DENIES PEACE NOTE WAS SENT BY THE POPE TO WILSON

Rome Newspaper Declares It Has Authoritative Information on Gibbons's Mission.

ROME, Sept. 6 (via Paris).—The Giornale D'Italia says: "Having obtained authoritative information, we are able to state that the Pope sent to President Wilson no autograph letter, no message concerning peace, and not even the original copy of the Pontifical letter to the heads of the belligerent peoples."

This newspaper says further that Washington reports to the effect that Cardinal Gibbons presented to President Wilson a letter from the Pope are open to doubt, especially in view of the fact that the Osservatore Romano, the organ of the Vatican, suppressed that portion of Washington despatches which related to the message Cardinal Gibbons is said to have presented to the President.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The apparent conflict between Rome and Washington regarding Pope Benedict's peace message to President Wilson is regarded here as resting solely over whether the Pope actually addressed a personal message to the President.

Cardinal Gibbons on his visit to the White House last Thursday said he had delivered a message from the Pope to the President, but could not divulge its contents. It was learned that the message, which came as a cablegram from Rome addressed to the Cardinal last Monday, contained congratulations of Pope Benedict to President Wilson for his efforts on behalf of peace and expressed the views of the Vatican, which are well known.

Thus, technically, the message was to Cardinal Gibbons, although he was commanded to express certain views to President Wilson. That is the course generally pursued in diplomatic relations.

In Catholic circles here it is believed the Vatican intended Cardinal Gibbons should express to the President what he knew to be the Pontiff's position, and that the Pope, while probably believing that the time was not one for a direct personal communication, took the opportunity for preparing the way for such a message.

It is believed here that the statements from Rome were prompted by requests for the text of what was believed there to have been a formal communication from the Vatican to the White House, and that they were not intended as denials of the story as it has been published in this country.

FATHER MULLAN CARRIES NO MESSAGE FROM POPE

Secretary of Head of Jesuits in England Denies He Has Peace Note.

Among the 434 passengers on the Italian liner Dante Alighieri, which reached port to-day from Naples, was Rev. A. J. Elder Mullan, English secretary to the head of the Society of Jesus, or Jesuit Order. He was much surprised to learn that cable messages had been received from Rome intimating that he was the bearer of a communication from the Pope to the Government of the United States relative to a movement to promote peace among the European powers at war.

"There is absolutely no truth in the statement," said Father Mullan. "I am not the bearer of a message or communication of any character from any churchman, to any government or government officer. I shall be in this country six months on business solely connected with the order of which I am a member."

Cavalier C. Charles Barsotti, editor of Il Progresso, the Italian daily newspaper of this city, returned on the Dante Alighieri from a visit of more than a year in Italy. He said the Italian people are determined to recover from Austria Trentino and Trieste.

ARTILLERY SHATTERS MORTAR RECORD

Ninety-third Company Demolishes Target at Range of 13,400 Yards.

FORT STEVENS, Ore., Sept. 6.—What is said to be a new record for mortar target practice was made yesterday by the Ninety-third Company of Coast Artillery, U. S. A., commanded by Capt. Leonard T. Waldron, which succeeded in completely demolishing, at a range of 13,400 yards, a pyramidal target, the dimensions of which were 30 by 10 feet at the base.

At the range used it required more than seventy seconds for a shell to travel from gun to target.

SHOOTS THREE TO DEATH.

Maryland Man Kills Trio as a Result of Infatuation.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 6.—Frank Guanno shot and killed Levin T. Robinson, his wife, Della Robinson, and Alonzo Redden at Snow Hill, Md., today. The shooting was a result of Guanno's infatuation for Mrs. Robinson. He was arrested two hours later. The feeling against him is high.

"FRIENDS OF PEACE" ASSAIL WAR TRAFFIC, BUT ONLY IN SPEECH

Platform of Chicago Convention Ignores Arms Embargo Though Delegates Urge It.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Although speaker after speaker declared against the shipment of war munitions from America to European belligerents and criticised the attitude of the Administration toward the matter, the Friends of Peace to-day made no formal declaration in favor of an embargo.

Instead the meeting adopted a resolution containing the following statement of principles:

That the majority of Americans are opposed to war except for the national defense.

That the time has come to discard war, "the greatest relic of barbarism."

That war will cease when enlightened men and women bind themselves together to prevent unnecessary armament.

That there should be freedom of the seas and that the United States should contribute to this result by insisting that American commerce in non-contraband goods with belligerents be unmolested.

That the idea of America being invaded by a European army is prompted solely by the avarice of armament and munition makers.

That the manufacture of death dealing implements should not be for profit but solely for national defense.

That foreign loans to finance warlike enterprises are subversive of peace, and loans to belligerent governments from Federal reserve banks are illegal and unneutral.

The announced intention of J. J. Tobias and others to introduce a resolution declaring for an embargo on war munitions did not materialize.

Patrick O'Donnell of Chicago and Henry Weissman, Chicago, Chairman of the Resolutions Committee, pleaded for the adoption of the resolutions, urging that the success of the organization's movement depended on moderation.

Eastern States Team Selected For Big Match

The five lawn tennis players who will compose the Eastern States team which will meet the Pacific Coast team at the end of this week in the inter-sectional matches have been selected by Harold H. Hackett, Chairman of the committee, and Craig Biddle of Philadelphia and Edwin Sheafe of Boston. The men named were R. Norris Williams 2d, to act as captain as he did in the matches at San Francisco played in early July; Karl H. Behr, Frederick B. Alexander, Nathaniel W. Niles and Theodore Roosevelt Pell.

As Alexander wrenched or tore abdominal muscles in his hard match against Maurice E. McLoughlin in the fourth round of the all comers' championship now nearing its end on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, L. I., it may be impossible for the former Davis Cup player to take his place on the team. If it is necessary to designate a substitute, Watson M. Washburn, who journeyed to the Pacific Coast as a member of the Eastern States team in July, will replace Alexander.

The inter-sectional matches will consist of four singles and two doubles. It is not certain as to which of the men wil compete in the singles. Probably the selections will be Williams, Behr, Alexander and Niles. If Alexander retires then Pell will take his place.

The pairings for the doubles, however, will be Williams and Alexander and Behr and Pell. Washburn will take his place with Williams in the doubles if the retirement of Alexander makes it necessary.

The first of the inter-sectional matches will be played on next Friday afternoon. The series will end the following day on the turf courts, on which All Comers' championship is being decided. The composition of the Pacific Coast team, of which Maurice E. McLoughlin is captain, is limited to the five Californians now in this city—McLoughlin, Thomas C. Bundy, William M. Johnston, Clarence J. Griffin and Ward Dawson. The matches promise to add a fitting climax to the greatest season on the courts that this city has ever known.

NEW YORK TOURISTS ON SHIPS BLOCKED BY PANAMA CANAL SLIDE

Kroonland and Finland Among 22 Vessels Held Up by Gaillard Cut.

PANAMA, Sept. 6. — Among the twenty-two ships that are held up in the Panama Canal by the new slide are the New York-San Francisco liners Finland and Kroonland, each having a large number of tourists on board.

The Finland is on the return trip from San Francisco. On the outward voyage, leaving New York, July 21, with 600 passengers, she was delayed in the canal one week.

There is no chance for any vessel to pass through the waterway for twenty-four hours more. The Kroonland and Finland probably will be detained until the end of the week.

The dredges have excavated 40,000 cubic yards of the mud and stone in the past twenty-four hours, a record in dredging.

When the late Col. Gaillard was excavating the Culebra Cut just at the point of the latest slide his plan was to put steam shovels on the higher parts of the banks and keep digging backward. Gen. Goethals thought it a better way to remove the slides with dredges. Recent blockings of the canal have been due to the inability of the dredges employed to remove the slides fast enough.

16 MEXICAN DEAD ON BATTLEFIELD AFTER CLASH WITH SOLDIERS

More Carranzistas Slain at Border Following Bitter Fight at Mission.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 6.—Reports to-day indicated that there has been some relaxation of warfare along the border. Four or five Mexicans are known to have been killed and several wounded as the result of snipping operations at various points. Two were killed by American soldiers who returned their fire.

A detachment of the Third Cavalry killed one Mexican and wounded another in a battle with bandits sixteen miles north of here this morning. At about the same time two Mexicans were killed in a skirmish in Hidalgo County.

The Fourth Infantry, 900 strong, formerly stationed at Texas City, is now encamped at Brownsville. The Twenty-sixth went from here to Harlingen last night.

It has been established to the satisfaction of American soldiers and civilians here that the Mexicans who took part in the all-day battle at Mission Saturday were members of the Carrazista army. Not only did they wear the Constitutionalist uniform, but soldiers on this side of the river said a bugler blew a bugle call on the Mexican side, close to where the Mexicans were stationed during the firing. It is also stated on good authority that the commanding officer at Reynosa, Mexico, asked the Americans to cease firing until the Mexicans could bury their dead.

With the aid of strong field glasses, sixteen dead Mexicans have been counted at the scene of the Mission battle. There are many others hidden in the brush.

New Clash Near at Mission, Funston Reports.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—American and Mexican troops were near a clash to-day near Mission, Tex., Gen. Funston reported.

Leaders on both sides were taking steps to prevent it.

Funston said armed detachments "faced each other across the river in danger of conflict."

Gen. Nafarette, Carranzista commander, notified Funston that he would move his forces back from the boundary and that "any shooting from the Mexican side would not be by his men."

Two more railroad wrecks by dynamiting were reported in consular despatches.

BRONX THUGS ATTACK GIRL AFTER BEATING ESCORT; FOUR HELD

Policeman Fires on Crowd and Gets Prisoner in Hospital —Victim Identifies Two.

Three young men were held in the Morrisania Court yesterday for an attack on Miss Lillian Rauch, sixteen years old, of No. 817 Faile Street, the Bronx. A fourth youth, shot in the hip, is a prisoner in Lincoln Hospital.

Harry Kane, the girl's escort, who lives at No. 1654 First Avenue, said he was escorting Miss Rauch on Saturday night through Manida Street, near the Eastern Boulevard, in the Bronx, when six men rushed out of a lot. Kane was knocked to the ground and kicked into unconsciousness. Four of his teeth were knocked out. Miss Rauch was dragged off the street into a vacant lot. Kane, recovering consciousness, fought off two men and ran until he came upon Motorcycle Patrolman Frank Braman. The latter sped to Manida Street and charged into the lot on his wheel, with revolver drawn.

He saw four men start up and run. He opened fire on them. Antony Tofano, twenty years old, stopped. Through information from him James Lynch, eighteen, of No. 1188 Longwood Avenue, and Daniel Sakaraise, nineteen, of No. 817 Faile Street, were arrested.

Soon Claude Marks, twenty, No. 640 Faile Street, went to Lincoln Hospital with a bullet wound in his hip. He was arrested.

Miss Rauch was able to appear in court yesterday and made positive identifications of Tofano and Lynch, who pleaded guilty. She said Sakaraise was also in the party. This he admitted, but denied he had attacked her. The three were held in $2,500 each.

Cambridge Fire Perils Big District.

AUSTRIAN ENVOY MAY RECEIVE HIS "WALKING PAPERS"

of dual citizenship which has been a subject of continuous controversy between the United States and several of the great European powers. In this connection it is recalled that this Government never has been able to secure from the French Government an abandonment of its claim to jurisdiction within French territory of persons of French birth or descent even to the second generation.

This Government has been obliged in many cases to recognize the European doctrine that the individual and not the territory governs, because it was not able to resist its application, which would involve a breach of official relations with several of the great European Powers.

DUMBA ADMITS PLAN TO CRIPPLE PLANTS MAKING MUNITIONS.

LENOX, Sept. 6.—Dr. Konstantin Theodor Dumba, Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, was expected to leave Lenox to-day for New York on his way to Washington, where to-morrow he will try to explain to Secretary Lansing how his activities in trying to embarrass the manufacture of munitions in the United States for the allies have not destroyed his usefulness as a representative of his Government in the United States. Dr. Dumba had not left early this afternoon, however, and his secretary said he did not know when he would start.

The Ambassador explained to-day that he is not worried by the revelations of his efforts to stir up trouble in the munition factories of this country, nor by the publication of his letter to the Austrian Foreign Minister, in which he asked for financial help to call out the Austro-Hungarians working in the munition factories here. He admitted that the letters found on the person of James F. J. Archibald, an American correspondent detained by the British naval authorities at Falmouth, were genuine and that Archibald, as his secret agent, was crrying the letters to the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister.

What did worry the Ambassador was that Secretary Lansing might get a distorted view of the whole situation, might read a censored report of his correspondence and draw a wrong conclusion. For that reason, Dr. Dumba explained, he had wired to Secretary Lansing asking for an appointment to-morrow to explain the whole matter.

"I shall make no formal statement with regard to this matter until after I have conferred with Secretary Lansing," said Dr. Dumba. "I had already been informed that my letter to Foreign Minister Burian had been intercepted, and I have telegraphed to Secretary Lansing asking for an appointment at Washington for the purpose of giving his Government all the facts with relation to this communication."

"Then it is admitted, Mr. Dumba, that Archibald was a despatch bearer?"

"Yes, that was so. Count von Bernstorff and I dined with Archibald before he sailed, and he was intrusted with secret and valuable papers. I fail to understand how he could have been so careless as to allow these despatches to fall into the hands of our enemies. However, there was nothing in the despatches which cannot be satisfactorily explained. The proposals regarding calling out citizens of Austria-Hungary, made by me, were that every open and perfectly proper method be taken to bring before our races employed in the big steel works that they were engaged in an enterprise that was unfriendly to their fatherland, and that the Imperial Government would hold workers in munition plants where contracts were being filled for the allies with being guilty of a serious crime against the country, something that would be punishable by imprisonment or penal servitude should they return to their own country.

"There are thousands of workingmen in the big steel industries, natives of Bohemia, Moravia, Carniola, Galicia, Dalmatia, Croatia, Slavonia and other peoples of the races from Austria-Hungary who are uneducated and who do not understand that they are engaged in a work against their own country. In order to bring this before them I have subsidized many newspapers published in the languages and dialects of the divisions mentioned, attempting in this way to bring their felonious occupation to their attention. But this has been difficult.

"In some of the great steel plants of Pennsylvania these uneducated men of my country are nothing more or less than slaves. They are even working them twelve hours a day and herding them within stockades. It is difficult to get at these workers except en masse, and a peaceful walkout of these workingmen would be of the greatest advantage to my Government as well as an indemnity to themselves.

"It is my duty as the representative of Austria-Hungary to communicate and make known these facts to the Imperial Government, and in so doing I am performing the service for which I am sent to this country."

"PEACE PARTY" MURDER PROBLEM FOR POLICE; THREE MEN JAILED

Dougherty Is Dead and O'Connor Accused, but Knife Is Found on Another Man.

To celebrate what they thought was a patching up of their differences with the John O'Connors, Mr. and Mrs. John Doherty gave a party last evening in their home on the top floor of No. 224 Franklin Street, Greenpoint.

Because of that act of hospitality Doherty lies dead to-day in the room where the festivities took place. He was murdered with a knife. O'Connor is under arrest on suspicion of having wielded the weapon, and two of the guests are being held as witnesses.

Doherty and his wife, Mary, occupied a front apartment at No. 224 and the O'Connors lived in the rear. Up to six months ago they were good friends. Then some sort of gossip was started in the neighborhood, with the result that O'Connor spoke harshly to Mrs. Doherty, who obtained a police court summons for him and he was put under bonds to keep the peace for six months.

O'Connor's "peace term" having expired Saturday and with all differences between the families seemingly wiped out, the Dohertys decided to celebrate it with a party. The O'Connors attended as the guests of honor. There was much food, much music and much merriment. About fifteen guests, most of them persons living at No. 224, attended.

O'Connor publicly apologized to Mrs. Doherty for any offense he might have given her, and she begged him not to mention the subject again. Then O'Connor threw his arm around Doherty's shoulders and said there were many things he wanted to tell him in the hallway. Would he go there? Surely. And he did, two or three men guests following.

What happened in the hallway is what the police are trying to find out to-day. A woman elocutionist in the parlor of the Doherty flat was reciting a piece when the men folks broke into the place. They were fighting wildly. The women fled, panic-stricken, and the men fought until they had wrecked the flat.

With the frightened guests Mrs. Doherty stampeded to the street and there found Policeman Edward O'Connor, who ran upstairs and found Doherty dead in the hallway, with a stab wound below the heart. Then a search was made of the O'Connor flat, still brilliantly lighted. Under a bed was O'Connor. He was locked up.

Detectives also arrested in their homes Christopher McCauley of No. 43 India Street and Morris McCarty, No. 1055 Manhattan Avenue, who had attended the party. In McCauley's pockets were a bloodstained knife and handkerchief. He insisted he did not know anything of the tragedy.

But in her home, still decorated as it was for the party, the widow Doherty insisted to-day that O'Connor had attacked her husband.

PASTORS LOST FIRST BATTLE WITH 'MOVIES'

Motion Pictures Have Stronger Appeal to Patchogue Residents Than Ministers' Pleas.

The appeal of the "movies" apparently proved stronger last night with the population of Patchogue, L. I., than the pleadings of the spiritual advisers of the town.

In all seven churches of Patchogue the several clergymen at the early services read by agreement the following protest to their congregations:

"We declare ourselves opposed to the opening of the moving picture theatres on Sunday and pledge ourselves to make such proper efforts as are in our power to discourage the practice."

The Star Palace Theatre, in Patchogue, seats 1,400 persons. The management said to-day the pulpit announcements had not affected business and the theatre was filled to its capacity.

None of the clergymen would say to-day what the next step might be in their effort to stamp out Sunday picture shows.

SHE TRIED TO DIE FOR LOVE.

Girl Wrote a Note to "Max," Then Turned on the Gas.

After writing a letter addressed to "Max," in which she said her love for him was so overpowering she could not live, a young woman, believed to be Esther Sternberg, of No. 820 Wilder Street, Philadelphia, tried to commit suicide in the rooming house at No. 249 West Thirty-fourth Street, to-day, by inhaling gas.

Mrs. Joseph Boyle, who owns the house, found her unconscious and summoned Policeman Borrho, who got a pulmotor and revived her. She was then sent to Bellevue Hospital a prisoner. In the letter addressed to Max, which was found in her room, the girl wrote:

"I am a young girl and innocent in the ways of life, and I want to live. I have cried all night because I love you. Now I am going to die. Love has caused it all."
