CARNIVAL VOTES IN, RESULT WILL BE KNOWN TO-MORROW

Thousands of Ballots Swamp the "Election Inspectors" on Last Day.

CONTEST A CLOSE ONE.

Barons Plan a Great Night at Festival, Whether Chief Wins or Not.

With a variegated of ballots for Moe Baron, vast consignments from the different organizations supporting William D. Kolle, the South Brooklynite, by bundles for Curran and Smith and flowers, and each of the other candidates, the annual election of a King for the Coney Island Mardi Gras Carnival, which begins Monday and lasts out the week, closed at noon yesterday.

It is all over but the shouting, but the reader will have to shout on faith, for the counting board has not yet concluded the enumeration of the votes, and as it was the closest contest ever held in the six years since the institution of a popular election for the choice of a King for the week of revelry, the result will not be known certainly for several hours yet.

The complete returns will be given in The Evening World to-morrow and then the partisans of the winner can burn bonfires and "let off" fireworks, if they can get a permit from the Fire Department, and they can destroy as much "fuss" as they like.

Moe H. Baron, of the Belvidere Hotel, Williamsburg, and namesake of the Moe H. Baron Association of Williamsburg business men, came around late last night to ask how the election was going, and when he was told that half the votes were yet to be counted, he said:

BARONS WILL BE THERE WHETHER CHIEF WINS OR NOT.

"Well, The Evening World may say for me that whether I am elected, or the honor of wearing the crown of Coney Island next week has been conferred upon some other man, the Moe H. Baron Association will go to the Mardi Gras next Thursday, its sixth annual Mardi Gras frolic, just the same. There will be twenty-five tally-ho loads of us, each tally-ho drawn by six to eight horses and seating from twenty-five to forty couples. We will make the welkin ring with our brass bands and our tin horns. We will light the heavens with our fireworks, and we will have the best dinner that Fred B. Henderson can set before a hungry party of guests after the illuminated Mardi Gras pageant, in which the association has always had a conspicuous part since 1906.

"And after it is all over we will journey back to Williamsburg full of joy, though tired out, and just as happy as though your humble servant had been marooned in his beloved Coney for service as its King for the week of fun and frivolity. The tickets are $8, which includes everything."

How the other candidates and their ardent campaigners feel about it at this time of suspension and uncertainty as to the result of the election may be gathered from the letters to the Mardi Gras Editor, a few of which appear below:

LAST NOTES OF THE FIGHTERS BEFORE THE COUNT.

Please accept this 16,000 coupons from your employees. We all wish to see you crowned as King of Mardi Gras on Sept. 11.
A. GOTTSMAN, Sec'y.

Thirty-two thousand votes collected by members of the Brooklyn Institute Club. This is our last push. We know Mr. Kolle will win out, as we have done all in our power to elect the best King. Beg to thank all our members and their friends who sent in coupons for the royal support.
RICHARD SCHMIDT, President.

Four thousand votes to Kolle's credit. I know you will win made down. Grandpoint showed its colors in your behalf. Much luck from the boys.
EGYPTIAN BALL COMMITTEE,
Charles Gubring.

Twenty-four thousand coupons for William D. Kolle, collected since Labor Day at the office of Prospect Hall, brought in by the numerous friends in lots ranging from one vote to 1,500. On behalf of Mr. Kolle we wish to thank all the friends who so kindly assisted.
CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

We are sending by van a packing case in which please find 80,500 ballots, which kindly credit to our standard bearer, Moe H. Baron, a prince among good fellows. Mr. Baron had the support of thousands of friends. The campaign committee of the Moe H. Baron Association desires to thank our many friends, whether we win or not, for the splendid efforts they made to Mr. Baron's behalf and especially the Glenrock A. C. and Coney Island Athletic Club, their unexpected and therefore doubly appreciated assistance. We desire to publicly thank them and assure them that their services will not be forgotten.
JOHN H. A. DURKIN,
Chairman of Campaign Committee.

Inclosed find 430 votes, which credit to J. J. Sheelman. Had he been a candidate at the first day of the contest you can rest assured he would have been elected King of the Mardi Gras. He was only a candidate for one week, but drew 5,000 votes! So don't forget—if we all live to see the next year's Mardi Gras—J. J. Sheelman will be the King, and you can take it from us he would be the right kind of a man for the kingship.
J. J. SHEELMAN ASSOCIATION.

I am sending 5,000 votes to be credited to Moe H. Baron. The boys all know that if he is elected he will do more toward making the Mardi Gras a success than any other man. Hoping that he will win, and that this letter will be printed, I am, very truly,
JOE PERRY,
Coney Island.

Inclosed find 7,500 votes for one of our esteemed members, Moe Baron. Hoping to see him elected King, we remain,
L. KAUFMAN, Chairman.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY TO HAVE CARNIVAL OF WATER SPORTS

The business men of Sheepshead Bay will signalize the close of an exceptionally good season with a big Mardi Gras and carnival of water sports next Sunday. The arrangements are under the direction of Clifford & Evans. The Osborn pier will be the centre of the festivities, and the whole show will be free to the public. The celebration will practically be a starter for the great Coney Island Mardi Gras, which begins on Monday.

One hundred and fifty nine of the top-notchers in the swimming world and seventy-nine of the most notable divers are entered in the various events. Among those in the swimming races are Miss Elaine Golding, who recently swam from the Battery to Steeplechase Pier, the acknowledged champion female long-distanced swimmer of the world; Miss Ethel Edinson, fourteen years old, who in 1910 won the diving contest, 100-yard dash and half-mile swimming race; Miss Elsie Heineman, who has won all the notable diving contests in Greater New York in 1911 and is the champion woman diver of the world.

Miss Heineman has challenged Miss Annette Kellerman and Odiva, but her challenges have been side-stepped.

These contests are for women swimmers only.

UNCLE SHOT BY NEPHEW STAGGERED TO HOSPITAL.

Had Bullet Hole Through Leg, but Refused to Say Who Shot Him.

The front door bell of the Eastern District Hospital in Brooklyn rang sharply early this morning, and when a night orderly went to answer it he found a man lying on the door sill apparently in great pain. He pointed to his right thigh and murmured:

"They shoot me and bring me here. I feel ver' bad, ver' bad."

The orderly called assistance and the man was taken into the operating room, where it was found that he had a bullet hole through his thigh. He said he was Thomas Collanello, forty-five years old, of No. 266 North Ninth street. He refused to say who had shot him. "I fix him when I get out," was all he would say.

The night superintendent called up the Bedford avenue police station and discovered that there was a man under arrest in the Herbert street station charged with shooting Collanello. He was Dominick Dello, aged twenty-three, of No. 263 North Ninth street, the elder man's nephew. The two quarrelled in a saloon at Lorimer and Frost streets.

Dello was charged with felonious assault and carrying concealed weapons and was committed in default of $2,000 bail.
