CARRANZA FLEES TO FORTRESS AFTER BREAK WITH CHIEFS

Quits Vera Cruz When He Quarrels With Obregon and Cabinet Members.

NEW CRISIS LOOMS UP.

Washington Concerned Over Latest Situation, but Wilson to Await Developments.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Differences between Carranza and Gen. Obregon, his principal commander, dissensions in the Carranza Cabinet and Carranza's removal of his headquarters to the isolated safety of the fortress San Juan de Uulga in the port of Vera Cruz, all reported to Washington to-day, brought the Mexican situation into a new focus.

Official despatches to the State Department say these developments threaten the solidarity of the Carranza movement.

Occupation of Mexico City by Gen. Pablo Gonzalez and Carranza troops has been postponed pending the Cabinet reorganization.

Officials here have no complete indication as yet as to the meaning of the cabinet crisis, but over night it was said a new situation had arisen which may have an important effect on the Mexican problem as a whole.

Latest adivices were that four of the Cabinet of eight had resigned and that Obregon had insisted in a telegram to Carranza that they be retained and that a fifth member, the Minister of Public Instruction, be dismissed. A newspaper article by the latter, attacking some of his colleagues in the Cabinet led to the break. Raphael Zubaran, Minister of Interior; Escudero Verdugo, Minister of Justice; Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance, and Jesus Uerta, Minister of Foreign Affairs, decided to stand together and submitted their resignations.

It is now reported that in the reorganization Carranza planned to retain Cabrera. If he dismisses the other three, it is said, he faces a possible break with Obregon and other commanders who are sympathetic with them.

Officials here are concerned to know whether questions of policy are involved, but all information so far indicates personal differences.

President Wilson intends to wait several weeks for the situation to shape itself more clearly before any definite steps are taken in the new policy announced in his recent statement to the factions. He wants to see a coalition of the various branches of the original constitutionalist movement and no recognition will be accorded until a government is set up which gives promise of stability.

Eliseo Arrendondo, Carranza's representative here, and Charles A. Douglas, legal adviser, go next week to Vera Cruz to lay before Carranza their impressions of the future development of President Wilson's policy.

It is understood that while more light draught gunboats will be sent to Mexico from time to time, it is not the Government's intention to send any additional battleships into Southern waters unless a crisis is reached. The gunboats are better fitted for this work and it is thought best, for the summer at least, that the battleships be held on their home stations.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 19.—Gov. Jose Maytorena, Villa commander of Sonora, has refused an offer of his services, made by Urbalejo, a Yaqui chief commanding the Villa forces encamped fourteen miles west of Agua Prieta, to subdue the Yaquis now on the warpath in the southern part of the State, according to a statement made here to-day by A. G. Aguaya, Villa consul. Aguaya said Gov. Maytorena stated that he had declined the offer because he had plenty of soldiers in that part of the State to cope with the Indians.

PIMPLES DISFIGURED FACE AND NECK

Would Irritate and Burn. Ashamed To Go Out. Could Not Wear Collar. Could Not Sleep at Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

"4008 Third Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I was troubled very much with pimples and blackheads which first began on my forehead then on my neck. They would irritate and I would scratch them which would make them bleed and burn something awful. My face and neck were disfigured and I was ashamed to go out; I could not wear a collar. At night I could not sleep because they would burn and itch so bad.

"One day I happened to see an advertisement in the paper and sent for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Just one week after using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment I found great relief. I would wash my face and neck with the Soap then put a little Ointment on and wash off in a few minutes. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment several months I was completely healed." Prisoners Break Into Jail For Their 'Home Cooking' After Seeing Ball Game

"Mammy's" Culinary Art So Good Two Innocent Recruits Join the Jailbirds' Ranks.

You may say what you like, but a colored person who knows how to cook can cook wide and fancy rings around any one else. There are eighteen prisoners in the County Jail at Newton, N. J., who just have to have their Southern cooking and when they don't get it, as happened yesterday, there is immediate and tumultuous protest.

Newton pulled the front shades down yesterday, locked the street door and turned out in a body to see the Yankees play a local team known as the Long Branch Cubans. A big league team doesn't go into Newton every day and when it does business ceases. But there was one spot where business didn't cease. In the County Jail of Frederick County the prisoners kept right on being there and, of course, some one had to watch them. Sheriff William B. Wilson cogitated.

"I've got to see that game, Al," he said to Undersheriff Albert T. Lyon. "I don't want any grandchildren of mine ever to find out unexpectedly that a team of Yankees who were in the first division came here and I didn't see them."

SO HE TOOK THE JAILBIRDS TO SEE THE GAME.

Undersheriff Lyons looked apprehensive. He is a fan of the breeziest sort himself and it began to look as if the Sheriff were going to stick him with the job of sentry for the afternoon.

"Why can't we take the boys along?" he suggested in desperation. "I'd like to get a look at them Yanks myself."

"All right, if you want to," acquiesced the Sheriff, "you'll look after them, eh, Al?"

"Sure," said Al jubilantly, and then he went out into the jail and said: "Come on, prisoners, we're going to the ball game."

When the eighteen residents of the county detainery reached the ball yard they disposed themselves in the grand stand or under the shade trees or wherever best suited their whim, and presently the Yanks and the Newton team began to play a whole lot of baseball.

It was a hot battle and the Newton team won undying fame for itself by trimming the Yankees 1 to 0. This threw Undersheriff Lyons into such a tumult of excitement that he forgot all about the prisoners and went home to get some supper.

AND SUPPER TIME WAS COMING ON APACE.

In a short time the prisoners noticed to their indignation that they were all alone in the ball grounds with nobody to look after them and supper time drawing nearer every minute. They began to think of those county jail meals on which Mrs. Draper Maynes, the chefette of that institution, daily displays all her Ethiopian instinct for making food tasty. At the bare thought they rose as one man and made for the jail with their mouths watering. During the afternoon they had been joined by a couple of chance acquaintances, and these worthies, hearing about Mrs. Maynes's skill, promptly attached themselves to the party.

To their consternation and horror the prisoners and the two recruits found the door of the jail locked! This was a hen of a note, this was. Supper time and the jail locked! They sat on the steps and lifted up their voices in far reaching protest, the recruits shouting loudest of all. Presently their wails reached the ear of Mrs. Maynes herself and with her own key she let them back into their cells again. Then she got them their supper, and their appetites were so ravenously complimentary to her art that she freely forgave them the trouble they'd caused her, even the setting of two extra places for the volunteers. There's no doubt about it, Southern cooking is great stuff.

WALL STREET.

Little interest was shown at opening of the stock market, attendance in the Street was light and trading very quiet. Baldwin Locomotive and Distillers were the only active features, the former gaining 1 3-4 and the latter 1 5-8 in the first half hour, but the general market stood still.

Central Leather gained a point in second hour. Close observers said the buying looked like accumulation as a result of big orders for army shoes recently placed here by Europe.

Market closed steady, showing small fractional changes.

BEAUTY WINNERS ARE HONOR GUESTS AT BALL

Prettiest of the Entire Lot of Pretty Girls Leads the Grand March.

(Special to The Evening World.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 19.—The Evening World's seven pretty girls touring with the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, recently contest winners, with the other girls in the party, last night attended a ball given in their honor at the Manx Hotel. It was one of the greatest balls given this season in San Francisco.

Attending the ball were nineteen Blackfoot Indians from the Blackfoot Reservation in Montana, headed by Chief Three Bears, 103 years old.

The grand march was led by Miss Ruth Purcell of Washington, D. C., who has been chosen as the prettiest girl in the party, and has been awarded the special prize of Universal "Movie Star." To-day the girls spent at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Original Designs for Sea Hats Along Practical, Becoming and Modish Lines Conceived by the Evening World's Fashion Expert.

Copyright, 1915, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World.)

By The Evening World's Fashion Expert.

Individual? Indeed, that is just what these caps are. And why should not the siren of the sea give as much attention to this part of her costuming as does her sister of the land! In fact, to me it has been an unanswered question why bathers each year accept from the shops apparel that is neither becoming nor distinctive. Why not develop one's own sea hats along practical, becoming and modish lines, just as one does her other hats? For those appreciating the possibilities in this way, I have designed the hats shown above.

At the left several layers of circular frills climb to the top of a rubber foundation cap, where a gray rubber rose stands guard. Next it a jockey cap is shown, becoming to certain types of faces, and suitable for wear with plain cut dresses. Quite opposite in effect is the picturesque model whose wide frills are held by a band which, brought to the nape of the neck, emerges into ends which tie in loops and streamers.

The centre figure shows a plain rubber cap which may be cut in scallops and decorated at the sides with ties, which instead of serving under the chin are brought to the crown of the head and formed into a perky bow.

Now who would not appreciate a brimmed sea hat to keep out the ravaging rays of the sun after the dip, or, in fact, while still in the water? Here I have shown a concoction, simple and efficacious. The foundation is a plain fitting cap of figured silk, which may be brought to the front in a bow or to the top in a knot; or, if of rubber, just stretched on plain. Over this a detachable brim of thin silk is worn, the head size of which exactly fits, and to which at the sides are attached ribbon strings.

Of ruberized silk a smart little Turkish cap would be an attractive complement to the bloomer type dress. Suitable also for the more severe cut bathing dress is the cap at the right. A rubber skull cap, of course, is donned first, while some attractive silk or satin is cut into the novel outside shape. It should be of fast color and probably the most suitable is a "shower-proof" foulard which comes in various attractive designs, including the checker board effect pictured. Like a Chinaman's queue is the tasselled end issuing from the smooth-fitting crown. A refreshing touch of contrasting color is introduced across the front, while under the chin the sides of the cap are brought to tie into chic ends.

PUPILS CAN'T WASH HANDS IN SCHOOLS; NO BASINS PROVIDED

Health Commissioner Makes Public a Remarkable Situation in School Buildings.

Health Commissioner Goldwater in an open letter to the Board of Education, printed to-day in the Weekly Bulletin of the Department of Health, calls attention to the fact not generally known except to school children and teachers that there are no wash-basins and no wash rooms in any public school in this city except high schools which have been constructed since 1900. No facilities are provided in any schools outside of high schools for pupils whomay wish to wash their hands.

Sometime ago, in connection with a campaign to lessen the danger of contagion from "typhoid carriers" such as the famed "Typhoid Mary," Dr. Goldwater urged the Board of Education to instruct all pupils to wash their hands several times during the day. Clean hands, Dr. Goldwater said at that time, are an insurance against the spread of typhoid.

When Dr. Goldwater sent his message to the Board of Education he supposed, of course, that all public schools were equipped with washrooms. In his open letter, published to-day, he states that he found his recommendation greeted with ridicule because pupils cannot wash their hands when they are not provided with water or basins or soap or towels.

Investigation disclosed that in 1900 the Superintendent of School Buildings decreed that because of the great difficulty in equipping washrooms with soap and towels there should be no more washrooms in schoolhouses. Dr. Goldwater asks that this condition of affairs be remedied without unnecessary delay and that the Board of Education request in the next budget a sufficient sum to provide for washrooms accessible to toilets in all schoolhouses and for a supply of paper towels.

RECOMMENDS DIVORCE FOR DIPLOMAT'S WIFE, KIDNAPPED AS A CHILD

Nephew of Late Bishop Potter Will Fight for Custody of Child.

Following three secret hearings, Referee Charles S. Guggenheimer today recommended that Mrs. Gwendolen Cary Potter be awarded a divorce from Francis Hunter Potter, nephew of the late Bishop Potter and former secretary to the American Legation at Madrid, Spain. On Monday Supreme Court Justice Weeks will be asked to sign an interlocutory decree. This step will be vigorously opposed by Roderick Wellman, attorney for Potter.

The identity of the co-respondent was not disclosed. Both Mrs. Potter and her husband attended all the hearings. Mrs. Potter swore that for four years she had not received adequate support from her husband either for herself or her child, although he was possessed of considerable wealth. It is on the question of alimony and the custody of their child, which the referee awarded to Mrs. Potter, that Potter will make his fight on Monday. Blandy, Mooney & Shipman are attorneys for Mrs. Potter.

The marriage of the couple took place in London in 1907. Mrs. Potter's father was J. S. Cary of Baltimore and her mother was a daughter of William H. Playford, wealthy State Senator of Pennsylvania. Soon after her birth her mother died. Four years later her father was notified an aunt had died in England leaving him a large fortune. He went to England, taking his daughter with him. Senator Playford begged Mr. Cary to leave his daughter with him and when this request was refused he took the child. For seventeen days the Senator hid the child in a log cabin. Not until after Mr. Cary had sailed did he return with her to his home.

THREE MEN KILLED BY DIFFERENT AUTOS WITHIN FEW HOURS

Two of Victims in Fatal Accidents Are Pedestrians Hit by Cars.

William H. Nixon, seventy-two years old, a retired lace importer, living at No. 465 West Twenty-second Street, died last night in the New York Hospital from injuries received in the afternoon when he was struck by an automobile at Eighth Avenue and Twenty-third Street.

Mr. Nixon was crossing the avenue when the auto, driven by Charles Wright, of No. 108 East Seventy-first Street, came along. Mr. Nixon became confused, dodged in front of the machine and was struck. When taken to the New York Hospital in the machine it was thought he suffered only from a scalp wound and shock, but eventually it was found his skull was fractured.

William E. Davies, a real estate operator, of No. 67 Wall Street, brother-in-law of Mr. Nixon, went to the hospital and identified the body. The auto is owned by C. A. Abbott of Fifty-fifth Street and Broadway.

Martin Levy, twenty-seven, owner of a garage at No. 1125 Forty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, who lived at No. 1150 Forty-ninth Street, died in the Norwegian Hospital yesterday. Levy was driving a seven-passenger car along Twelfth Avenue when, at Forty-fourth Street, an auto owned by Arthur S. Gargan of No. 484 Convent Avenue, Bronx, and driven by Fred Walton of No. 128 West Twenty-seventh Street, Manhattan, ran into the Levy machine, which was overturned.

Run down by an automobile as he tried to cross Twenty-sixth Street between Madison and Fourth Avenues early last night, Peter Chendikian, thirty years, a machinist of No. 833 Third Avenue, died in Bellevue. The car was driven and owned by Julius Lebost of No. 168 Lenox Avenue.

Pick New Curator for Far East Art at Metropolitan

At the Metropolitan Museum of Art it was announced on Thursday that S. C. Bosch Reitz had been appointed curator of the newly created Department of Far Eastern Art. This action was taken by the trustees of the museum at their meeting held on Monday of this week.

Mr. Bosch Reitz is a native of Holland, having been born in Amsterdam. His residence is still there, although he is now in this country. He is well known among collectors of Chinese and Japanese art in Europe and especially among those interested in the ceramics of these countries. He has a sympathetic knowledge of other Eastern arts.

He began his career as a painter and studied both at Munich and in some of the best Parisian ateliers.

He was drawn into making a specialty of Eastern art by an interest in it that was aroused in him, and he spent more than a year in the East studying the great collections there. He has paid particular attention to the European collections of both Chinese and Japanese art as they exist in London, Paris and Berlin. He was just prior to the breaking out of the present war, considered for an official place with the Grandidier Collection at the Louvre, which is a very large and important European gathering. The museum considers itself fortunate in being able to secure his services.

Mr. Bosch Reitz will begin his active duties at the Metropolitan Museum in September. His department will include Chinese and Japanese art as well as the art of Korea and Thibet. He will have charge of ceramics, bronzes, prints and textiles. Indian art will not come into his field. The collection is to be installed in the big gallery surrounding the Fifth Avenue entrance.

FATE RESTS WITH HIS SON.

Thomas Watson Once Witness Against Alleged Wife Slayer.

The fate of Walter Watson of No. 776 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, on trial to-day before County Judge Hoy of Brooklyn for the murder of his wife, probably rests with his sixteen-year-old son, who gave the principal testimony on which his father was indicted.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watson died last March 26 at St. John's Hospital, Brooklyn, from stab wounds. Before Coroner Senior young Thomas Watson testified that just as he was starting for school he saw his father rush at his mother with a carving knife. The boy said he knocked his father down and held him until the police came.

Yesterday's session of the case was taken up in getting a jury.
