WHAT EGGS ARE MADE OF.

The white of an egg is nearly seven-eights water, the balance being nearly pure albumen. The yolk is slightly less than one-half water. These figures apply approximately to the egg of turkeys, hens, geese, duks and guinea fowls.

To show how nearly alike the eggs of various domestic fowls are in respect to composition, the following figures are given by the department of agriculture:

Hen's eggs—50 per cent water, 16 per cent protein, 36 per cent fat.

Duck's eggs—46 per cent water, 17 per cent protein, 36 per cent fat.

Goose eggs—44 per cent water, 19 per cent protein, 36 per cent fat.

Turkey eggs—48 per cent water, 18 per cent protein, 33 per cent fat.

Of course farmers understand that protein goes to make muscle and blood. Fat of course is fuel for running the machine. Thus it will be seen that eggs, though half or nearly water, are extremely nutritious containing all the elements required for the building and support of the human body. But the old saying that an egg contain as much nutriment as a pound of beefstead is far from correct. It would be nearer the fact to estimate a pound of eggs as equal to a pound of lean beefstead in noruishing power.—Cal. Cultivator.
