White Mills.

Oct. 21st.—Jennie Williams, of Hawley, was a caller in town on Saturday and Sunday.

We had an exciting time here on Monday morning last. Gustave Weick drove into town with a small pig in his wagon, which thrust its snout through the crate and bit him. Gus, in retaliation gave the pig's nose a kick, whereupon the horse promptly kicked Gus. Gus returned the horse's salute, and a general kicking match ensued, which resulted in both horse and man getting their feet entangled in the whiffletree. The horse finally fell, and John Dorflinger and Dr. E. B. Gavitte ran to the help of the beast, when the doctor sustained a painful sprain of his arm. Everything was finally straightened out, however, and man, horse and pig started for Hawley but little the worse for the shake-up. The last seen of the party was the tip of a whip whirling in the air.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lambert, of Amsterdam, N. Y., who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Lambert's uncle, Joseph Atkinson, returned to their home on Saturday last.

Wesley Watson, of Forest Lake, was a recent visitor in White Mills, and improved the opportunity to attend lodge, and renew old friendships.

Emmet Hurley returned to his home here on Sunday last, after spending six weeks at Dr. Burns's hospital in Scranton.

Father Kesler left here for New York on Monday after conducting Mission services the previous week. The lessons were both instructive and interesting and were greatly appreciated by large congregations at all the services.

Eugene Dorflinger is visiting friends in Boston, Somerville and other parts of New England.

George Andrews, of Middletown, an old resident of this place, with his bride, paid a visit to E. Wood. On departing for home on Sunday their nephew, Elwin, very appropriately presented to them a handsome wedding bell of the famous Dorflinger Glass.

Lewis Wagner and Minnie Reid, one of our most popular young couples, are embarking to-day upon the sea of matrimony. Their numerous friends unite in wishing them a long and happy voyage. They will reside in a nicely furnished home on Elizabeth street.

Wild Ballooning.

This year's balloon race at Berlin proved unproductive of results except to deepen the conviction that ordinary ballooning is in the highest degree foolhardy. The balloons drifted in one general direction, and the race proved to be merely a test of endurance for the balloons and of the nerve of their navigators. The lesson of the ventures as to air currents seems to be that the currents in the northern part of Europe are to be avoided unless the voyager wants to drift toward the North sea. The contest in America a year ago was much more instructive in a practical way.

The race from St. Louis for the Bennett cup in October, 1907, was really a speed test. The balloons drifted eastward, as they were expected to do, and apparently confirmed the theory held by aeronauts fifty years ago that there is a reliable eastward current that the skilled balloonist may enter and travel in at the rate of forty to sixty miles an hour with some chance of landing near a destination fixed beforehand. This current was noted by Professor Wise during an ascent with La Mountain in the fifties. This trip began at St. Louis and ended in Jefferson county, N. Y., the balloon traveling 1,150 miles—826 air line—in twenty hours. Wise believed that he could cross the Atlantic in a balloon, but lacked funds to make the venture. These early balloonists at least made discoveries as a warrant for their daring. In one ascent Washington Donaldson's balloon collapsed at the height of a mile, but the aeronaut kept his senses. Seeing that the balloon swayed instead of descending rapidly, he clung to the basket and landed in a tree. Wise had a similar experience and then adopted the parachute with success. The eastward current is supposed to be two miles above the earth. If it is there always some daring aeronaut may chance to get into it and add useful knowledge to this particular branch of aeronautics.

Personal Liberty.

Every great election brings out in some form this question of personal liberty. It is often strenuously invoked, although the right to its exercise is seldom if ever strenuously denied. It is probably stretched unreasonably more often than it is unjustly confined.

If a man living where there is but a single highway wished to shift a pile of heavy bowlders and in the course of transferring them should deposit them in the middle of the road so that no team could pass he would be going no further in the exercise of liberty than do some who take license with liberty. No man will do that, because he knows that personal liberty is the right of all, and every one must guard it for all. This is the sane view, and if it were generally lived up to there would be few clashes on this question. All roads are everybody's, and no man or class should abuse privileges on them.

Roosevelt as Editor.

Gossip with a peg to hang its tales upon has settled for Roosevelt's case the burning question, "What shall be done with ex-presidents?" After doing the stunt in the African jungle he is to edit a magazine. There were good grounds for the guess. He had been engaged to write a series of hunting articles for one periodical, and the only way to get a "beat" on the lucky publisher was to go one better and star the ex-president as the editor of a rival magazine.

Mr. Roosevelt is a ready writer and will have an immense audience for his output. His opinions will always find a world of some magnitude awaiting, and as editor he will have both opportunity and incentive to slice them up and dole them out just when they will be most likely to "hit the nail hard."

With a warship fleet going to the rescue of a balloon fleet which was done up in a peace cruise, it looks as though predictions of the havoc an airy navy can play with old style armament is forty horsepower loose talk.

It goes without saying that whatever copyright name the magazine to be edited by "ex-President" Roosevelt sails under the public will never know it as other than "Roosevelt's magazine."

A letter mailed fourteen years ago recently reached its destination. If that had happened to certain letters heard from lately a world of bother would have been saved all around.

So Tolstoy is a "no government" man. That's usually the way when one has had "too much of a good thing" as it is made in Russia.

If the kaiser really wants to acquire glory as the inventor of a brake he should get up something that will call a halt on runaway balloons.

We may thank the Balkans for at least a temporary suppression of fighting mandates from Castro.

The man that rocks the boat has evidently begun setting forests afire just to see folks scamper.

LAWS RELATING TO ELECTIONS.

And I the said Sheriff do further make known and give notice of the following provisions of law relating to said elections:

OF THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS.

CONSTITUTION OF PENNSYLVANIA—ART. VIII.

SECTION 1.—Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

First.—He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

Second.—He shall have resided in the State one year, (or if having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the State, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third.—He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth.—If twenty-two years of age, or upwards, he shall have paid within two years a State or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election.

SECTION 2.—For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained a residence by reason of his presence, or lost it by reason of his absence, while employed in the service either civil or military, of this State, or of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State, or of the United States, or on the high seas, nor while a student in any institution of learning, nor while kept in any poor house or other asylum at the public expense nor while confined in a public prison.

OF ELECTION OFFICERS.

CONSTITUTION OF PENNSYLVANIA—ART. VIII.

SECTION 14. District election boards shall consist of a judge and two inspectors, who shall be chosen annually by the citizens. Each elector shall have the right to vote for the judge and one inspector, and each inspector shall appoint one clerk. Election officers shall be privileged from arrest upon days of election, and while engaged in making up and transmitting returns, except upon warrant of a court of record or judge thereof, for an election fraud, for felony, or for wanton breach of the peace.

SECTION 15.—No person shall be qualified to serve as an election officer who has held or shall within two months have held any office, appointment or employment under the government of the United States or of this State, or of any city, or county or of any municipal board, commission or trust in any city, save only his loss of the place and alderman or justice of the peace and persons in military service of the State; nor shall any election officer be eligible to any civil office to be filled by any election at which he shall serve, save only to such subordinate municipal or local offices as below the grade of city or county officers [illegible] by the legislature or general law.

ACT OF JUNE 30, 1893, SECTION 10.

Every current or existing position of the peace who shall hold any office or appointment of profit or trust under the government of the United States or of this state or of any city or incorporated district, whether a commissioned officer or agent, who is or shall be employed in the service of any city, or any department of business [illegible] of the United States of America, or of any city or incorporated district, and also every member of congress, and of the state legislature and of the select or common council of any city, or commissioners of any county, are disqualified by law from serving as officers at any election within the state. Nor can any person in any of the above offices be a judge, inspector or clerk of any election of any other office. No judge, inspector, or other officer of any election shall be eligible to any office to be filled at such election except that of judge, inspector, or clerk of such election.

ACT 2 JANUARY, 1874.

SECTION 6. [illegible] Every election shall be opened at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon [illegible] the election, shall appoint two qualified electors of the township or district, to act with the officers of election, each of whom shall be a qualified elector of said township or district, to fill such vacancy.

ACT 30 JANUARY, 1874.

SECTION 9.—If judges, inspectors, clerks and overseers of any election need and [illegible] shall be [illegible] upon their [illegible] sworn or affirmed in the presence of each other. The judge shall be sworn by the minority inspector, if there shall be such minority inspector, and in case there be no minority inspector, then by a justice of the peace. A form [illegible] of the inspectors, overseers and clerks shall be sworn by the judge. Certificates of such swearing or affirming shall be duly made out and signed by the officers so sworn, and attested by the officer who administered the oath.

PRIVILEGES OF ELECTORS AND OFFICERS.

CONSTITUTION OF PENNSYLVANIA—ARTICLE VIII.

SECTION 5.—Electors shall in all cases except treason, felony and breach or surety of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance on elections and in going to and returning therefrom.

SECTION 11.—Election officers shall be privileged from arrest during days of election, and while engaged in making up and transmitting returns, except upon warrant of a court of record or judge thereof, for felony, or for wanton breach of the peace.

OF THE CONDUCT OF ELECTIONS.

ACT 30 JANUARY, 1874.

SECTION 5.—At all elections hereafter held under the laws of this Commonwealth, the polls shall be opened at 7 o'clock a. m., and closed at 7 o'clock p. m.

SECTION 8.—At the opening of the polls at all elections it shall be the duty of the judges of elections for their respective districts to assign to one of the inspectors, whose duty it shall be to have in custody the register of the voters, also to make the entries the etc required by law and it shall be the duty of the other said inspector to receive and number the ballots presented at said election.

OF THE ELECTION RETURNS.

ACT 30 JANUARY, 1874.

SECTION 13.—As soon as the polls shall close the officers of the election shall proceed to count all the votes cast for each candidate voted for, and make a full return of the same in triplicate, with a return sheet in addition, in all of which the votes received by each candidate shall be given after his name, first in words and again in figures, and shall be signed by all the said officers and by overseers if any, or if not so certified the overseers and officers refusing to sign or certify, or either of them, shall write upon each of the returns his or their reasons for not signing or certifying them. The vote, as soon as counted, shall be publicly and fully declared from the window to the citizens present, and a brief statement showing the votes received by each candidate shall be made and signed by the election officer as soon as the votes are counted, and the same shall be immediately posted upon the door of the election house for information of the public. The triplicate returns shall be enclosed in envelopes and sealed in the presence of the officers, and one envelope with the said return sheet given to the judge which shall contain one list of voters, tally paper and oath of officers, and another of said envelopes shall be given to the minority inspector. As judges living within twelve miles of the prothonotary office, or within twenty-four miles, if their residence be in a town, city or village upon the line of a railroad leading to the county seat, shall before two o'clock past meridian of the day after the election and all other judges shall before twelve o'clock meridian of the second day after the election deliver said return, together with return sheet to the prothonotary of the court of common pleas of the county, which said return shall be filed, and the day and the hour of filing marked thereon, and shall be preserved by the prothonotary for public inspection.

Given under my hand at Honesdale this 15th day of October, 1908 and in the 133d year of the Independence of the United States.

WM. B. ROADKNIGHT, Sheriff.

TOOTH SAVERS

We have the sort of tooth brushes that are made to thoroughly cleanse and save the teeth.

They are the kind that clean teeth without leaving your mouth full of bristles.

We recommend those costing 25 cents or more, as we can guarantee them and will replace, free, any that show defects of manufacture within three months.
