Gunboat Smith Roasted by Some of the English Sporting Papers, the Mirror of Life Claiming That He Ran Away From Young Ahearn.

Copyright, 1914, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World.)

SOME of the English sporting papers, which come out in their regular form in spite of the war, devote a lot of space to roasting Gunboat Smith. The Mirror of Life claims that Gunboat ran away from Young Ahearn. Buckley, Smith's manager, told me that he brought the Gunner back for several good reasons. The promoters of the fight between Smith and Ahearn backed down from their original offer twice, each time refusing the purse, and even when it had been cut the second time to a fraction of the amount signed for in the first place, Buckley was advised by an English sporting authority that he might not get his money at all. Added to this the club and Ahearn both failed to post their forfeits, and although Buckley insisted that the money must be up according to agreement, all he could get was a promise. Then Ahearn sent word he couldn't fight because he was "sick." Buckley, going to collect the forfeit he was entitled to, couldn't get his money, but received only part of it—£100 instead of £500.

But the Mirror of life says:

"Gunboat Smith has turned tail and sailed for America, and has point blank refused to carry out the agreement made by his manager. What a sad pity it is that there is no governing body which could punish Smith as he deserves for his reprehensible conduct. Smith's despicable action is regarded by a vast majority of English sportsmen as the meanest way out of a contest for which he did not appear to have much liking. His Dutch behavior has been freely compared to that of the German fleet—afraid to fight it out.

"Young Ahearn has thus been deprived of the opportunity of showing his countrymen just how good he is."

OPINION on this side of the water is that Young Ahearn is a joke as a heavyweight fighter, and that his manager made the match with Gunboat Smith simply to clean up as much money as he could in one fight, knowing that Ahearn would surely be knocked out. The British public was fooled by Ahearn's backers, who got a wonderful lot of advertising for a poor second-rater merely by playing Ahearn up as the hope of the nation. I see that they have refused to match Ahearn against Colin Bell or Bombardier Wells, which is proof enough that they know Ahearn's limit. A Smith-Ahearn match would have been a terrible thing—for boxing.

THE Boxing World of London says:

"In spite of the war we may rest assured that the boxing game is not by any means dead. The National Sporting Club will, I am informed on reliable authority, open its doors as usual early in the month of October. The ring is being rapidly renovated, and Jack Callaghan is busy with the new boxing pavilion, which will be known as the West End Stadium."

FREDDY WELSH is quoted (upon leaving England) as follows:

"I have no idea how extended this tour may be, as so much depends upon the duration of the war, but I hope to be back in a few months. It is possible that my boxing this trip may be confined to ten-round contests, as I shall be ready to return home whenever the National Sporting Club intimates that I am wanted to defend my championship and Lord Lonsdale belt."

SOME of the boxers who have not left England for an "extended tour," depending upon the "duration of the war," are Bandsman Rice, Harry Jones of Cardiff; Dick Smith, light heavy champion of England; Frankie Walsh of Dublin, and Jack Harrison, middleweight champion of England. Harrison is with the Grenadier Guards. Bob Scanlon, an American negro boxer who has lived in Europe for several years, is in the French army.

Frank Moran's stay in London is accounted for at last. It was thought that Frank would come to New York to fight a few heavyweights. But he has been in bed in London with an attack of gout.

NEW YORK seems to be the athletic centre of this country. That is probably because there is so much athletic competition here. A New York athlete can find opportunity to compete every week—often more than once a week. Other athletes in smaller towns find few athletic meets to compete in.

The result is showing in the National Championships at Baltimore. In spite of the fact that many of our best athletes stayed at home because of business affairs, the Gotham boys won six of the first seven events on the opening day.

Chicago scored first only in the hundred yard dash. However, guess that squashes the joke about Chicago big [illegible]

ROAMER TAKES RICH MUNICIPAL AT BELMONT PARK

Champion Three-Year-Old Ridden Out to Win—Paris Breaks Track Record.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BELMONT PARK RACE TRACK, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Roamer is still Roamer, but he had the hardest race of the season in winning the Municipal Handicap, the feature of this afternoon's racing. When he returned to the scales he received well deserved applause from the big crowd on hand.

Pandean was the one to chase Roamer and he pressed him with determination at the eighth pole, with Roamer still in front. A roar went up that Pandean had him. For a second it looked so but then Butwell on Roamer let out a wrap and he drew away safely and as he did, Pandean shot his bolt.

It was at this point that McCahey brought up Addie M. She had been laying third well off the pace all the time. Up she came on the rail and soon collared Pandean and then went on to finish, but a length behind the champion. Pandean easily was third in front o fthe added starter Hedge, who after trailing lengths out of it all the way had nothing left for a stretch run. The race was run in 2.04 flat.

A big Saturday crowd was at the track this afternoon. A strong wind blew across the crowd into the grand stand making conditions decidedly unpleasant.

FIRST RACE.

Gaelic came back to his spring form in the opening event and just galloped the field dizzy. He was in front after the first few jumps and was never caught. At the end he was galloping two lengths in front. Headmast chased Gaelic all the way and at the end had enough left to stall off Alhena who finished fast, with the assistant starter's bull whip hanging to his tail.

SECOND RACE.

Blue Thistle squeezed his way through on the rail in the stretch in the second race after laying off the pace of Yadopeep and Water Welles. The latter quit from trying to stay with Yadopeep, But Yadopeep held on surprisingly and only succumbed in the last eighth. Progressive, after being knocked back early, came again in the stretch, but never could overhaul Blue Thistle and Yadopeep. Strong, well thought of, ran a most remarkable race.

THIRD RACE.

John E. Madden's pair, Paris and Charter Maid, ran one, two in the Champagne Stakes over the seven furlong route. Paris hung up a new track record, covering the distance in 1.22 2-5. The old record was 1.23. The race was a stirring one only in the last eighth of a mile, when with Paris in front Sharpshooter was making a determined bid. The crowd was yelling for Sharpshooter, and he seemed to be coming on, but Buxton on Paris had a bit left and kept him going to the finish, which for this race was a couple of hundred feet beyond the regular finishing post. Passing the latter, Sharpshooter was second, but McTaggart brought Charter Maid up with a rush and got the place from him by a half length. Paris had won by 1½ lengths.

FIFTH RACE.

Astute led the field of jumpers all the way only to be beaten out in the last ten strides by The Evader. Whether or not Booth on Astute was caught napping only he knows, but he seemed to have the race well won at the time The Evader stole up on him. Swish was third after chasing the pace all the way. elf made a bobble at the last jump and this cost him whatever chance he had of being second. The favorite, Ballet, fell at the fifth jump.

Swart played a star game in the line last fall. The appearance yesterday of Stew Baker, first string quarterback for the past two seasons, made the list of men who have had varsity experience complete.

ALLIS OF HARVARD DEFEATS WASHBURN FOR GOLF HONORS

Final Round in College Championship Was Walkover for Crimson Player.

(Special to The Evening World.)

GARDEN CITY GOLF CLUB, GARDEN CITY, L. I., Sept. 12.—Edward P. Allis, 3d, of Milwaukee, and representing Harvard, won the intercollegiate golf championship this afternoon from L. M. Washburn by the one-sided score of 11 up and 10 to go. Allis simply outclassed Washburn, making his victory one of the most decisive seen on the links in any tournament.

The Harvard star, who holds the Wisconsin State title, played a Quimet brand of golf during the first round and ran up a lead of ten hiles on Washburn.

The Tiger tried hard to reduce this advantage during the afternoon play. He only succeeded in halving the first four holes, however. Allis captured the fifth and the match terminated at the 27th hole when it was useless for Washburn to continue.

Washburn improved over his morning form, but his best was not good enough to seriously hamper the steady going victor. Allis repeatedly encouraged Washburn after nearly every shot. Twice the Princeton golfer had fine chances to win holes in the second round, but each time his ball ran around the edge of the cup without dropping in. Allis, because of the brisk winds, played safe by using his iron clubs instead of his driver.

Washburn, on the other hand, walloped with his driver and continually went off the course. At the fourth hole Washburn's ball sailed off into high grass and the gallery joined in the hunt for it. Allis missed an opportunity to increase his lead at the twenty-fifth, when he became wild and allowed Washburn to square the hole in a poor 6.

Allis during the first round made a 72 within one stroke of the amateur record for the course. His golf was faultless. At the third hole he practically killed off his opponent by running down a forty-foot putt. After this Washburn was never the same and he only managed to win two holes the tenth and the thirteenth.

Washburn returned an 87 and the match was as good as over at the end of the first round when Allis worked up a lead of ten holes. The cards:
