AID OF MURPHY AND BARNES SECRETLY ASKED BY SULZER, COUNSEL ADMITS AT TRIAL

Amazing Defense Put In After Parker, in Bitter Speech, Demands Governor's Removal; Brackett Makes Vitriolic Attack.

By Samuel M. Williams

(Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—With a demand by Alton B. Parker that Governor Sulzer be declared guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors and removed from office; with a final plea for the impeached Executive by D-Cady Herrick; with a scorching speech, calling Sulzer unfit to hold office, the impeachment trial ended to-day. It only remains for the members of the High Court of Impeachment to render their verdict.

At the close of the argument the court adjourned over Sunday and scattered, each man to his home in all the corners of the State. It will resume its session at 2.30 o'clock P. M. Monday.

It was a day of intense interest. It was opened by Judge Parker in a speech filled with bitter sarcasm, so clear and incisive that it will remain a classic in the art of cynical analysis. He accused Sulzer of trying to hide behind the petticoats of his wife, and attempting to place responsibility for his own wrong doings upon the shoulders of others. He declared that every disguise had at last been stripped off. In closing one period of sarcastic criticism Judge Parker said we could only have a shuddering hope that Sulzer had at some time in his life been really fit to hold office.

HERRICK ADMITS SULZER POCKETED CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

In his final appeal in behalf of the Governor, D-Cady Herrick frankly admitted that the Governor had pocketed campaign contributions, speculated in stocks and had even sought the intervention of Bosses Barnes and Murphy.

It was an amazing exposition of William Sulzer's weaknesses and misconduct by his own defender—stripping him bare without concealment before the public. Then Mr. Herrick defended the Governor for some things on the ground of his political environment and associations; for still other failings because of moral weakness. Then he clothed his client in garments of legal technicalities and non-impeachable offenses.

Judge Herrick congratulated the Republican members of the Court in connection with Ryan's testimony that Chairman Barnes of the Republican organization "would not permit any man high or low to even speak to him about this case."

HOPES THAT MURPHY WAS EQUALLY FRANK.

If any inquiry had been made of the Democratic leader, Judge Herrick expressed the hope that the reply was equally frank.

"I hope," he said, "the reply came back to those Senators not of the Republican faith that they were not to be interfered with, that the accredited leadr of that party will not permit any one, high or low, to speak to him in regard to this case, but that he will leave those who are his followers to obey the dictates of their own consciences untrammelled by even a suggestion or request, which may involv their political future if that suggestion or request is not complied with."

Mr. Herrick explained Sulzer's failure to go on the stand by saying he sacrificed himself to shield his wife.

Finally came Brackett with his vitriolic denunciation of the impeached Governor. He accused Sulzer of attempting to intimidate witnesses, attacked the newspapers friendly to the Governor, and denounced public meetings held in Sulzer's behalf as indecent attempts to coerce the court and the prosecutors.

JUDGE PARKER DRAMATIC IN ATTACKING SULZER.

A verdict of acquittal, he said, would not save Sulzer. "The record of Sulzer's disgrace is here," said Brackett, "to meet and greet and abide with him."

Judge Parker was dramatically bitter

HIS FLYING BOAT'S PROPELLER BREAKS 1,000 FEET IN AIR

But Mr. Lawson Drops Her in Hudson and Is Towed Ashore.

Alfred Lawson, of the Lawson Publishing Company, No. 37 East Twenty-eighth street, made his first effort at commuting between his country place at Seidler's Beach, N. J., and the Home Boat Club at One Hundred and Forty-first street and the Hudson River to-day in his flying boat. He almost completed the trip, but was stopped at Seventy-fifth street by the breaking of his propeller when he was a thousand feet in the air. Mr. Lawson guided his craft safely to the river and with his mechanican, Walter Johnson, was towed to the shore by a Dock Department tug.

The start from Seidler's Beach was made at 11 o'clock. The mist was heavy and some of those who gathered to see Mr. Lawson off advised him to defer the trip. He and Johnson laughed at protests. The engine was started and the flyer took a long circle and disappeared in the direction of New York.

"The machine was new to me," said Mr. Lawson. "It is a Thomas flying boat with a ninety horsepower engine. I have been flying monoplanes at Garden City for about four months and have had but little practice with the new machine. It could not have worked more smoothly. We were just twenty-nine minutes from the start, having travelled most of the time at sixty-five miles an hour, when the propeller broke.

"The blades went to smash and a hole was made in the hull of the pontoon underbody. I shut off the engine at once, of course, and glided to the water very smoothly. By waving our hands we got the attention of Capt. Fletcher of the Dock Department tug Manhattan, who came out to us and towed us in to the pier at the foot of Seventy-fifth street.

"I am not in the least discouraged about my plan of commuting between Seidler's Beach and New York. Just as soon as I can get a new propeller and have the hull repaired I shall resume my trips, and I intend to make them just as regular as though I were travelling by train."

BROKERS CELEBRATE BLOWING UP OF DIKE.

At 2 o'clock to-day, when President Wilson by pressing a button in the White House smashed the Gamboa dike in the Panama Canal, the members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange suspended operations for about five minutes. There was a big demonstration by the brokers and a huge American flag was let down from the visitors gallery until it overhung the floor.

MRS. BLAKE SEEKS SEPARATION FROM FAMOUS DOCTOR

Papers Served as the Outcome of Scandal in Which Mrs. Mackay Was Named.

EFFORTS FOR SECRECY.

Try to Keep Suit Quiet—Mrs. Mackay Already Sued for a Million.

Summons and complaint in a suit for separation have been filed in the County Clerk's office by counsel representing Mrs. Catherine Blake, the action being against her husband, Dr. Joseph A. Blake, until recently one of the faculty of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and one of the best known surgeons to New York society people.

This court action on the part of Mrs. Blake has been expected since the recent revelations of crossed marital wires were brought to light by news that Mrs. Blake had filed suit to recover $1,000,000 from Mrs. Katherine Duer Mackay, wife of the multi-millionaire cable owner, Clarence H. Mackay, for alienation of Dr. Blake's affections.

Dr. Blake is now at his country home at Litchfield, Conn., while Mrs. Blake is at her town house at No. 36 East Seventy-fifth street. Mrs. Mackay is at her summer bungalow near Portland, Me., with her eldest daughter, Katherine. Mr. Mackay is in Scotland with the other two Mackay children.

EVERY EFFORT TO KEEP IT SECRET.

Every effort was made by George Gordon Battle, counsel for Mrs. Blake in her alienation suit and in the present action, to insure secrecy in the filing of the summons and complaint. Room B in the County Clerk's office, which is used exclusively for the filing of decisions by the Justices of the Supreme Court and is part of the court clerk's domain, was the place selected for the filing. Late yesterday afternoon was the time selected as best serving Mrs. Blake's desire that nothing concerning her present suit against her husband should become public.

Application for counsel fees and alimony pending the settlement of the suit is included in the papers filed, but the amount specified is not known.

It was not until the middle of last month that the news of the difficulties between the Blake and Mackay families and Mrs. Blake's determination to get recompense for what she considered the theft of her husband's affections became public.

Then it developed that last January Mrs. Blake had served Mrs. Mackay with the necessary papers in the damage suit, though the papers had not yet been offered for judicial record and, it is said, will not be until right after the opening of the present court term.

When service on Mrs. Mackay was made it was through Arthur C. Train, her personal counsel, with, Henry W. Taft, brother of the former President.

MACKAY'S FLIGHT TO EUROPE FIRST HINT.

The first mutterings of the marital storm which broke with the institution of the alienation suit were heard when Clarence Mackay made a hasty flight to Europe with the three Mackay children, Katherine, Elin and John. The incidents surrounding this hurried trip were such as to attract wide notice and comment.

As it afterward developed, Mr. Mackay and the children were in North Carolina when Mrs. Blake's papers in litigation were served upon Mrs. Mackay in the Mackay home at Roslyn, L. I. He came up to the city and stopped at the Plaza, while the children were put in the care of a governess at Spring Lake, N. J.

For years before the present rift in their relations the Blakes and Mackays had been close friends. Both Dr. Blake and Clarence Mackay came from San Francisco; their clubs were the same, and they found much in common in their tastes. Mrs. Mackay had been held up as a model of the American wife and mother by enthusiastic biographers in women's magazines.

It was said by those who knew the family that Dr. Blake's skill as a surgeon found a responsive interest in Mrs. Mackay and that she showed a consuming interest in the things of medicine.

DEMAREE COULDN'T STOP MACK'S MEN

POLICE RUN DOWN BLACK HAND GANG OF BOMB THROWERS

No Less Than 40 Explosions or Attempts Traced to Group of Twelve Men.

The police have struck the trail of what is said to be the biggest and most rapacious gang of Black Handers which ever operated in New York and adjacent cities. Twelve men have been implicated by the confessions of others and the throwing of forty bombs have been laid at their door. Five alleged members of the gang are in jail, two in New York and three in Hackensack, N. J.

Six of the gang secured the dynamite and manufactured the bombs. The remaining six were employed on the business end of the combination. They wrote the letters demanding blackmail, saw that the letters were delivered, and in the event of the refusal to comply with their demands of extortion, planted the bombs which did the work of destruction.

HAD FIXED SCHEDULE OF RATES FOR DYNAMITE JOBS.

According to the confessions they did more than this. They had a fixed price for blowing up the premises of a business man's competitor. They hired out the services of the gang to labor organizations, and for a consideration blew up factories which refused to defer to the demands of strikers.

Deputy Police Commissioner George Dougherty and Inspector Faurot have been working on the case for the past two days as the result of information received from the Chief of Police of Hackensack. Last Wednesday night Dougherty sent out a hurry up call for all the Italian detectives in New York to report at Headquarters yesterday morning.

On the night of Sept. 23 the factory of Klee & Co. in Lyndhurst, N. J., manufacturers of wearing apparel and sweaters, was blown up. The firm's house at Fourth and Lafayette streets had been the scene of several dynamite attacks before this. Since the tailors' strike the firm has been operating an open shop. Three men were arrested for the Lyndhurst outrage and locked up in the Hackensack jail. They are John Rizzio, alias the "Kid," Joe Polario and Albert Send.

DETECTIVES SPENT NIGHT IN JAIL TO GET FACTS.

The Chief of Police learned in some way of other operations of the three prisoners, and immediately communicated with Dougherty. The Deputy Commissioner assigned the matter to Acting Captain Jones of the Detective Bureau who, with Detectives Martini, Fogarty and Haskins went to Hackensack and spent Wednesday night in jail there.

Pietro Gamboni, twenty-six years old, living at No. 133 Eldridge street, Antonio Leventero, thirty-three, of No. 211 Chrystie street, and a third man were taken to Police Headquarters yesterday and kept there all day. After 10 o'clock that night all three were taken by Commissioner Dougherty and several detectives to Hackensack, on their return to this city Gamboni and Leventero were placed under arrest, charged with complicity in setting off the bomb which wrecked a grocery store at No. 422 East Eightieth street on the night of Sept. 8. They were held to-day by Magistrate Levey in the Yorkville police court in $7,000 bail each.

COUNTERFEIT CURRENCY IS FOUND ON ONE PRISONER.

On Gamboni, according to the police, there was found more than $60 in counterfeit notes of the denominations of one found and $5 bills. These were turned over to the United States Secret men.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Faurot were working on the case all day. At the office of the former it would not be affirmed or denied as to the confession in the Hackensack jail. In fact, the utmost secresy was observed about the entire matter. The arrest of Gamboni and Leventero became public property only through their arraignment in the Yorkville police court. Attention was drawn to their cases by the large amount of bail demanded.

The reason for the secrecy in the operations of the police is said to be that they have not yet discovered the whereabouts of two men who are the principals of the whole Black Hand conspiracy. These men are supposed to have furnished the brains, the nerve and the money for the dynamite outrages.

Three new men were taken to Headquarters this afternoon in connection with the Black Hand arrests, but their identity would not be divulged by the police.

MAIL THIEF JAILED.

Jewell First Superintendent to Be Convicted.

For the first time in the memory of the oldest Federal Building attache, the superintendent of a New York branch post-office this afternoon faced a judge in the United States District Court to answer a charge of stealing from the mails. The prisoner was William O. Jewell, until his arrest superintendent of the Hamilton Grange station, which is in the fashionable Riverside Drive section.

After pleading guilty, Jewell was sentenced to a term of four months in the Blackwell's Island penitentiary. Jewell was caught abstracting a decoy package, containing expensive cigars, sent through the mails.

Game's Features at a Glance.

Oldring hit Demaree's first offering in the opening inning for three bases, but Merkle's throw nailed him at the plate when he tried to score on Collins's bounder. Demaree fed Baker a slow ball deliberately and made him pop up an easy foul.

"Tilly" Shafer was badly fooled by Bender's mixture in the second and was the Chief's first strike out victim.

Larry McLean lined a single into centre in the second, the first of the Giants to connect safely with the Indian's curves.

Snodgrass and Merkle, the cripples, missed two flies, the latter a foul, in the last half of the second. The efforts at speed were pathetic. Ordinarily either would have been registered as outs.

Barry's two-bagger in the second brought McInnis home with the first run of the game.

McGraw took Snodgrass out when the last of the third started and sent Shafer to centre and Herzog to third.

Strunk knocked Herzog down with a single in the fourth, and Herzog isn't a cripple, either.

"Cripple" Merkle slipped up on Bender's slow one, letting Schang in with the Athletics third run in the fourth. Demaree was touched up for four hits in this session.

Oldring's running catch of McCormick's drive, when he went to bat for Demaree, robbed the Giant's pinch hitter of a triple.

McLean got his second hit of the game in the fifth and then Cooper went in to run for him.

Marquard went to the box in the fifth and promptly struck Baker out, but he couldn't fool Barry, who lined the second ball pitched to left for a double, nor Schang, whose single scored two more for the Athletics.

AYES AND NOES EQUAL IN VOTE ON THE TANGO

So Jersey Club Compromises and Trots and Waltzes Will Alternate.

NUTLEY, N. J., Oct. 10.—The best the older members of the Fortnightly Club of Nutley, N. J., have been able to accomplish in their fight on the tango and the turkey trot is a compromise. Hereafter the club will alternate tango sessions with dances at which only the waltz and two step will be allowed, so as to please both factions. This was announced to-day by the Board of Governors after a special meeting last night at the home of Walter Fairbrother, the president.

After agitation by the older members, Mr. Fairbrother decided several weeks ago to poll the sentiment of the club members as to the newer dances. Cards on which to vote were sent to all the members and the club promptly divided into two camps. The younger element wanted the trots and dips and the older ones didn't. When the vote was all in yesterday there were Forty-eight ballots from the 150 members and twenty-four voted each way.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—At 1.45 Shibe Park was packed to its capacity and it now looks as if the attendance figures of last year will be broken if the series goes six games. Joe Bush, the youngster who beat the Giants yesterday, walked on the field to loosen up his stiffened arm; he was greeted with great applause. At that time Connie Mack had all his pitchers strung out in a row and warming up. McGraw made no bluff about his pitcher. As soon as the Athletics took the field for practice, Al. Demaree, the young artist, walked to the practice slab and began shoving the ball into Wilson's mitt. On the other side Chief Bender was tossing the ball to Thomas. Bender was Mack's final selection.

FIRST INNING.

Bender shot the first ball over on Snodgrass for a clean strike. Snodgrass swung hard at the next one, but popped an easy fly to Baker. Doyle looked the first one over, and it went wide for a ball. The next cut the plate and Larry fouled it into the stand. The next was high and wide. Larry standing with the bat on his shoulder. Finally Bender got it over and Doyle drove a long fly, which Strunk pulled down in centre. Fletcher went after the first ball pitched and died on an easy grounder that Barry tossed to McInnis. No Runs. No Hits. No Errors. None Left.

As the Athletics went to the bat Pitcher Brown and Catcher Lapp went out to warm up in case anything happened to Bender. Demaree's first ball pitched cut the heart of the plate and Murphy swung on the netx one, driving a long fly to Snodgrass. Oldring cracked the first ball pitched on the
