SURFACE LINES AGREE TO STOP OVERCROWDING

New York Railways Company and Richmond Light and Power Co. to Obey.

The New York Railways Company and the Richmond Light and Power Company, which operates the surface lines on Staten Island, are preparing to-day to carry out the Health Board's order against overcrowding outdoor cars.

Commissioner Goldwater reports that the Richmond company has promised to have thirty new cars in operation by April 12, and T. F. Shonts, President of the Manhattan company, wrote he would put the order into effect April 5.

Mr. Shonts makes two exceptions—that the order shall not apply to commuter traffic on open cars, or to the Eighth Avenue line during the baseball season "when the company is under great pressure to move in a few minutes the crowds from ball parks."

Of these exceptions Dr. Goldwater said:

"The order was meant for closed cars only. It may be that we shall have to make other provisions for the summer period. I think we have done fairly well. We do not wish to seem to tax the companies beyond their ability. What we have demanded is within reason. On Staten Island the situation is different. The Richmond company's assurance that it will have thirty new cars in operation by April 12 applies, I presume, to traffic throughout the summer."

Mr. Shonts in his letter to the Commissioner said:

"The company will not permit its conductors to put passengers off the cars. We will instruct our conductors to refuse to move cars when passengers heard the same to a number in excess of the limit permitted by your order. In such cases police assistance will be absolutely necessary."

In an answer to this communication the Commissioner said the question then would be whether the company was running enough cars, and that it seems feasible to run as many as its cars in an hour pass a given point.

A test case to decide whether a railroad company can bar passengers from crowded cars will be heard in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, next Friday.

OVEN HELD HEAT 4 YEARS.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., March 31.—A workman hauled his foot here yesterday while dismantling a baker's oven in which there had been no fire in more than four years. Hundreds of incredulous persons have flocked to the scene and have found that the heat is a fact.

It was the old Belden oven, and up to four years ago was in continuous use for thirty-nine years. Eighteen inches of masonry were removed before the heat was encountered. The oven was an exceptionally good one, and it took several weeks to the original heating before it was ready for cooking.

VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCE.

(From the Youngstown Telegram.)

Rankin—"I learned to-day that I had greatly misjudged Uneeda."

Phyle—"In what way?"

Rankin—"I thought he wore his hat on the back of his head for style."

Rankin—"Doesn't he?"

Phyle—"No, he told me he had to wear it that way on account of a bump."

GEN. JOFFRE'S PICTURE IN WINDOW CAUSES A MIMIC WAR HERE

Widow Gets Threatening Letter Eviction Notice and Is Arrested.

Mme. Marie Antoinette Amatois, a widow, who for some years has kept a dressmaking shop on the ground floor of No. 128 West Forty-seventh Street, hung a photograph of Gen. Joffre of the French army in her window several days ago. Under the photograph she hung a caricature of the Crown Prince of Germany.

The next day Mme. Amatois received a letter which read:

"If the pictures in your window are not removed by to-night the window will be broken. A NEUTRAL."

Suspecting a German had written her the note, Mme. Marie sent him this letter:

"You will get smashed yourself, as you and your associates have been for nearly a year.

"NO BLACK HAND."

Because of the disturbance the pictures caused, Mme. Marie got an eviction notice Monday, and yesterday was packing up to move when there came a knock on her door. She thought the moving man had arrived a day early.

"I became so angry," she said later in the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station, "that I must have grown pale and I cut myself on the leg and throat with a razor.

"The Germans have been persecuting me because I am a Frenchwoman. They came and arrested me, charging me with attempting suicide. I don't want to die now. I never did want to die. I was simply angry."

Although Mme. Marie appeared perfectly rational in the station house, she was sent to Bellevue for observation. Her injuries were trifling.

TEA FOR GERMAN SOLDIERS.

Mrs. Carl L. Schurz of No. 512 Fifth Avenue gave a large tea yesterday afternoon at the St. Regis for the benefit of needy children in Germany and soldiers in the German army.

Richard Durrett sang German and American songs. Rudolph Cronau spoke of the relief work in Europe and Werner Stenzel, who was sent to this country by the German Government, read a report on the finances of the organization. About 300 persons were present.
