A NARROW ESCAPE!

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I weighed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130. Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent specialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

Speech Restored.

For five years I suffered with pain and discharge of the throat, hacking cough, frontal headache, weak eyes, &c., at times, could not talk above a whisper; lost weight continually, and not able to work. I was treated by the best physicians in the county, but received no relief. After giving up all hopes I was recommended to use a bottle of Mayers' Magnetic Catarrh Cure. After using it for four weeks my speech returned. All symptoms of Catarrh have disappeared and "I feel like a different person."

A CHURCH MASSACRE.

Details of the Slaughter of Catholics in Russia.

SEVENTY TO A HUNDRED KILLED.

Cossacks Rode Into the Church on Horseback, Destroyed Sacred Ornaments and Knouted and Speared the Worshipers. Dead Bodies Thrown Into a Cesspool.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Several reports have recently been circulated regarding a massacre of Catholics which was said to have take place at Krosche, Russia, and cossack soldiers belonging to the Russian government are said to have been implicated in this massacre.

Various versions of the affair have been given and each version has been officially denied by the Russian government. The Cologne Gazette, on the other hand, some days ago repudiated these official denials, and professed to give details of the cruelty of the cossacks.

The Volks Zeitung says that the Catholics at Krosche took turns to guard the church for eight days previous to the massacre, in order to prevent their co-religionists from being surprised by the Russian cossacks, but in spite of the precautions they were surprised at 2 o'clock during the morning of Nov. 10 by Prefect Klingenberg and forty armed cossack policemen.

It is said the prefect, at the head of this force of cossacks, entered the church in which about seventy Catholics were gathered. The cossacks, cursing and yelling, rushed upon the worshipers, knouting them and striking them with their swords until the church echoed with the screams of the wounded.

Some of the Catholics ran to the belfry, where they rang the bells in alarm. Thousands of people soon gathered around the church and the Russian officials were forced out of the building. Only the prefect and his deputy succeeded in resisting the efforts of the inhabitants, and these two men retreated to the organ loft, from which place they opened fire upon the people in the church, until the former escaped and the latter was overpowered and eventually confined in a cell situated in a neighboring convent.

Late the same day a detachment of some 300 cossacks were sent from Kovno to Krosche. They were armed with rifles, lances and knouts. Upon arrival at Krosche the cossacks were divided into two detachments. One body surrounded the township on all sides and the other rode at a gallop towards the church and dashed, with lances drawn, into the crowd outside the building, spearing and shooting and lashing with their knouts all who came within their reach. Many were killed and wounded.

The cossacks then rode their horses into the church, and the massacre of people inside began. They shot and speared right and left until the floor and walls of the church were drenched with blood.

The cossacks are said to have acted like demons, smashing the crucifixes, candlesticks and images of saints and then throwing the pieces into a cesspool.

The cossacks then rode over the people right and left and dragged the corpses by their feet to the cesspool and threw them into this horrible hole until it was choked with the bodies of the dead as well as by a number of those who were only wounded.

The people, it appears, fled in all directions while the massacre was going on and were pursued and captured or badly wounded by the cossacks of the second detachment, which was detailed to surround the town and to prevent the escape of any of the inhabitants. A number of the latter are said to have been so panic stricken that they committed suicide, many of them jumping into the swollen river, were they were drowned.

The rest of the unfortunate inhabitants were surrounded by the cossacks, who, lance in hand, drove them before them to the market place in front of the town hall. Here every man, woman and child of the town was ordered to be punished by being flogged with the knout.

The number of people killed is not definitely stated, but report places the number at all the way from seventy to a hundred, with a very large number so severely injured that they have since died of their injuries or have been maimed for life.

Spanish Anarchists Sentenced.

MADRID, Jan. 3.—The trial of the anarchists Jean Marie Delboche and Manuel Ferreiero, who were charged with attempting to blow up the cortes last April, and of Detective Munoz, who was charged with inciting Delboche and Ferreiro to commit the crime, was ended yesterday. They were found guilty of conspiring to commit an outrage at the cortes, and were sentenced to seven years' penal servitude each.

Death of Bishop McNeirney.

ALBANY, Jan. 3.—Surrounded by the clergy of the city, after the last sacraments had been administered, Right Rev. Francis McNeirney, Catholic bishop of Albany, died last night of pneumonia, aged 65. Bishop McNeirney's intellectual accomplishments were known throughout the state, and at the last session of the legislature he was chosen a member of the state board of regents.

The Sicilian Riots.

PALERMO, Jan. 3.—Five persons were killed and many others wounded in the riots at Pietra-Perata Monday night. Fierce rioting is also reported from Madura, and much damage to property was caused by the mob. Many buildings were burned, and the streets and squares are strewn with the ruins. Four persons were wounded at that place.

Grow in the Lead.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—At a caucus of the Philadelphia delegation last night ex-Speaker Galusha A. Grow was unanimously indorsed for the Republican nomination as congressman-at-large. This is taken as insuring his nomination at the convention today.

DENOUNCING MITCHELL.

Jacksonville Sports Disgusted with the English Pugilist.

REFUSED TO SIGN NEW ARTICLES.

The Amended Articles Were Merely an Effort to Insure a Contest, and Had Been Previously Signed by the American Champion.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 3.—Charley Mitchell has shown the white feather, or something that very much resembles that article despised by all lovers of the prize ring. Despite his alleged consuming desire to face Corbett in the arena, the latest developments seem to indicate that the Englishman is ready to squeeze through any loophole to escape meeting the champion of America. That, and not the alleged knockout of the Duval Athletic club by Governor Mitchell in the courts here yesterday, is the sensation of the day in sporting circles.

After Solicitor Christie, under coercion from the governor, refused to have anything to do with the test case brought by the Athletic club by which the promoters of the contest hoped to have the Florida law relating to prize fights settled so as to preclude the possibility of any interference on the day set for the fight, the managers of the club began casting about for ways and means to "pull off" the affair in spite of the governor and the courts.

Manager Bowden sent Harry Mason over to St. Augustine to see Mitchell and induce him to sign amended articles of agreement. The original articles, at Mitchell's suggestion, provided that the fight should occur "within two miles of the city of Jacksonville." The club wished to change this clause so as to have it read that the fight should occur "within the state of Florida."

When the situation of affairs was explained to Mitchell and he was asked to affix his name to the amended articles of agreement, he flatly refused to sign. Mason urged and expostulated with the Englishman, telling him that the change was simply one of precaution in view of the governor's hostile attitude, but to no avail.

The articles Mitchell was asked to sign had already been signed by Corbett. It was explained to the American that in the event of a imperative prohibition from the governor they would have the battle take place upon the day agreed upon, but at a place somewhere within the state of Florida, the exact location of which, however, would be known only to the train dispatcher over whose road the crowd would go to the battle ground, and to the members of the Duval club who would have the matter in charge. The articles were identical with the original articles, except that the principals were not to know the location of the scene of the battle until two hours before the start was to be made. Corbett read the articles carefully, and then without the slightest hesitation picked up a pen and attached his signature to them.

Manager Bowden will go over to St. Augustine this afternoon and force Mitchell to sign the amended articles or brand him to the world as having shown the white feather.

Mitchell's action has aroused the greatest indignation among the sporting men at present in this city. His friends have no excuses to offer, while Corbett's admirers claim that it is plain evidence on the part of Mitchell that he is afraid to meet Corbett, and is hoping that something will turn up to prevent the fight.

Mayor Fletcher last evening sent to the city council his veto of the ordinance proposed last month, legalizing glove contests in the city. After some discussion the ordinance was passed over the mayor's veto.

A Belligerent Police Chief.

SOUTH OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 3.—At the city council meeting last night Chief of Police Beckett was handed a note from the mayor calling for his resignation. Beckett tore the note into bits and threw them in the mayor's face. He then tore off his star and threw that at the mayor. Mayor Waller called on two policemen to eject the ex-chief, but the latter drew a revolver and said he could clean out the whole force. No attempt was made to arrest him. Further trouble is feared, as underneath all is the fight between the A. P. A. and the antis.

Rice's Charges to be Investigated.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—The proceedings brought by Isaac L. Rice, of New York, against the receivers of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company, in which a lengthy petition for their removal, containing a series of sensational charges, was filed, have been referred by Judge Butler to George L. Crawford, the special master in litigations arising under the receivership, to take testimony.

A Boy's Eyes Blown Out.

BRAZIL, Ind., Jan. 3.—Frank Hadley, Frederick Phelps, and two boys named Hawkins secured a can of powder and took it to a near by grove to celebrate the new year. The can was prematurely exploded, and the eyes of one of the Hawkins boys were blown entirely out, while the other boy's were horribly burned.

A WISCONSIN MURDER MYSTERY.

On Trial for Killing the Wife of His Benefactor.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Jan. 3.—The trial of Matthew Ashton, charged with the murder of Mrs. Daniel Stone, began yesterday. The story is a romantic one. One dark night Hon. Daniel Stone, one of the richest men in Rock county, was called from his home and struck on the head with a club. Mr. Stone hired a detective, William M. Butt, to find out who assaulted him. Butt stopped at the Stone house under the guise of a fisherman. It was whispered that he believed that Mrs. Stone did the clubbing. This report created a sensation, but nothing like the sensation that came when Mrs. Stone was found dead in the cistern at her home.

The grand jury indicted Matthew Ashton, a nephew of Mrs. Stone, who resided on the same farm. Daniel Stone, until his death a short time ago, was Ashton's firmest friend, and went his bail in the sum of $10,000. He steadily refused to believe Ashton guilty. The third chapter came in the contest of the will of Mr. Stone, in which Ashton was the chief beneficiary. This case is still unsettled.

An Insolent Tramp Rebuked.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 3.—A tramp called at the residence of Rev. Peter Christ, of St. Mary's Catholic church, and demanded something to eat. A servant gave him some bread and butter and a cup of coffee. Father Christ had just come in from saying mass, and as he passed the tramp the latter said: "This is a —— of a nice dinner to get at a priest's house." The reverend gentleman reached for a stout stick and the tramp started for the door, followed by the priest. When near the gate the tramp pulled a pistol and aimed it at Father Christ's breast, when the latter reached him and dealt him a resounding blow over the head. The tramp dropped the pistol and fled.

Held for the Grand Jury.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—The close of the inquest into the death of John J. Koehler, 19 years old, of Amber street, who became on New Year's morning a victim to a carelessly handled pistol in the hands of George Koller, a younger companion, excited the sympathy of the auditors. The lad who had just been held responsible by the jury for taking a friend's life sobbed bitterly, and called loudly for his father, who came to his side and joined in his tears. Young Koller was committed to await the action of the grand jury.

Assaulted from Behind.

POMPTON, N. J., Jan. 3.—The supposed murdered man, whose body was brought to this place by Professor Albert Robinson, of Paterson, proves to be James West, a peddler who lived at Black Oak Ridge. He was thought to be dead when found, but recovered sufficiently to give his name. Although West was well known to everybody in Pompton, his injuries had so disfigured him that no one had suspected his identity until he told his name. He says some one assaulted him from behind. He is sinking slowly.
