FIELDER SWORN IN; PASS FEWER LAWS, HE SAYS IN HIS MESSAGE

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20.—James F. Fielder, who was sworn in as Governor of New Jersey to-day, sent his inaugural message to the Legislature outlining the work he wishes to accomplish with the aid of the Senate and the Assembly. Right at the opening of the message he indicated his desire that the legislators cut down on the quantity of bills introduced and pay more attention to quality. He suggested that a revival of the rule that each member pay for the printing o fhis own bills would reduce the volume of laws enacted.

The Governor referred to the necessity for economy, but advised the Legislature to await the report of the Economy and Efficiency Commission, appointed in the session of 1912, before taking definite action. Preliminary reports have been made and the final report is near completion.

The Governor advocated reform in the care and treatment of prisoners in penal institutions. He told the Legislature that he wants the contract labor system abolished and a plan installed by which prisoners may be placed at work, under State supervision, in occupations which they can continue at the expiration of their sentences. There are too many boards and commissions connected with the disposition of prison products in the opinion of the Governor, and he suggested the creation of a single board to take charge of all prison matters.

The Governor recommended that the Legislature repass the Chancellor-Sheriff act for jury reform without the referendum clause. This clause in the bill has been attacked in the courts although the people voted for the bill on the referendum. The attack is based on the referendum clause. He also recommended the passage of two constitution amendments providing for a more liberal method of changing the Constitution and for the creation of Assembly Districts in counties entitled to more than one Assemblyman.

A complete revision of the system of tax assessments is called for by the Governor.

Finally the Governor asked the Legislature to take away from the executive the task of approving certain contracts entered into and expenses incurred by various departments and boards as well as planning for the construction of armories and State buildings. This takes up much of the Governor's time and he thinks he should be allowed to devote himself without interruption to the duties of the Executive Department.

BLACKJACKS DECIDE NAVY ARGUMENT

Two Sailors Who Boasted of American Gunnery Are Severely Beaten in Saloon.

Clifford Becker and Jeff Anderson, sailors from the Unsas of the United States Navy, now at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, upheld the marksmanship of the American battleship gunners in an argument with several loungers in Hoelzel's saloon, No. 487 Westchester avenue, last night. One or two of the loungers took blackjacks out of their pockets and attacked the sailors.

The bartender blew a police whistle, but by the time Patrolman Moses arrived the blackjack wielders were gone and both sailors were lying wounded on the floor in front of the bar. Becker's front teeth were knocked out. Anderson was suffering from ten scalp wounds, concussion of the brain, a possible fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries. Both men were taken to Lebanon Hospital. Becker later left, but Anderson, whose condition is serious, remained.

Detectives were assigned from the Morrisania station to look for the men who had attacked the sailors.
