TOO MANY COOKS

Box Butte county citizens who visit the court house will find a room on the second floor set apart for the use of engineers connected with the state highway department. They are assistants, working under the supervision of District Engineer McLain. There are four of them on the job now. For the last two years there have been several of them on the job. The personnel has changed occasionally, but winter and summer these men, or others like them, have been on the payroll, whether actual road construction was under way or not.

Altogether, there are less than fifty miles of state aid road under construction in Box Butte county. With four assistant engineers on the job, that means that each one has supervision over not to exceed twelve miles. If work were proceeding along the whole stretch of road, there might be some excuse for having all these supervisors.

Presumably, their salary comes from the state and federal aid funds allotted to this county. Our share was none too large in the first place, and there is only something like $60,000 left.

It won't do to antagonize the state department. Never! For unless a project receive the approval of the department, there is no chance for it to be paid for with these funds. One of these engineers hinted as much to the directors of the chamber of commerce the other day. And if the funds are not used, they revert back. Sweet system!

Therefore, by all means, let us do or say nothing that may jeopardize our chances of getting what is coming to us. What if it is a standing joke along the Antioch road that enough stakes have been driven into the ground by surveying parties to pave the entire thoroughfare?

A Reo Speedwagon carrying a load of 2535 lbs., left Omaha last Friday morning and arrived in Denver, six hundred and six miles from the starting point, in twenty hours and thirty-two minutes. This is practically an average of 30 miles per hour the entire distance with full capacity load. When one understands it is hard to make that average with a passenger car unloaded, he can in a measure appreciate this feat made by one of the doughtiest little trucks on the market. "You Can Do It With a Reo," say the boys over at the Jones Company and we guess they know their stuff when making such an assertion. 75

HOUSE FURNISHINGS

What Does the Word "HOME" Mean to YOU?

Mean to YOU?

Does it mean simply a "place to hang your hat"—just a place with four walls containing a few of your belongings, from which you may leave on a minute's notice, without a single regret—but with rather a feeling of relief?

Why Not Build One?

Would it not add great pleasure to your life to enter a beautiful dwelling like the one shown above, after your day's work with the feeling of personal pride in your handiwork?

To look about you at the different belongings you have gathered together will not fail to afford you satisfaction far greater than the effort it will take to accomplish this end.

In addition to the personal satisfaction and pride involved, it is CHEAPER to own than to RENT. Figure out the values for yourself.
