Cutter Shuts New Rochelle.

New Rochelle High School's hockey team was beaten last night by the Cutter School seven, the interscholastic champions, by the score of 3 to 0. New Rochelle was outplayed in every department of the game, although they showed good skating, but they lacked team work. Lawson of Cutter scored the puck twice, while Fox, the Cutter rover, tallied once.

Body Found at Bath Beach.

The body of a man about fifty years old floated ashore at the foot of Bay Twenty-second Street, Bath Beach, this morning. He wore a coat remade from an overcoat, which was made in 1905 by S. Milstein of No. 69 Flatbush Avenue, for P. Wharton of No. 519 Myrtle Avenue, according to the tailor's books, but inquiry at the Myrtle Avenue address failed to locate any one who knew Wharton. The man was about 5 feet 7 inches in height, and weighed about 210 lbs.

DACIA'S CREW RETURNS ON ROCHAMBEAU AFTER VOYAGE OF FISTICUFFS

War Questions Caused Many Fights Between Nine Nationalities Men Represented.

On board the French liner Rochambeau, which arrived to-day from Havre, were ten officers and twenty-three men of the crew of the steamer Dacia, now detained in Brest as a prize.

The Dacia, owned by E. N. Breitung of this city and bound from Galveston to Bremen with cotton, was seized Feb. 28 by the French cruiser Europe. Capt. James McDonald remains with the ship, but the French sent the crew back.

It was with deep relief that the officers and crew of the Rochambeau saw the twenty-three "American" sailors and stokers of the Dacia go ashore. There were nine nationalities in the crew and the only native Americans were five negroes.

The Dacia's officers travelled first cabin, but the crew was in the steerage. A rough, turbulent lot, picked up by Capt. McDonald at Newport News when his first crew deserted, they fought among themselves about the war almost all the time on the Dacia and they fought among themselves and against the French crew all the time on the Rochambeau. Loud and continued was their complaint about the food.

"Pea soup!" said one of the negroes who is about the size of a floating grain elevator. "Pea soup!" That's what we got mo'nin', noon an' night. Those French ain't qualified to feed an American colored gentleman."

Six convalescent French Canadian soldiers arrived on the Rochambeau, on their way to Quebec. Each is the father of at least six children and on that account they have been granted a furlough to visit their families.
