Leave It to Murphy of the Cubs to Dig Up Excuses for His Team.

Copyright, 1912, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World).

CHARLIE MURPHY says that drinking lost the pennant for the Cubs. And yet Charles Weakit Murphy doesn't drink.

If you want to listen to some chatter just stand in the immediate neighborhood of Mr. Murphy and you can always hear something. Mr. Murphy is the most versatile chatterer in the game. When he was a youth his favorite literary work was "Chatterbox," and he never got over it.

Do the Cubs lose? Ask Murphy about it, and get a good excuse. If it isn't one thing it's another, for Charles Weakit is never without a "holler" when things go against his ball players. This time the beer and cigarettes. Of course, only the Cubs fall for such pernicious influences. The Giants never drink beer or smoke cigarettes. Neither do the players of any other team. That's why the Giants are ten games ahead of the Cubs. Beer and cigarettes did it all—playing baseball cut no figure in the results.

Any time Charles Weakit can't give out something sensational the baseball season is extremely dull. Now he has it that there has been a vast conspiracy to get the Cubs "soused" while on their travels, and thus "weaken their playing strength."

"I HAVE to laugh," said Abe Attell yesterday afternoon, "when I see these champions of to-day quibbling over a pound of weight. Kilbane is mighty particular over a couple of pounds, I notice. He makes the other fellow weigh in and stays off the scales himself. When I was champion I never dodged the scales. And I didn't make the other boxers kill themselves taking off weight for me, either. I fought them at all weights, and I never cared whether they had a few pounds on me or not. You know what Fitz used to say: 'The bigger they are the harder they fall.'

"Why, years ago, when I was a small featherweight, I fought Harry Forbes at 118 pounds ringside. He was the bantam champion. We went six rounds to a draw. And just two weeks later I fought Buddy Ryan, the welter champion at that time. Ryan weighed 140 pounds; I was 118. In the first round he knocked me clear out of the ring, and I crawled back and whipped him well before it was over.

"Later I fought Kid Broad. He'll tell you himself that he and I weighed in with our street clothes on and he weighed 143 pounds and I weighed 139. I beat him in twenty rounds.

"I fought Battling Nelson at 133 pounds and I weighed under 122. I stood toe to toe with him for the whole fifteen rounds and slugged. Never let up a second. They'll tell you in Frisco that there never was a harder fight. There I was, featherweight champion, fighting the lightweight champion and not kicking about eleven pounds of weight. Where do these fellows come in, bellering about a couple of ounces?

"One of the hardest fights I ever had was with Tommy Murphy. Tommy is a great fighter over a long distance. I think that in a twenty-five-round fight he'd beat Wolgast, tough as he is. Murphy and I stood and slugged twenty rounds. He had the best of the first six rounds, while I stalled for a chance to get in one good one. Then I cut loose and had the best of it up to the seventeenth. In the eighteenth I was cutting loose to fight as hard as I could to the finish. I thought I had the decision stowed away then. But Tommy clipped me on the left eye with a hard hook—one of the prettiest punches that ever landed on me. When I came out for the nineteenth the eye was closed tight, and the other eye was out of commission in sympathy. All I could do was to work in close and keep catching him and pulling him in close and slugging with him there. He tried to push me away to get in a good punch, but I wouldn't let him. He got the decision on those last two rounds. Tommy weighed 125 pounds in that fight and I was 122.

"WHY, I fought Aurelio Herrera, and he weighed 145 pounds. That is the best fighting I ever did. Herrera was the hardest hitter in the world. He was so good that Nelson absolutely refused to meet him three weeks after our bout. The Mexican landed one blow on my chest that was a terror. I thought he had caved my whole chest in. It knocked me clear across the ring. I had to call off three fights afterward while I was getting over it. But I stuck to Herrera and earned the decision in fifteen rounds.

"I fought Jack McClellan at 135 and Billy Lauder, lightweight champion of Canada, at 135, and Kid Herman at 133 and lots of others.

"After seeing Kilbane box here I'm sure I can beat him. He boxed the same way in our fight in Los Angeles, running away all the time and never standing up to fight me. The referee told me before the fight that aggressiveness would count in the decision, and I kept after Kilbane every minute of the time. In that eighteenth round, when they said I was 'greased' because my seconds had used cocoanut oil in rubbing the back of my shoulders, the crowd began to holler: 'Kill the Jew! Kill the Jew!' and Eyton lost his nerve and gave the decision to Kilbane. Next time it'll be a different story."

"OLDSTERS" OF LINKS RESUME TOURNAMENT ON RYE COURSE

Annual Senior Golf Event May Extend to Chicago Next Season.

(Special to The Evening World.)

APAWAMIS GOLF CLUB, RYE, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Practically every one of the veteran golfers who returned a card yesterday was on hand early today to renew the struggle in the annual senior golf tournament, now in progress. The older the more eager they seemed. The seniors have adopted a class cry, "Once a senior always a senior," and already plans are being made for next year's affair, with possibly special features. When play began to-day James A. Tyng was in the lead for gross score and Chief Justice Gummere of New Jersey for the net, but the wagering was at big odds that neither could hold their advantage.

While courteous to a marked degree, not one of the contestants would concede a putt of six inches, and when it came to thronging about the score board and keeping the closest sort of tabs on those who did not finish early the college boys had nothing on the veterans. Almost two score Bostonians remained in the contest to-day, conclusively proving that the seniors affair now held there annually by George Wright has proved a feeder rather than a rival to the Apawamis fixture. A scheme is now hatching for a similar affair at Chicago.

This year the seniors have taken on an international aspect for the first time through the presence of Francis Braidwood of the Outremont Club, Montreal, who at past the seventy-year mark does not weigh much over 100 pounds and at times seems to be leaning upon his clubs for support. Several of the old stars to-day showed the effects of getting soaked through by yesterday's rain, but limbered up their rusty bearings by liniment and massaging. Here and there a limp was to be detected, but every one was dead game.

A kickers' handicap was the special card to-day. The winner will be the man with score nearest that of the lowest handicap player. The players are taking a straw vote for President. It is a blind affair, each writing his choice on a slip of paper and dropping it in a box behind a tree. The result will be announced this afternoon. Scores follow:

ELEANORA SEARS IN TENNIS FINALS WITH MISS BROWNE.

They Beat Dorothy Green and Evelyn Sears Resepctively in To-Day's Tennis Finals.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—The semi-finals in the woman's tennis singles tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club to-day resulted in victories for Miss Mary Browne of Pasadena, Cal., the national champion, and Miss Eleanora Sears of Boston.

Miss Browne eliminated Miss Evelyn Sears of Waltham, Mass., a former national title holder, by scores of 6—3, 6—2. The playing of Miss Browne was surprising to many of the spectators, as she made 31 place shots to 41 errors.

National Sporting Club's Former Home To Be Leased by McMahon Brothers

BY JOHN POLLOCK.

WITHIN the next twenty-four hours it is expected that the McMahon brothers, the local promoters, will sign a lease which will permit them to hold boxing shows after Oct. 9 in the New Amsterdam Opera House in West Forty-fourth street. This place was formerly the home of the National Sporting Club, which had its license revoked by the State Athletic Commission several months ago because the club officials violated the rules by having its referee, Patsey Haley, render a decision in a bout between Jim Stewart and Gunboat Smith.

Billy Gibson has arranged three ten round bouts for the Garden A. C. show in Madison Square Garden on Monday night. In the first Young Shugrue of Jersey City will meet Joe Thomas of New Orleans; in the second Johnny Dundee will tackle Harry Thomas of England, while in the main event Gunboat Smith of California will swap punches with Jim Savage of Bayonne, N. J.

An attempt was made to arrange a ten round bout between Eddie McGoorty and Billy Papke to take place at the next show of the St. Nicholas A. C. on Wednesday night, but as Marty Perkins, manager of McGoorty, demanded a guarantee of $2,500 with the privilege of accepting 50 per cent. of the gross receipts, negotiations fell through.

The gross receipts of the show at the St. Nicholas A. C. amounted to $3,610. Of this sum Papke got a guarantee of $1,000, Johnny Dundee a guarantee of $750; Johnny Marto, $400; Gunboat Kirkwood, $345; Jack Denning, $345, and Phil Cross, $345.

The New Star A. C. has arranged a card of three ten-round bouts for the club's next show, on Tuesday night. The fighters who will appear in these bouts are as follows: Kid Murphy and Barry Mc. Young Hicker and Benny Franklin, and in the main event Frank Mantell of Pawtucket, R. I., and Billy Papke of Kewanee, Ill.
