THREE TAMMANY LEADERS DEPOSED IN PRIMARY FIGHTS

Sinnott Defeated and Shannon and Coggey "Lose Their Alderman."

PERKINS WINS EASILY.

Moss's Defeat Means Three-Cornered Fight for District Attorney.

Results of yesterday's primaries tabulated to-day are notable for the defeat or foreshadowed overthrow of three Tammany leaders and one Republican leader of long standing. The effort of Frank Moss to take the Republican designation for District Attorney from District Attorney Charles A. Perkins failed as thoroughly as had been predicted by the supporters of Perkins.

The unprecedented action of Charles F. Murphy in taking sides openly in the fight to depose Tammany Leader Willam H. Sinnott and sending Senator Robert F. Wagner into the battle to represent him, resulted in the decisive victory of Michael Cosgrove.

William Shannon, leader of the Twentieth District, and John V. Coggey, leader of the Eighteenth District, "lost their Alderman." It is the unwritten law of Tammany Hall that the leader who cannot nominate himself or his own choice for Alderman must make way for the man who can. Maurice Featherson, who was once deposed by Shannon, yesterday forced the designation of Edward Cassidy against Daly, Shannon's man, by 1418 to 976.

COGGEY LOST ALDERMAN BY THREE VOTES.

The demonstration against Coggey is attributed to his loyalty to Congressman Carew, against whom there are charges of slackness and lack of interest made by some disaffected constituents. James J. Nugent, Coggey's man, was defeated by Thomas M. Farley by three votes.

George Wannemker, for many years leader of the Eleventh Assembly District Republicans, was noised out by Herman Beyer. Wannemker scored his Aldermanic candidate, Joseph A. Miller, but Beyer's adherents were successful in nominating Martin G. Brennan for the Assembly.

Only four votes saved James Geraghty from defeat for the Democratic leadership of the Thirty-second Assembly District, South. Superintendent of Parks James Smith got eighty-four votes against Geraghty's eighty-eight.

With a large number of districts missing, the count in the Republican contest for the District Attorney nominations, Perkins had 10,796, Moss 8,467.

The defeat of Moss, who has been designated by the Progressives and the American Party, means a three-cornered fight for the District Attorneyship, unless he withdraws, as some of his friends are urging him to do. Judge Edward Swann was nominated by the Democrats without opposition.

District Attorney Perkins issued a statement that the result was as he expected, and that his campaign would start at once. Mr. Moss said large sums of money had been spent to carry the primaries—$4,000 in one Assembly District. Republican Chairman Koenig said there was no truth in this charge. Not more than 17,000 out of a Republican enrollment of 64,363 went to the polls.

Moss carried only five out of the thirty-one Assembly Districts—his own, the Thirty-first; the Twenty-third; the Eleventh and the Thirtieth.

TAMMANY MAN IS NAMED FOR GOULDEN'S PLACE.

A close race is that of Congressman in the Twenty-third District, one of the five in the country to have an election this year. Ellsworth Healy, who married a niece of Charles F. Murphy, was backed by Tammany. George B. Hayes was the candidate of the "independents" for the Democratic nomination. The Tammany men claim to have bowled over the independents, and early to-day, with six districts missing, Healy had 5,239 and Hayes 4,489.

The Republican nominee is William S. Bennet, who had an easy victory over William G. Webster. Bennet also is the nominee of the Progressives and the American Party. The district is normally Democratic, but if the Republican and Progressive forces had combined last year they would have won.

Frank K. Bowers was nominated on the Republican ticket for Sheriff and Alfred E. Smith on the Democratic ticket, neither having any opposition. The judicial ticket, agreed on as between the Republicans and Democrats, was of course nominated by both parties.

The campaign of Joseph T. Ryan for the Democratic nomination for City Court, made against Lorenz Zeller, the organization designee, turned out much as did the campaign of Mr. Moss, judging from incomplete returns. With 93 election districts to hear from in Manhattan and the Bronx figures were:

Zeller 28,992
Ryan 16,716

PERCY NAGLE FAILED TO GET LEADERSHIP.

Percy Nagle, it appeared, had been unable to wrest the leadership of the Thirtieth from Frank J. Hendricks. The fight there was very bitter. In the three-cornered fight for the Eighth District Municipal Court Democratic nomination John F. Cowan, supported by the Hendricks faction, appeared to have won handily over Louis A. Cuvillier, the Nagle choice, and Jacob Levy, backed by Nicholas Hayes of the Twenty-eighth Assembly District.

The fight in the Third District between Patrick H. Sullivan and James E. Breslin for the Democratic Aldermanic nomination was a walkover for Sullivan. He got 1268 votes to Breslin's 181.

There was an upset in the Democratic Twenty-first Assembly District situation in the late returns, which showed Thomas T. Reilly had beaten Adolph J. Cohn by 481 to 577. Raphael Murphy won the Democratic nomination for Assembly in the Thirty-fourth District by 2,701 against 2,580 for M. M. Fertig, Leader Nugent's candidate.

Practically complete returns indicated the nominees in Manhattan and Bronx for the Assembly will be:

Democratic.

All the candidates for nominations backed by the Democratic and Republican machines appear to have been nominated in Kings County.

But early to-day the result in the fight between District Attorney James C. Cropsey and Robert H. Elder for the Progressive Party nomination for District Attorney was in doubt. Both sides were claiming it.

For County Judge in Kings the Republicans nominated George Freifeld, Harry E. Lewis and Marcus B. Campbell.

Here are the nominees for offices:

Democratic—Supreme Court Justice, John J. Fitzgerald; County Judges, Judge Robert H. Roy, Judge John F. Hylan and Mitchell May; Sheriff, Edward Riegelmann; County Clerk, William E. Kelly; District Attorney, Howard P. Nash; Register, Edward T. O'Loughlin.

Republican—Supreme Court Justice, Stephen Callaghan; County Judges, George Freifeld, Marcus B. Campbell, and Harry E. Lewis; Sheriff, William Schnitzpan; County Clerk, Charles S. Devoy; District Attorney, James C. Cropsey; Register, John MacCrate.

On the Democratic side the interest centred in the fights of George J. S. Dowling, seeking a nomination for County Judge; Robert Stewart, for Supreme Court Justice, and Thomas E. Willmott and John J. McManus for Sheriff. None of these appeared to have made progress against the candidates slated by John H. McCooey's organization.

John Kissel bucked the Republican organization in attempting to beat MacCrate for Register.

To the surprise of the Brooklyn politicians, Robert Elder failed by 100 votes of taking the Progressive nomination for District Attorney of Kings from District Attorney James C. Cropsey, who was not opposed for the Republican nomination.

ORGANIZATION MEN MADE FIRM STAND IN UP-STATE PRIMARIES.

ALBANY, Sept. 29.—Despite lively primary contests throughout the State, organization candidates were practically everywhere successful. This is the consensus of reports reaching here to-day. Factional fights among the Republicans were far more general than among the Democrats. The latter in a number of instances lined up with the Progressives on a combined Democratic - Progressive ticket. However, Republican leaders generally express little fear of these political alliances at the November elections.

State-wide returns indicate an exceptionally light vote was cast at yesterday's polls. Only isolated contests appear to have brought out anything approaching a heavy ballot.

The Greiner-Seibert old-line Republican organization appears to have retained control of the Erie County party by a narrow margin. B. H. Snell of Potsdam was the victor in the three-cornered contest for the Republican nomination for Congressional Representative in the Thirty-first District.

Ray B. Smith was beaten for the Assembly nomination by George R. Fearon in Onondaga's Third District.

In Schenectady's Socialistic contest for the Mayoralty nomination former Mayor George R. Lunn was an easy winner. In Binghamton the Republican organization lost out to the Hill-Green faction. In Dutchess County the attempts of independent Republicans to destroy the machine were unsuccessful. The factional primary fights of Albany County's Republican camp also resulted in victories for the organization. The Republicans renominated Mayor Joseph W. Stevens for the Mayoralty. The Democrats and Progressives united on Walter F. Van Dyke[illegible] for the office. Van Dyke[illegible] was a former Republican Coroner.

One of the hottest fights in Brooklyn was that in the Sixty-fourth Aldermanic District, where Benjamin T. Hock tried to take the nomination from Alderman Charles Moore. Moore won, 1,340 to 1,227.

TIDAL WAVE OF SPECULATION NOW SWEEPING COUNTRY

ohio Steel soared from 100 to 109½ and then settled down to 105. Bliss-Sheffield Steel, after long retirement on a back seat, was rushed to the front and scored a bit from 57 up to 61.

Allis-Chalmers took a new high record of 47½. American Car and Foundry did likewise at 84. Another jumper was Continental Can, which advanced 16 points to 110.

Inflation of prices and reckless speculation continued in spite of many warnings from conservative financiers. A rush of new buyers ran over every one who counselled caution. The more hardy professionals began selling short on the bear side but in almost every instance they were overwhelmed by the tidal wave of country wide bullish speculation.

Railroads and other standard issues were utterly neglected. The general tendency of prices for these stocks was fractionally downward but the war order favorites continued to swing to new heights of inflated prices.

"WAR TIME MANIA," SAYS CLEWS.

"A craze for speculation is sweeping the country," said Henry Clews, veteran broker of Wall Street. "It is a war time mania. I recollect that, back in the days of the Civil War, in the sixties, we had the same symptoms. But with this difference:

"In those days gold was the leader of the market. As gold went up or down, so the rest of the market was swayed. To-day industrials, the makers of war munitions, lead the list and thousands of people, here in Wall Street, uptown, up-State and in cities all throughout the country are in the whirl of excitement."

Not in years has Wall Street witnessed such a tidal wave of speculation as that which is swirling around the floor of the Stock Exchange. To be exact, the last big period was in 1906, nine years ago, when reckless plunging and over-expansion both in legitimate business and in speculation led to the short, sharp financial panic of 1907.

Transactions on the floor of the Exchange yesterday have been surpassed only six times in the past twenty years. The banner day, April 30, 1901, still stands as the high water mark of trading, with 3,281,000 shares. Aug. 20, 1906, with 2,700,000 was the last previous day to exceed yesterday with its 1,700,000 and more.

ELATION TAKES PLACE OF WALL STREET GLOOM.

A year ago the Stock Exchange was closed through fear of war, brokers' offices were empty, clerks were out of employment and partners were gloomy with despair and losses. To-day war is bringing prosperity and elation to Wall Street. The same brokerage houses cannot keep up with the volume of business that is thrust upon them. The ticker tape, like a laggard, runs five minutes behind the pace of sales on the Stock Exchange floor. Speculators that started timidly with ten and twenty-share trades last winter and gradually grew bolder to deal in hundreds are now buying and selling in thousand lots.

Customers' rooms in the big houses of the Street cannot hold all the eager, excited throng that press in their doors. Chairs are at a premium like those around the tables at Monte Carlo when play runs high. "Standing room" is crowded as a subway train. Every ticker is packed around with a nervous crowd that can scarcely restrain itself from pulling out the tape to see the unprinted quotations ahead.

The big boards whereon prices are marked up have now two and three agile young attendants who sprint and reach like tennis players to keep up with the ups and downs of quotations. Another clerk sits at the ticker, calling off the stocks and their prices in monotonous voice. Every now and then watchful managers cry out for the latest price on some particular stock. That usually means the death sentence of some unfortunate plunger, whose limit of margin has been reached and his holdings are ruthlessly sold out by the firm.

A stereotyped form of telegram goes speeding over the wires to some man up town or maybe in Kalamazoo that reads like this: "We notified you yesterday that you would have to deposit more margin. As we have not heard from you, we have sold your stock and a statement of account will be sent you by mail."

Mothers of Children Frightened When Fire Is Near School.

The mothers of most of the 550 youngsters in the Children's Aid Society School, at No. 533 East Sixteenth Street, were in a panic of fright when a fire occurred in the cellar of a tenement next door to-day. They found the engines and firemen in front of the school and were sure their children were being burned to death.

But Miss Anna Johnson, principal of the school reassured them. The fire itself was in a coal bin and was put out with little loss.

BANKERS ARRANGE PARCELLING OUT OF $500,000,000 LOAN

Confident of Success Everywhere Except in Chicago, Which Is Lukewarm.

Leading bankers of the city met in J. P. Morgan's office this afternoon to arrange details about joining the syndicate to underwrite the $500,000,000 loan to England and France, and also to discuss allotments and resale to the public.

Public offering of the loan will be made by advertisements in newspapers of fifteen or more cities within a week or ten days. Groups of banks are being made up in each section of the country. In New York City there will be forty to forty-five houses in joint account whose names will appear in the public offering. A. B. Forbes of Harris, Forbes & Co. was made Chairman of a special committee having in charge flotation methods.

The underwriting syndicate of banks gets the bonds at 96 and will offer them to the public at 98 cents on the dollar. The interest rate is 5 per cent. This discount makes the net rate of interest figure out a fraction under 6 per cent. for the syndicate and 5½ per cent. for the public.

A member of the Morgan firm said to-day that he believed the loan would be a great success. Assurances have been received that it will be fully taken by the banks of the country. The one hitch in banking centre is Chicago, where the British Commissioners to-day were having conferences with prominent citizens in an effort to win them over.

Reports from Chicago were to the effect that banks as institutions generally would not subscribe to the loan, but that Western financiers as individuals would participate. Richard Redding and his associates after talking with bank Presidents and packing house heads, left for New York and will arrive here to-morrow morning.

ROCKEFELLER DENIES COLORADO FUEL MERGER

John D. Jr. Repeats He Knows Nothing of Any Prospective Deal With Hill.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 29.—John D. Rockefeller jr. to-day repeated his statement that the Rockefeller interests had no intention of giving up control of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. He denied any knowledge of a prospective merger with the Hill or any other interests and expressed the belief that the recent spectacular rise in the company's stock was due merely to war speculation. Mr. Rockefeller's statement was drawn out by the latest flurry in Colorado Fuel common, which yesterday touched 63 1-2. Asked regarding the persistent New York rumor that the Hill interests were seeking to effect a merger with the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, he said:

"If there is any such movement on foot, I know absolutely nothing about it. I have heard nothing from our New York offices about any concerted buying of Colorado Fuel by any single interest and I think I would have been advised if anything of the kind were going on. It is my opinion that this flurry is the result of war speculation."

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hairs removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste, she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone. —Advt.

Dresses for "Daphne"

MORNING frocks, afternoon dresses and evening gowns—there is a separate boudoir for each in the Gown Salon of the new Bedell Fashion Shop in Thirty-fourth street.

Dainty frocks for both street and evening, from those diaphanous, silver lace, Brinkley-like creations to ingenious combinations of satins and furs and the rich Autumn effects in velvets and broadcloths.

Lady Duff Gordon particularly admired two—one a $25 afternoon dress, and one a $200 blue evening gown—and she admired one as much as the other. To the latter she gave her personal name, "Christiana."
