REICHMANN TRIAL CALLED FOR JUNE; CUMMINS FOLLOWS

Meanwhile Grand Jury Continues to Probe City Deposits and Cummins Loans.

The routine of going through the memory of bank officers for the purpose of finding if there was any association in 1910 between deposits of city money in banks and loans by those banks to the Cummins group was resumed this afternoon by the Grand Jury engaged in investigating the Carnegie Trust Company failure. To-day's witnesses were J. N. Wallace, President of the Central Trust Company; Bradley Martin jr., President of the Nineteenth Ward Bank, and W. W. Robinson, Secretary of the Madison Trust Company.

The District-Attorney announced to-day that the trial of Joseph B. Reichmann, under indictment for a misdemeanor in connection with the failure of the Carnegie Trust Company, will be called early in June. The trial of William J. Cummins will be begun at the close of Reichmann's trial.

Mr. Whitman was asked if the Grand Jury was going to investigate a certain loan of $6,000 made by the Carnegie Trust Company in October last to C. S. Eaton of City Chamberlain Hyde's office the day before former Senator Frank Gardner, under indictment in connection with the alleged race track bribery fund distribution, was released on $10,000 bail.

"Mr. Eaton's name is on the list of witnesses," replied the District-Attorney. "He will be examined by the Grand Jury concerning that loan. That is all I know about it."

DIX'S PRISON PROBERS SEEK FACTS AT SING SING

Osborn and Van Kennen Expect to Get Light on Charges of Mismanagement in State Institutions.

OSSINING, N. Y., April 13.—William Church Osborn of Harrison, N. Y., and George E. Van Kennen of Gouverneur, the commissioners appointed by Gov. Dix to investigate the Prison Department, the State hospitals for the insane and the Excise and Highway Departments, arrived here to-day and at once began a physical examination of Sing Sing prison. They were met by Warden Frost, who conducted them through the prison.

Mr. Osborn said they expected to obtain much data and other information which would be of assistance in the oral examination of witnesses in the investigation into the charges that the prison department is mismanaged. The commissioners expected to examine a number of witnesses now under subpoena at a hearing to be held this afternoon in the Royal Arcanum Hall in the village of Ossining. This will be a preliminary hearing.

FOUR MAGISTRATES SAFE IN THEIR BROOKLYN JOBS.

Mayor Gaynor Tells a Delegation He Will Name Only Two New Men.

Mayor Gaynor will name only two new Magistrates in Brooklyn on April 20, when the terms of the incumbents expire. He will reappoint four of the Magistrates, two of them being Moses J. Harris and Charles J. Dodd.

The Mayor announced his programme to a delegation of colored lawyers, clergymen, physicians and orators who called on him to-day to urge the appointment of Rufus L. Perry, a Brooklyn lawyer.

"I am very glad to meet you," the Mayor told them, "and I shall certainly take under advisement the name of Mr. Perry."

A clergyman in the delegation said that he and his congregation had prayed for the Mayor's recovery after he had been shot by Gallagher. "Yes, it was trying," replied the Mayor. "I got over it all—except as to my voice, but I guess that will come back all right, too."

GRAND JURY TO PROBE LACK OF FIRE PROTECTION.

Judge Orders Inquiry as to Criminal Blame in Elmhurst and Corona Sections.

County Judge Burt J. Humphreys, sitting in the Queens County Court in Long Island City, instructed the Grand Jury to determine whether there was criminal blame attached to any city officer for the failure to give the Elmhurst and Corona sections on the north shore of Queens borough adequate fire protection. Communications from residents of the districts to the Grand Jury warranted the most careful inquiry, he said.

He knew by his own investigation that there were only two volunteer fire companies in a district in which thousands of frame tenements had been erected since consolidation and which was about two miles long and a mile wide. The city charter made it the duty of certain officials to install paid companies "as rapidly as practicable."

A Question.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

If Pastor Russell is right in his doctrine that there is no hell, we'd like to know what it was one wife gave us the other night after we got home from sitting up with a sick bob-tailed flush and it's middle straight.

Niessen-Stone Gives a Charming Song Recital

BY SYLVESTER RAWLING.

MATJA VON NIESSEN-STONE gave a song recital at the Institute of Musical Art last night that delighted an audience that swamped the capacity of the Recital Hall and fairly filled the ante-room when the pressure caused Dr. Frank Damrosch, the director, to order the intervening doors to be thrown open. Mme. Von Niessen-Stone, at her first appearance in America, some years ago, demonstrated her artistic capacity, and has ever since maintained it; but never, in concert or in opera, has she disclosed her voice in such beautiful quality as she did last night. Her diction, too, was admirable and her enunciation of English was an object lesson to most native-born singers.

Mme. Von Niessen-Stone's programme included songs by Carl Loewe, Rangert, Wolff, Gonkel and Weingartner in German, and in English Mallinson's "Baby" and W. Rummel's "Twilight" and "Ecstasy." Besides, she gave a splendid exposition of the prison scene from Meyerbeer's "The Prophet" and added at the end Sidney Homer's "Deadest."

Ponchielli's "La Gioconda" was repeated at the Metropolitan Opera House last night before another crowded house. Emmy Destinn, in the title part, put more fervor into her impersonation than she has ever done. The character hitherto has never seemed to appeal to her. Louise Homer was a beautiful and convincing Laura, and Riccardo Martin, as Enzo, added much to his ever-growing reputation. Amato maintained his sinister exposition of Barnaba, singing gloriously, and Maria Claessens, as La Cieca, and De Segurola, as Alvise, were excellent. Begue, Missano and Audisio completed the cast. "The Dance of the Hours" was effective and Toscanini conducted as if the opera were a premier performance.
