Headquarters the old time detectives, who miss the "line-up" of prisoners, did not have the ancient chance at the man, but Capt. Jimmy Dunn immediately recognized Lewis as No. 3294 in the picture gallery. His right name is Jacob Gutstein, alias Goldstein, alias "Skinny Jake." In Brooklyn he was known as Charles Miller.

Policemen said that he had cried himself out of more scrapes than any man on the list. He was arrested for burglary Dec. 23, 1893, and released under suspended sentence. He got two and one-half years after his arrest July 19, 1894. Six other arrests followed, the last being May 14, 1909, and in each one of the cases the man was discharged.

The detectives said that twelve years ago he was in the apron business and that in one of his former crimes one of his partners in crime was shot.

Lewis was taken before Magistrate Appleton in the Morrisania Court. Capt. Post asked for forty-eight hours in which to prepare for the hearing. Magistrate Appleton thought that the case might be arranged for presentation this afternoon, and so directed.

The Magistrate complimented Policeman Brenecke for killing the other burglar, and said that he deserved a medal for bravery. The Court told Capt. Post that he ought to send a letter to Commissioner Waldo commending the policeman.

The burglar tools left by the band and two revolvers were exhibited in court.

As a reward for his work in preventing the safe robbery and bringing down one of the burglars, Police Commissioner Waldo to-day transferred Policeman John S. Brenecke to the detective force. Brenecke had been a member of the detective branch until a recent shake-up.

BOSH! SAYS MARY, LONDON HASN'T A TASTE FOR OPERA

she said, and she didn't mean to marry any of them—no, not even a rich one.

"I am quite able to support myself," she said.

Cleofonte Campanini, who was conductor for Hammerstein here and now conducts the Chicago opera, was an amused bystander during the interview with Miss Garden. He did not agree with her prediction of Hammerstein's probable failure in London. Campanini thought that London was warming up to the erratic genius.

Gatti Casazza, the director of the Metropolitan Opera House, with his wife, Mme. Alda, and Marie Rappold, and Mme. Tony Keller, were among the other operatic people on the ship. Mme. Alda complained bitterly that she had learned to play poker on the trip and had lost a whole $150 to Marie Rappold.

Alfred Herz, the Metropolitan Wagnerian conductor, talked of a new opera which is to be produced here this winter. It is by Thuille. Mr. Herz has been studying "Mona," Prof. Parker's $10,000 prize work, which is also to be produced here this season. He called it a tremendously powerful work with marvellously intricate orchestration, but little melody.

MAYOR APPROVES BILLS.

Will Sign Exemption of Traffic Squad and Court House Measure.

Mayor Gaynor announced to-day that he would approve the legislative bills exempting members of the Traffic Squad from the operations of the three-platoon system, and the Court House bill, which enables the Board of Estimate to decide upon a site for the new County Court House. No city park is to be used for the site.

The Mayor gave hearings on both bills to-day. Former Comptroller Metz advocated the Traffic Squad exemption in the interests of the members, who had urged him to present their side.

FIRE PREVENTION HITS SNAG

Budget Committee Gives Commissioner Eight Inspectors, Not 300.

Of three hundred inspectors asked by Fire Commissioner Johnson from the Budget Committee to-day, he was allowed only eight, which is totally inadequate, the Commissioner said. The men were intended to be placed in the Bureau of Fire Prevention legalized by the Legislature and was urged after the Asch Building fire.

Commissioner Johnson said that he proposed to inspect tenements as well as factories, and intended that inspectors would instruct tenants in fire prevention.

PICKING JURORS WHO WILL SIT IN M'NAMARA TRIAL

First Court Move in Dynamiting Case Made by Calling of 125 Talesmen.

400 WITNESSES LISTED.

John McNamara on Eve of Appearance Before the Bar, Talks of His Career.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 9.—One hundred and twenty-five citizens of Los Angeles, from whom twelve may be called upon to pass on the guilt or innocence of John J. and James B. McNamara in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting case, gathered to-day in the new court room of Judge Walter Bordwell.

The men constituted the first venire to be summoned as jurors in the McNamara trial, which is set to begin Wednesday. They were called to enable the court to excuse those who for ordinary reasons may be unable to act.

The names of the veniremen were kept secret when drawn, and the calling of each juror was attended by a hasty scratching of pencils as representatives of opposing counsel in the coming trial jotted the names down for reference.

FEW WANT TO SERVE AS JURORS IN CASE.

One had "married a wife;" another's farm needed attention; a third was hard of hearing; another's general health would suffer if confined so long; another would not make a good juror. These and numerous other excuses were offered by the men examined to-day. It is evident that few residents of this county want to serve, some of the excuses offered being laughable.

District-Attorney Fedricks to-day again refused to state which of the two defendants would be tried first. The defense announced, however, that it is ready to try either and that there will be no request for a postponement when the cases come up Wednesday.

Detective William Burns will arrive next week to remain during the trials. He will have entire charge of the prosecution's evidence. Reports were circulated to-day that the prosecution holds an associate of James McNamara, whom Burns found in Europe. It is stated that the State is prepared to "spring" this man as a witness at the psychological moment. Fredericks declined to confirm or deny the rumor.

By agreement to-day between attorneys of each side, the re-examination of Attorney John R. Harrington of counsel for the McNamaras before the Grand Jury was postponed for resetting. This was done to permit Attorney Darrow and his assistants and District-Attorney Fredericks to attend the examination of the first venire of jurymen.

The prosecution has spent $1,000,000 in preparing for the trial, which will be held in the new Hall of Records Building here.

Four hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear against the accused brothers.

State's attorneys, assisted by the William J. Burns Detective Agency, have been at work on the case for six months.

JOHN M'NAMARA TALKS OF HIS CAREER.

Sitting in a corridor just outside his cell in the county jail, John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, briefly sketched what he termed the uneventful lives of himself and his brother, James B. McNamara.

"I was born in Cincinnati Dec. 23, 1876," he said, "and I am the oldest of six children living, although there were ten children originally. I attended the common schools in Cincinnati until I was twelve years old and then took a three-year course in a business college.

"Nothing of any importance happened to me until the panic began in 1892, when I turned my hand to anything and everything to keep the pot boiling, as they say.

"I did my first bridgework at Cincinnati in 1898, joining the union the next year. Between 1898 and 1904, I visited various sections of the Middle West, following my trade and working on steel bridges, viaducts and similar structures.

"I have held all of the offices in local unions, particularly in those of Cleveland, and have attended all the conventions of the international association since 1902. I was elected second vice-president at the convention at Kansas City in 1906, and was chosen secretary-treasurer at Toronto in 1908. I have held that office ever since.

"The last building I worked on was the Rockefeller structure in Cleveland. I left that job to go to Toronto, and it was held open for me if I wanted to go back, but I didn't, as I had been made secretary-treasurer and had my time fully taken up with the duties of that office.

"The offices of the International association were in New York when I was first elected. Later, for sentimental reasons, I was instrumental in having them moved to Cleveland. Two years after the offices were removed there another change was made to Indianapolis, for the reason that so many labor organizations had their international headquarters there.

NEVER PLANNED HIS LIFE FAR AHEAD.

"I never planned my life far ahead. The work of an ironworker probably precludes such planning, for such a man does not know when he leaves home in the morning that he will return at night. It probably tends toward fatalism.

"I wanted to learn of the organization in which I held office, particularly the legal end of it, and so I attended the Indianapolis College of Law and was admitted to practice in 1909.

"There is little else about my life except my arrest. I am an inveterate reader, and always have been, of books treating with economics and industrial matters."

James B. McNamara, who sat quietly by while his brother talked, also was born in Cincinnati. His birthday was June 2, 1882. He attended the common schools and then learned the printer's trade, which he has followed almost continuously ever since, working in job offices in Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati and other cities.

"Unlike me," said John J. McNamara, "my brother has never been especially active in trades union affairs."

fore he could be raised to the ground level. The list of dead and injured follows:

THE DEAD.

JOHN PAULINO, twenty-eight, No. 341 East Seventy-fourth street.

MIKE YONGO, twenty-five, No. 341 East Seventy-fourth street.

Unknown laborer known as "Joe."

Unknown laborer known as "Mike."

THE INJURED.

MICHAEL KEARNEY, thirty-eight, No. 333 St. Paul's avenue, Jersey City, foreman. Severe lacerations of scalp and face. In a prisoner in Flower Hospital.

JOHN WACO, twenty-four, No. 315 East Seventy-first street. Severe lacerations of scalp. Flower Hospital.

WALLACE BRENDO, thirty-two, No. 308 East Seventy-fourth street. Lacerations of leg and body. Flower Hospital.

PETER HOLENDO, twenty-six, No. 341 East Seventy-fourth street. Contusions of the body; went home.

GEORGE KOCKO, twenty-six, No. 330 East Seventy-first street. Contusions of the body; went home.

MIKE STEHNEY, No. 341 East Seventy-fourth street. Bruises; went home.

Supt. Martin was locked up in the East Sixty-seventh street station. He denied any carelessness, but could offer no explanation of the explosion except that already suggested. He said that the bottom of the shaft had always been carefully gone over after each blast to discover if any of the dynamite had failed to discharge.

It was suggested that perhaps a stick which had failed to explode had remained buried in the bottom of the hole in which it had been placed, and that the hole Pauline began to drill struck this first hole at right angles.

The Bravo Construction Company is boring two more tunnel shafts in Central Park at the West Drive and Seventy-ninth and Ninety-third streets, respectively. Each of the shafts is sixteen feet in diameter and will be 300 feet deep when completed.

TURKEY'S NOTE SEEKING PEACE REACHES GERMANY

Sultan Asks Powers to Have Time Fixed for Intervention in War With Italy.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—A circular not from the Turkish government asking the Powers whether they consider that the time has arrived to seek a basis for negotiations looking to peace between Turkey and Italy, and under what conditions, was presented to the German Foreign Office to-day. The note contemplates the secession of Tripoli to Italy under certain conditions.

It is probable that the communication from Constantinople will be discussed between the other Powers before the Italian government is approached. It is thought at the Foreign Office that Italy may not be ready yet to negotiate.

The decision to expel Italians from Turkey, against which the representations of the German Ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, have not been effective yet, was designed chiefly, it is thought here, for effect upon the coming negotiations, Turkey hoping that the threat might induce the Italians to make moderate terms.

ROME (via frontier), Oct. 9.—Friends of Rechid Pasha explain that his refusal to accept the portfolio of Foreign Affairs in the new Turkish Cabinet was due to a disagreement with his colleagues over a programme which he submitted as a basis for a settlement with Italy. He was formerly Ambassador to Italy, and his twelve years' residence in Rome gave him a knowledge of Italy's armaments, resources and diplomatic connections with the other powers that convinced him that the only possible way in which Turkey could save anything was to cede Tripoli to this country now.

Demonstrations in honor of King Victor Emmanuel as he proceeded from San Rossore to Naples for a farewell to the troops embarking for Tripoli indicate that the war continues popular.

During last night great crowds filled the railway stations and lined the route of the royal train. They carried lanterns and torches and whenever the train stopped demanded to see the King.

They refused to accept the excuse that His Majesty needed rest, having had little sleep for two weeks, and the sovereign was compelled to appear repeatedly. He was rewarded invariably with an outburst of applause.

Most of the bishops have directed the clergy to urge their congregations to pray for the success of the Italian army.

It is understood here that the Powers will make representations at Constantinople notifying Turkey that Italy, with a view to avoiding grave complications the consequences of which would be detrimental chiefly to Turkey, has agreed to limit the war to Tripoli. Moreover that this principle will be abandoned if the Ottoman Government is unable to restrain excesses against Italy on Turkish territory and thus forces Italy to carry the war into other provinces of the Turkish Empire for the direct protection of her subjects and their interests, which Germany could not safeguard without using force.

Comparison of the situation in Turkey will be made with the treatment accorded Turkish subjects and institutions in Italy, where no attack has been made upon Turks and no violence committed against the Turkish Embassy or Consulate, while the Turkish vessels in Italian waters have been unmolested.

MALTA, Oct. 9.—The Italian torpedo-boat destroyer Borea arrived here to-day escorting a steamer with prisoners of war from Tripoli. The British officials decided to refuse the Italian vessel a supply of provisions. The prisoners included the Turkish officials and crew of a torpedo-boat destroyer which surrendered at Tripoli.

IDA VON CLAUSSEN SENDS THE COURT A QUEER MESSAGE

Telegraphs Justice Greenbaum She Wants Justice in a Case Before Him.

ALSO GIVES A WARNING.

Court Adjourns Hearing After Asking the Woman if She Was Ever Committed.

Mrs. Ida Von Claussen, whose eccentricities have won her notoriety on two continents, created a sensation to-day before Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court when she bounded from her seat in front of the bench to the witness chair and admitted excitedly that she had sent the Court a telegram, which read:

Honan vs. Honan——ustice Greenbaum, N. Y.: Justice and liberty are all I want. If foul play marks your decision, God help you.

Justice Greenbaum had received the telegram at his home last night and was greatly puzzled by it. He knew that there was a case of Honan vs. Honan on his calendar, but he was not familiar with any of the facts of the case.

It developed later that Mrs. Von Claussen was the plaintiff in the case, resuming for the purposes of the action the name of her second husband, Dr. William Francis Honan. She brought the suit for the purpose of opening an old judgment rendered in a suit brought against her by Dr. Honan. In 1906 she obtained a divorce from Dr. Honan at Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

JUSTICE GREENBAUM SHOWS THE STRANGE TELEGRAM.

Justice Greenbaum was equally ignorant of these facts and the identity of Mrs. Von Claussen when the clerk called the case of Honan vs. Honan. He saw the beautifully gowned woman sitting in front of him beside her counsel, George Robinson, and he was startled when she rushed from her seat and climbed into the witness chair. The Justice had the strange telegram in his hands. He held it out toward the counsel table.

"Who sent me this telegram?" he asked.

"I have not received justice at the hands of the United States," declared Mrs. Von Claussen.

Justice Greenbaum turned quickly.

"I asked who sent this telegram," he said.

"I did. I honored you," exclaimed the woman.

"You honored me?" said the Court. "Why, you never heard of me before, did you?"

"No, but I knew you to be a member of the bar."

"Why did you send me this telegram?" asked Justice Greenbaum. "You had better read it to make sure."

Mr. Von Claussen read it and tossed it back on the bench.

"I knew I wanted justice and I feared the judges of this court would not treat me right."

TELLS COURT ALL THAT SHE WANTS IS JUSTICE.

"Do you realize the seriousness of your position?"

"I want only justice."

"I will adjoin this court," said Justice Greenbaum, "and later will decide what to do in your case. Were you ever committed?"

"No," said Mrs. Von Claussen, "but they have tried to do it. I am a very nice, respectable woman. I want justice."

"I will see what we can do for you," said the Court, and the case was put over.

WALL STREET

An attempt to start a Monday morning rise at the opening of to-day's stock market quickly petered out after fractional advances had been established in a number of leading issues. Subsequently heavy selling pressure was exerted against Steel, Union and Southern Pacific, Reading and Atchison that succeeded in lowering these stocks from 1 to 2 points below the closing of Saturday. While selling of these shares was not exceptionally heavy, the pressure was in sufficient volume to weaken other shares.

Lehigh Valley and Reading continued extremely weak during midday. Both shares sold off over 2 points from the opening. Transactions in other securities displayed a tendency to break away from these two shares, and at the beginning of the final hour a somewhat stronger tone was evinced. Especially strong was the Southern group of railroads. Atlantic Coast and Louisville & Nashville made sensational advances of 4 points each, while Southern Railroad fell in line with a gain of over 1 point.

The close was quiet and steady. Net changes were not materially altered from last week's finish.
