A Denby for Every Job

Model 12—1 Ton Capacity

The 1-ton Denby, although the smallest of the line, is exactly the same in quality, in materials and in satisfactory service, as the other models. It carries the same wide factor of safety in every part, the same provisions for each adjustment, the same economy in operation and in upkeep.

It is an ideal truck for the many lines of business that need a strong, reliable, speedy, quality vehicle of this size,—one that will give economical, dependable service year after year.

This truck attains a high standard of performance that is unusual in trucks of this class. It has the power, the rugged construction and the high road clearance to work successfully over any kind of roads, yet its fuel consumption is very small.

Model 13—2 Tons Capacity

The Denby 2-ton truck has met perfectly the requirements of thousands of owners. This size unit has always been a popular one especially among retail and wholesale dealers in furniture, hardware, groceries, and kindred lines; among florists, laundries, jobbers, farmers and manufacturers of small products; and for the handling of trailers.

It combines speed, economy and low operating cost. It has unusually large load space for a truck of this capacity yet has the ease in handling necessary for the economical handling of city delivery.

Model 15—3 Tons Capacity

The Denby 3-ton truck meets the needs of that large class of business whose requirements are between the extremes of very heavy haulage and the light speed wagons. It has the sturdy construction—the stamina—essential to reliability and low upkeep under constant heavy load and the reasonable weight that allows a fairly high speed and assures low fuel expenses.

The first consideration in the purchase of a Denby is not a machine but a certain amount of service the buyer will get from the machine. It is not a machine but a certain amount of service to do everything it may be called upon to do, and do it the business, but a liability.

A thorough appreciation of these facts is retained by thousands of Denby owners throughout the world. The material is determined by the same standard—will it stand up under conditions of actual work?
