more than half of his squad from the track and instructed the remainder not to interfere unless they saw violations of the betting law.

"The Court order has nothing to do with betting," said Schuyler C. Parsons, of the Coney Island Jockey Club. "It simply restrains the police from interfering with our patrons. We will not permit betting, and the Pinkertons are instructed to suppress it completely."

At Gravesend the police ruled with a high hand. They cleared the betting ring and did not permit a lone spectator to stand long enough to copy off the jockeys, and at no place on the track would they permit three men to congregate. It was different, however, to-day. The spectators were allowed to linger at will and the police did not even interfere with groups.

Plenty of Credit Bets.

Inspector O'Brien and Acting Sheriff Swazey declared the court order would have no influence on the betting. "We will arrest any person who tries to gamble on the races," said O'Brien.

Despite the police vigilance and the action of the Pinkertons in threatening the bookmakers with expulsion if they did any business, there was more betting done to-day than on any day since the law went into effect. Most of the betting was done on the credit system, but those who had no credit found little trouble in depositing a bankroll with a friend of a bookmaker and thereafter betting "on the finger."

Police Help Out Pinkertons.

Inspector O'Brien found something for the police to do when the Suburban horses were at the post. Several thousand spectators overran the Pinkertons in the field and, crossing the track, took a stand in the enclosure. The Pinkertons were unable to drive them back.

Inspector O'Brien assembled forty uniformed men and three mounted men, and entering the enclosure cleaned it out in a minute. Commissioner Bingham has repeatedly declined to permit the police to do the same thing at the Polo Grounds when monster crowds have overrun the special police and caused riot and disorder.

Association Reduces Added Money.

The stay restraining the police from scattering groups acted as an incentive to bettors. Frequently wagers could have been made with litti edifficulty and without much fear of arrest of those concerned in the speculative transactions. The association reduced all the added money in the various overnight events 50 per cent.

MADDEN'S HORSES RUN ONE-TWO IN DOUBLE EVENT.

The first race of the day went to Baby Wolf, who followed the very fast early pace of Natasulga right into the stretch. He came away at the eighth pole and won in a mild drive. Bouquet ran a good race, but didn't have quite enough speed to get the place money from Notasulga. Peter Quince ran a very bad race all the way.

Notter Rides a Good Race.

The Salvator, a handicap for three-year-olds at a mile, brought out a field of seven, in which Alfred Noble was considered a slight favorite over Golden Pearl with Monopolist, Joe Notter up, as strong second choice. Golden Pearl got away flying and led all the way until well into the stretch where the weight told on him and he stopped fast and at the end was outside the money.

Rosimiro and Julia Powell ran second and third all the way and finished that way. Monopolist won the race after laying fourth until the stretch was reached. Notter saved a lot of ground on the turn and in the long stretch run caught Golden Pearl tiring fast. Notter then went to the whip to stall off Rosimiro, but put it up again and won under a hand ride.

Madden Horses Run One, Two.

In the Double Event the two-year-old feature of the card, John E. Madden again furnished ample proof that his two-year-olds are the best of the year. His two colts, Fayette and Sir Martin, won one, two again. This is the third time they have won both the first and second money for the wizard of Hamburg place. In the $12,500 Tremont at Gravesend Fayette won as he did today, with Sir Martin second, and in their previous race, the Great American at Gravesend, worth $13,200 to the winner, Sir Martin won, with Fayette a length and a half behind him. To-day's stake was worth $7,700 to the winner, so it will be seen that Madden has already won quite a nice little sum with these two youngsters alone.

The Double Event was run down the Futurity chute, and it was hard for the public to get a line on the early running of it. From what could be seen from the grand stand, Torbellino was away in front and stayed there for the first eighth, with the Madden pair close up. Esperanto was in the forward bunch, with Strike Out next. Torbellino dropped back early, and as they rounded the turn Strike Out had a slight advantage over Fayette. Sir Martin and Keene's Esperanto were next in order. Strike Out dropped back as they became straightened out in the stretch, and Fayette went away to a two-length lead. Sir Martin and Esperanto were having a battle for the place behind him, but in the run to the finish Sir Martin outgamed the Keene colt, which had to be content with third money in front of Bobbin.

Grapple Takes Fifth Race.

The fifth race was almost lost sight of in the Suburban aftermath. It was the Grass Selling Stakes. Grapple won it after leading all the way. McCarter ran second all the way but quit like the proverbial dog right in the stretch. This let Tony Bonero up to second place, but he was tiring very fast, and just at the end, Beauclere closing very fast, got up in time to nip him at the post for the place money.

Big Field In Last Race.

Seventeen two-year-olds went to the post in the final event. They were kept waiting there five minutes by the crazy antics of Bewilder, who, after tossing Gilbert out of the saddle in front of the grand stand, had to be led all the way to the barrier. He was left standing there when Cassidy sprung the webbing. Whitney's Hillside won the race, leading practically all the way. Keene's Wamba was second to the last sixteenth, where Madden's Edward closing strong, easily passed him and got second money. Hillside swered badly in the stretch, but Dugan straightened him in time.

SHERMAN ACTIVE IN CONGRESS FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

Won Fame as the Man Who Started the Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy.

NEW YORKER BY BIRTH.

Successful as a Collector of Funds During Several Campaigns.

There is no more practical politician in the Empire or any other State than James Schoolcraft Sherman, who has been an important factor in politics ever since he was sent to Congress from Oneida County eighteen years ago.

Mr. Sherman has won fame as a hustler for campaign contributions, and very recently came into the white glare of public interest in connection with the seating of E. H. Harriman on the front bench of the "Ananias Club."

It was to "My Dear Sherman" that President Roosevelt wrote the series of letters in which he impugned the veracity of the railroad magnate, and it was from the Utica statesman that the public learned of Mr. Harriman's famous remark that he did not care in the least if Hearst was elected "because those people (Hearst's) are crooks and he could buy them; that whenever he wanted legislation from a State Legislature he could buy it; that he could buy Congress and that if necessary he 'could buy the judiciary.'"

How the Charge Was Made.

Representative Sherman had invited Harriman to contribute to the Republican campaign fund in the interest of Charles Evans Hughes, and in declining the railroad manipulator had made the above-famous commentary; that is, according to Sherman.

Mr. Harriman denied ever uttering a syllable of it. Nevertheless, Sherman told it to Mr. Roosevelt; Mr. Roosevelt believed it, and believing it, roasted Harriman on the strength of it.

Until the Republican ship of state was launched in full panoply for Taft, Mr. Sherman was a red-hot third-termer. He and the President have been the closest of friends. Consequently he has never been very warm for the Governor, and was generally considered as a Hughes boomer per contra.

Two years ago Mr. Sherman was elected chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. During the life of Thomas Bracket Reed Representative Sherman was his closest friend, and after the death of Speaker Reed the Utica statesman boomed himself for the speakership. He withdrew his campaign, however, before it had gone very far in the launching.

A Native of Utica.

James Schoolcraft Sherman was born in Utica in 1855, and has lived there all his life. He is, therefore, two years the senior of William Howard Taft. During the term of Speaker Reed Sherman presided over the House oftener than any other member.

As a representative he has always been immensely popular. President McKinley was very fond of him and offered him a place on the Board of General Appraisers at this port. But the people of Utica held a mass meeting and implored him to stick along in Congress. He stuck.

He is a lawyer and the leader of the Oneida County bar. In 1881 he married Miss Carrie Babcock, of this city. Three years after his marriage he was elected Mayor of Utica.

Representative Malby, of New York, in starting the boom for Sherman to foot the Presidential ticket, said:

"Both he and Taft are of gentle temperament, magnetic and good speakers. Sherman would be popular with the boys—the fellows who do the work at the polls."

ASK ROOSEVELT TO DELIVER FAREWELL TALK TO LABOR.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Representatives of labor organizations of the District of Columbia to-day called at the White House to request the President to deliver a "farewell address to labor" on Labor Day next September. The President will consider the request.

COL. WARNER'S WIDOW WINS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 19.—The Supreme Court to-day decided that the widow of Col. John Warner, the Clinton (Ill.) millionaire, is entitled to his property. The decision of a lower court, which declared an ante-nuptial contract void and upheld the right of Mrs. Warner to renounce the will and take her statutory allowance, is affirmed.

C. G. KING DEAD.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., June 19.—Charles Goodhue King, grandson of Mrs. S. C. Goodhue, of New York City, died suddenly of heart trouble at his summer home, Lake Wauremaug, this afternoon. He was twenty-two years old and acted as business agent for his grandmother, who is very wealthy. A widow, who was Miss Brindley, of Philadelphia, survives.

Like Music?

It's strange, but nevertheless a fact, that some people keep on longing for and denying themselves a violin, guitar, piano, flute, mandolin, banjo, &c., as if musical instruments were both rare and costly. Such persons miss many happy hours of entertainment needlessly, since

A "WANT" AD IN THE MORNING WORLD WILL REACH HUNDREDS OF PERSONS WHO ARE ANXIOUS TO DISPOSE OF ONE INSTRUMENT OR ANOTHER AT A GREATLY REDUCED PRICE.

New Yorker Who Was Nominated For the Vice-Presidency.

J. S. SHERMAN

"I Have Had a Corking Time," Is Roosevelt's Valedictory.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—On the eve of his departure for Oyster Bay for his summer vacation President Roosevelt was reminded to-day that he, perhaps of all men, had fairly earned a rest, to which he replied briskly and cheerily:

"Do not waste any sympathy on me. I have enjoyed every minute of my stay here, and my thanks are due to the American people, and not theirs to me, for the opportunity I have had to serve them.

"I have had a perfectly corking time," he added, with a characteristic Roosevelt smile and a final handshake.

SHERMAN NAMED ON FIRST BALLOT

tion adopted a resolution limiting Vice-Presidential nominating speeches to ten minutes and seconding speeches to five minutes. The roll call of States began immediately, and when Timothy L. Woodruff took the platform to place Sherman in nomination, the New York delegates woke up for the first time and cheered as though they meant it.

Woodruff Promises New York.

Mr. Woodruff assured the convention that with a New York man on the ticket the Empire State will certainly go Republican. He finished his nominating speech well within his time. The chief point he impressed upon the delegates was that Mr. Sherman has been in Congress since 1886 except for two years, from 1890 to 1892. Mr. Woodruff declared that Mr. Sherman is the best parliamentarian in the United States.

Mr. Woodruff, in opening his remarks, called attention to the fact that New York, "the foremost commercial and industrial commonwealth of the nation," was the State which in the politics of the country was the pivotal State of the Union. He was not on the platform, he said, merely for the purpose of presenting a candidate for Vice-President, but the New York delegation felt that "unless you accord our great State, which has unsuccessfully presented to you a candidate for President, and is, I understand, the only one of the States which presented a candidate for President now presenting to you a candidate for Vice-President—we feel that unless you accord to us the second place upon the ticket we will be compelled to return to our vast constituency without that essential with which there will be no question as to the certainty of success for the ticket."

Veteran in Congress.

No Republican ticket, he said, had ever been defeated with a New York Republican on it except once, "and that was when our opponents were wise enough to select a New York Democrat to head the Democratic ticket."

Mr. Sherman, he declared, was not only known in every portion of the State of New York, "but is known and respected in every Congressional district represented in this convention. "Those who know him," he said, "respect, aye, and love him by virtue of their association with him, are bered by the number of representatives in Congress which each district has sent there for the past twenty-four years, and even in the Democratic districts there will not be a man to say aught against him, no matter how deep or bitter may be his partisan prejudice.

Uncle Joe Cannon, with a fan in his hand, walked to the chairman's table to second the nomination, rubbing the back of his head with his left hand.

The bottom of his right coat sleeve was caught in his cuff. He stood in apparent embarrassment as the convention cheered him.

"I would rather," he began, "be a doorkeeper in the House of the Lord than dwell in the tent of wickedness."

He devoted most of his time to praise of Taft, but was warm enough in his indorsement of the New York candidate, whom he called "New York's favorite son." Speaker Cannon is one of the old-style platform orators addicted to windmill gestures. He ran away over his five-minute limit, but no one attempted to stop him.

Gov. Wilson, of Kentucky, seconded the nomination of Mr. Sherman.

"Taft and Sherman," he declared, "sounds good to us."

When Massachusetts was reached on the roll call Chairman Lodge yielded the chair to Frank L. Dennison, Assistant Corporation Counsel of Chicago, a negro. Mr. Lodge placed in nomination Gov. Curtis W. Guild, of Massachusetts.

Charles Osborne, of Michigan, made a speech seconding the nomination of Gov. Guild. He insinuated that Sherman did not class with Guild when it came to sizing up as Presidential timber. The point of Mr. Osborne was that if the President should die a big man ought to be ready to succeed him.

Called for Quick Vote.

Mississippi joined in seconding the nomination of Sherman. Thomas L. McCarter, of New Jersey, placed Franklin Murphy, of his State, in nomination. Mr. McCarter adds another to the long list of red-haired statesmen who have played a prominent part in this convention. The speech of Mr. McCarter was short and strong. North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania, when called, seconded the Sherman nomination.

The tired delegates shouted for a quick vote and the were accommodated. Alabama and Arkansas, the first two States called, cast all their votes but three for Sherman, and it was all over but putting it on the official records of the convention. The Wisconsin delegation cast ten votes for Governor Sheldon, of Nebraska, who had not been placed in nomination by his own State.

West Virginia gave Fairbanks the one vote he received.

Crowds Flock Home.

A big picture of Sherman was upraised instantly the result of the voting was announced, and for five minutes the convention was in an uproar. A professional cheer leader with a flag and megaphone rushed to the front of the platform. He had made a reputation at the convention of four years ago, but to-day Chairman Lodge chased the young man by the scruff of the neck and sent him whirling back to his place.

"Shall the nomination be made unanimous?" said Chairman Lodge, and he recognized Senator Crane, of Massachusetts, who made a motion in accordance with the chairman's question in behalf of Gov. Guild. New Jersey and Nebraska quickly trailed on, and when the motion was put it was carried with a shout of approval.

When the final routine matters had been completed the convention adjourned.

A few hours later all the outgoing trains were crowded, and by to-night few of the convention army will be left in this city.

BRYAN ANALYZES THE PLATFORM.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 19.—William J. Bryan to-day declined to discuss the work of the Republican National Convention. He received bulletins of to-day's events, telephoned to his library at Fairview. He entertained a number of callers during the morning. This afternoon he prepared an analysis of the Republican platform. This he probably will make public to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Roosevelt to-day sent a telegram to Representative Sherman congratulating him upon his nomination, saying:

"Accept my hearty congratulation and my earnest good wishes for the success of the ticket of Taft and Sherman."

GUILD SENDS HIS CONGRATULATIONS TO PLACE WINNER.

BOSTON, June 19.—On receiving information of the nomination of Congressman Sherman to be Vice-President from the Associated Press Gov. Guild telegraphed his congratulations, as follows:

"My heartiest congratulations and good wishes. Now for a long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together for both nominees."

Gov. Guild said: "I am extremely grateful to the friends who put my name forward for the Vice-Presidency, and I am particularly proud that an unbroken delegation from Massachusetts should have found me worthy of the second place in the nation's gift. The cause is greater than any man or any section. Congressman Sherman, who has been selected as most fitly supplementing the candidacy of Secretary Taft, is an admirable choice, and should and will command as hearty a support in Massachusetts as in his own State."

GOV. HUGHES WIRES SENTIMENT TO NOMINEE.

ALBANY, June 19.—Gov. Hughes today sent this telegram to Congressman Sherman:

"James S. Sherman, Auditorium Annex, Chicago:

"My cordial congratulations upon your nomination.

"CHARLES E. HUGHES."

The Governor also sent a telegram of thanks and appreciation to Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, who yesterday placed his name in nomination for the Presidency.

CLAYTON TEMPORARY HEAD OF NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The new Republican National Committee organized to-day by the election of Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, veteran member of the committee, as temporary chairman to serve until a permanent chairman shall have been selected. Elmer Dover was re-elected secretary, and W. S. Stone sergeant-at-arms. A committee was named to consider the appointment of subcommittees to go to Cincinnati to confer with Secretary Taft regarding the selection of a permanent chairman to manage his campaign.

While the committee was in session Charles P. Taft, brother of the Secretary, appeared and sent word by the Sergeant-at-Arms that he wished to see Gov. Herrick. The Governor immediately responded, and Mr. Taft conferred with him for a short time. In a few minutes Henry W. Taft was sent for. The men had been together but a short time when Charles P. Taft left the building and boarded a car for uptown.

The committee appointed a sub-committee of five, of which ex-Gov. Herrick was made chairman, to go to Cincinnati to-morrow and confer with Secretary Taft as to his wishes in the matter of the National Chairmanship.

"GIL" BARNARD DEAD.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Gilbert Wadsworth Barnard, well known to the Masonic fraternity, died at his residence here to-day, after an illness of several months. Heart disease was the cause of his death. "Gil" W. Barnard, as he was known, held more active Masonic offices and had more degrees than any other member of his order, so far as is known. He was the active working force in ten State bodies.

TAFT TO FORAKER GIVES HIM THANKS FOR LIFE START

Senator In Doubt Wires Greeting and Gets Reply Recalling Kind Deed.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The following correspondence, dated to-day, between Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker, following the nomination of the former at Chicago, was made public at the War Department to-day:

"Dear Mr. Secretary—Although I fear it may be unwelcome and probably misunderstood, it is nevertheless my pleasure to avail myself of my privilege to send you heartiest congratulations and best wishes for success in November. Very truly,

"J. B. FORAKER."

Secretary Taft's response follows:

"My Dear Senator—I assure you that your kindly note of congratulation gave me the greatest pleasure and I thank you for it from the bottom of my heart. I have never ceased to remember that I owe to you my first substantial start in public life, and that it came without solicitation.

"With very best wishes, believe me, my dear Senator, sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

MORGAN SAYS OF TAFT AS NOMINEE THAT'S ALL RIGHT

Arrives From Europe to Attend Niece's Wedding—Returns Next Week.

J. P. Morgan arrived here on the Mauretania to-day to attend the wedding of his niece, Elsa Morgan, and will return to his London home on one of the German liners next week.

The financier had heard of Taft's nomination by wireless, and when asked about it at Quarantine he hesitated a moment and replied gruffly, "That's all right."

"Do you approve of the nomination?" was asked.

"You heard what I said," the banker answered softly, with a peculiar smile. Then he added: "I don't want to talk politics."

He said that abroad American securities were being looked upon with more favor, especially in France.

When the Mauretania reached her pier Mr. Morgan was the first passenger to leave the ship. His little granddaughter, Helen Satterlee, was waiting for him at the foot of the gangway, and he gathered her in his arms and smothered her with kisses, striding with her to his carriage, where he greeted his son, John P., jr., and his son-in-law, Herbert Satterlee.

Wright to Succeed Taft.

Janitors, Take Notice

Here's a tip that will save you much work and trouble.

During the warm weather your tenants are sure to kick about musty halls, ill-smelling garbage cans on the sidewalk or in the cellar and foul dumbwaiters or air shafts.

If you want to prevent kicks get a large bottle of a non-poisonous deodorizer like CN Disinfectant and pour a little into a bucket of water. Then start from the top floor and sprinkle it on the carpet all the way down. Pour a little into the air shaft, the dumb waiter shaft, sprinkle it about the damp corners of the cellar and pour the balance on the garbage which you have collected.

If you do this you will not only please your tenants, but your house will always be fresh and healthy.
