Rocky Mountain Cure.

The druggists claim that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far West for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

Died From Burns.

John Medlich, a Pole residing on East Bowers street, died at the Miners' Hospital last night from the result of burns received by the explosion of powder in Maple Hill colliery on the 25th of May, last. The explosion was caused by a spark dropping from Medlich's lamp into the powder. A wife and three children, the oldest child being a little over three years of age, survive the deceased. The widow is also enciente. The remains were delivered at the family residence at noon to-day.

"WONDERFUL SHOW."

Thus says the Allentown "Critic" of Pawnee Bill's Show.

The Allentown Critic stated yesterday: "The great Wild West aggregation of Major W. Gordon Lilly, known to the public as Pawnee Bill, then gave their exhibition. It was opened by the grand introduction and amid deafening applause the several members rode in front of the grand stand. Mr. S. R. Shepherd, the spokesman, stood in the judges' stand and in his genial manner gave the vast audience an inside track of the wonderful show. To him the spectators paid considerable attention and his explanation of each and every act of the great show was one worthily appreciated. Every word spoken by him could be easily understood by the enormous assemblage. The entire performance was given with such excellent neatness and dispatch that when the thousands of people left the grounds in the evening everybody pronounced the Wild West Show as the greatest that they had ever seen. To be appreciated, the public should witness it. The success of the spring races is mainly due to the amazing and wonderful feats of portraying life on the plains, as represented at the exhibition on the fair ground. It is not necessary to go into details about the show for we care not to attempt anything that pen and type cannot do justice. Mr. Lilly has surrounded himself with a powerful company and their performances cannot fail to please even the most skeptic. Miss May Lilly is the principal lady character of the show and her appearance and graceful exhibitions are remarkable. She is without a doubt the greatest female manipulator of the rifle who has ever given an exhibition in this city. The applause given her was well bestowed. Go and see their highly interesting entertainment."

Startling Facts.

The American people are rapidly becoming a race of nervous wrecks, and the following suggests the best remedy: Ainhouse Hempfling, of Butler, Pa., swears that when his son was speechless from St. Vitus dance Dr. Miles' great Restorative Nervine cured him. Mrs J. R. Miller, of Valparaiso, and J. D. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., each gained 20 pounds from taking it. Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vistula, Ind., was cured of 40 to 50 convulsions a day, and much headache, dizziness, backache and nervous prostration by one bottle. Trial bottles, and fine books of marvelous cures, free at C. H. Hagenbuch, the druggist, who recommends and guarantees this unequaled remedy.

ANOTHER SWINDLE.

Housekeepers and Servants Look Out for This.

Attention is called to a form of swindling which has already been worked successfully in the coal regions.

A well dressed man with a business like air enters the house with a box of envelopes which contains stationery, exhibits his wares and tries to make a sale. He tells the woman that in addition to the stationery there is a cash prize in each package. Of course she is loathe to believe this at first. To convince her the sharper allows her to draw a package for nothing. He opens it and to the great surprise of the beholder he extracts a ten dollar bill from the envelope. This he, to all appearances, places in another envelope and puts back among the others in the box. Several other packages are opened before the woman's eyes and each contains money ranging in sums of $2 and upwards. When he has about convinced the woman that she has struck a veritable El Dorado he offers to sell her six of the packages for one dollar. As a general rule six will not suffice the average woman. In one case reported a Westherly woman bought eight dollars worth, getting fifty of the packages. Her servant girl bought a dozen of the envelopes and several of the neighbors whom the woman of the house had invited in to get rich purchased the tempting packages in greater or lesser quantities. The purchaser is assured that there is money in every package, but she must agree not to open them until the chief agent comes around. If the packages are not all that the sub-agents represent them to be the money will be returned. Of course, no agent comes and finally the woman opens the packages. She feels somewhat guilty at breaking her promise with the agent, but when the contents of the package are laid bare to her eyes she feels like breaking his neck. Instead of a ministure mint there is about three cents' worth of writing paper and a penny pen in the mysterious envelope.
