right on, as I can take all that Murphy gives me."

Donovan to Meet "Unk" Russell.

Jim Donovan, the middle-weight fighter, who wishes it to be known that he is from Ireland, and is not an Englishman, was matched last night to meet "Unk" Russell, the hard-hitting Quaker City fighter, for six rounds in the main bout at the next stag of the Sharkey A. C. on Wednesday night. Donovan will get into shape for the contest at the Sharkey Club, where he will box with the other pugilists who are working there.

Barry Wants to Fight Langford.

Jim Barry, the light heavy-weight of Chicago, accompanied by his new manager, Tex Murphy, of Chicago, arrived in town last night. Jim said that he is willing to meet Sam Langford again, and will box him, either late or, as he is confident he can beat Langford if given another chance. Manager Murphy said that Mike Murray, matchmaker of the Armory A. A. of Baltimore, is willing to offer the men a good incentive to battle for.

"Jeff's" New Club Opens To-Night.

Jim Jeffries's new fighting club, which is located a few miles outside of Los Angeles, Cal., will give its first boxing show to-night. Mike "Twin" Sullivan and Jimmy Gardner, two New England fighters, will meet in the star bout of twenty-five rounds at 142 pounds weight, in at 9 P. M., and will battle for a purse of $300, of which the winner will get $2,000. Both men are in great shape. Jeffries will referee the contest.

Baker and Dorsey to Fight Again.

A match was clinched last night between Harry Baker, the clever California featherweight, and Bart Dorsey, the South Brooklyn boxer, who showed up so well recently by defeating Tom Bender in a six-round bout at the Brown Gymnasium. A stag, Baker and Dorsey will box six rounds at 133 lbs. at a special show to be held by the Sharkey A. A. the week from Saturday night. Baker outpointed Dorsey in a battle several months ago.

Big Fellows to Battle at Dry Dock.

A pair of big fellows will be the principals in the main bout at the stag of the Dry Dock A. C., on Monday night. Fred Bradley, the New England light heavyweight, will meet "Kid" Griffo, the South Brooklyn fighter. If Griffo decides to take on Bradley he will be giving Bradley considerable weight.

THREAT TO STOP JUMPING RACES BRINGS RESULTS

BY J. TOD SLOAN.

P. J. Dwyer's threat to put a stop to jumping races unless they get better support bore fruit at once, and the followers of the steeplechasing game were out in full force yesterday. A good field of jumpers struggled over the sticks in what was by long odds the best race of its kind this season.

The start in the handicap was probably one of the most perfect ever made on a racetrack. As the barrier went up no one could tell which horse was in front and which last, as all were in full motion.

The betting took on a different aspect yesterday, and the amount of money in evidence and the play was quite different from the preceding days.

Berry Maid proved herself to be a high-class filly yesterday.

The Jockey Club was well represented at the track, nearly all of the members being present, with the exception of J. R. Keene and August Belmont.

Mary Hall, the winner of the last race, was the medium of a heavy play, being played from 12 down to 4 to 1. She came home a handy winner in front of another member of the Hall family, George C. Hall. Mr. Hall, the patrol judge, got in a few moments later. That's all!

The two Charleses—Heeney and Cash—were big winners on the Mary Hall race. Lester Doctor also cashed a good bunch on this race.

Ben Garson caused much amusement among the trainers by pointing out Lester Doctor, and telling them that Lester had on a pair of shoes with brown tops which Ben had discarded last season. Bennie and the Doctor may meet at Sharkey's next Tuesday night for six rounds.

Chantilly romped home in the first race without carrying a single dollar of the stable money.

Cohort was the best played horse in the clubhouse, but ran a disappointing race. It must be remembered, however, that it was his first out. He is being pointed for the Brooklyn Handicap, where he is expected to give a good account of himself.

Bookmakers Take Big Wads of Money From the Talent

BY VINCENT TREANOR.

THE bookmakers got theirs yesterday at Aqueduct. The defeat of five heavily played favorites more than made up for previous losses at the meeting, and the homeward trains carried a joyful lot of layers. Madrileno was the only one that saved the day for the talent, and he had a close call. The books, however, didn't suffer much by his victory, for Tom Reid, who finished second, was heavily backed. Probably the greatest shock to the players was the bad race run by Economy in the steeplechase. He was one of the worst 4 to 5 shots in the season. He had little or no speed and jumped clumsily. Rocket and Jim McGill, the Hampton stable entry, was played but all the big money went on Economy.

Next time out Economy may electrify us.

Vervane, who broke watches in the morning workouts last season, but who will never run in the afternoon, looks like a sound heaving jug a jumper. She showed a fine race, and, well, but tired toward the end.

Whatever chance Cohort had was killed at the post where he was kept prancing around with 10 pounds on his back, while Long Ball was being led to the barrier. The tip was handed out that Cohort couldn't lose.

Sequin "cracked" when Berry Maid got him. The maid is quite a shifty filly right now.

Col. Chinn was right when he said Miss Grace was best horse he had. The little fellow has improved 100 per cent. since seen here last season.

Jant Dalton McCarthy getting his stride at 40. He rode two fine well judged races on Chantilly and Zlenap.

Chantilly, Saylor, Dennis Stafford, Ahlo, Cumbal and even Bannell were the tips in the first race. Six in a handicap race.

GOLFERS OPEN THE LAKEWOOD SEASON

(Special to The Evening World.)

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 23.—Fred Herreshoff, Findlay S. Douglass and about seventy other Metropolitan golfers got away this morning in the regular spring tournament of the Lakewood Country Club. Douglass got off a sickbed to play, while Eben Byers, also a former national champion, entered but failed to appear. Neither Travis nor Travers entered.

Princeton University players came out in force, more arriving to-day undismayed by the trimming their team received here yesterday afternoon at the hands of Lakewood players. The best scores:

TWO STAGS TO-NIGHT.

Two boxing stags will be pulled off to-night. At the Long Acre A. C., on West Twenty-ninth street near Broadway avenue, the principals in the main bout will be "Young Otto," the local light-weight, and Dave Deshler of Boston, who is quite a fighter. They will clash for six rounds at catch weights. This will be Deshler's real appearance here. Five other bouts will be pulled off. At the Olympic A. C. of Harlem Jack Killeen, the Irish champion, will meet "Kid" Williams, the former Quaker City fighter, in the main bout of six rounds. Killeen arrived in this country a few months ago looking for tests. Besides this bout there will be five others.
