Liszt and Cupid By Friedheim; Schumann Club

By Sylvester Rawling.

"LISZT Under the Spell of Cupid" was the subject of Arthur Friedheim's prefatory remarks to a second piano recital at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. This favorite pupil of Liszt's shocked only mildly, if at all, the sensibilities of the fairly large audience that heard his intimate revelations of his master's relations with the fair sex. Because of his innate nobility of character, he always was the pursued, never the pursuer, Mr. Friedheim asserted. His traducers would rather he had eloped with somebody's cook than to have enjoyed, as he did, the close association with princesses and others of the nobility. The worship of Liszt by women was universal. Some of them, to his own knowledge, Mr. Friedheim said, smoked the butts of his castaway strong cigars and found delight in the operation because of their hero worship. Mr. Friedheim played more like his old self than at his first recital and deserved the applause that fell generously upon him.

The Schumann Club gave its second private concert of the season at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. The choir of forty-eight women's voices, under the direction of Percy Rector Stephens, sang Zandonai's "Ave, O Maria" and the chorus of Pelovetzian Maidens from Borodin's "Prince Igor" sang exceptionally well. In the latter Miss Gelling, as soloist, was charming. David Stanley Smith's "The Dark" had Miss McConnell as soloist. The club had the assistance of Lucy Marsh, soprano, whose small but captivating voice was heard especially to advantage in Strauss's "Zueignung" and in Leo Stern's "Le Printemps." The accompanist at the piano was H. Reginald Spier. The programme began with Scholz's "Jubilate," sung from behind the scenes, and ended with George Chittenden Turner's "Hail, Land of Freedom!" to which everybody stood up.

Greta Torpadie, young, slender, and graceful, with a voice of charming freshness, gave a recital at the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon before a house full of friends. She was accompanied at the piano by Coenraad V. Bos. Simultaneously, at the Punch and Judy Theatre, Helen Allen Hunt gave a song recital. Her accompanist at the piano was Isidore Luckstone, whose own song on the programme made the biggest hit. In the evening, at Aeolian Hall, Julia Allen, a Boston church singer, gave a recital, assisted by Sergei Kotlarsky on the violin.

War Hurts Business in Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—Business conditions in the Philippine Islands have been adversely affected by the European war, principally through the shortage of vessels on the Pacific and the resultant high freight tariffs, according to W. Morgan Shuster, of New York, who is in San Francisco today after a visit to the islands. Mr. Shuster is a former member of the Philippine Commission. He visited the principal cities of the islands and interviewed prominent men of all classes and races. Mr. Shuster will return to New York in a few days.

FOUR HELD IN SWINDLE BY BOGUS P. O. ORDERS

Scheme Was Made Possible by Theft of Book of Blanks From St. Louis Office.

On a charge that he has been cashing spurious post office money orders taken from a book of blanks stolen from a St. Louis branch post office March 4, 1915, Thomas Burns, a bricklayer, of No. 410 East One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street, was turned over to the post office authorities today by Detectives McGowan and Hagan, together with three of his friends. On underworld information the detectives searched Burns's room last night. They found a number of books of check blanks and a letter purporting to notify John Clark of New York that George Stevens, a St. Louis lawyer, was mailing him a money order for $100.

Following Burns later they saw him meet Michael Sherman of No. 29 East One Hundred and Eleventh Street; Samuel Goldstein of No. 239 East One Hundred and Sixteenth Street and Alexander Tompkins of No. 948 Fox Street at Eighth Avenue and One Hundred and Tenth Street, and arrested them all. Harry Spero, a saloonkeeper, of No. 253 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, identified Sherman as the man for whom he had cashed a $100 order on the strength of the Stevens-Clark letter.

SPECIAL EASTER SERGE SALE

SHAMROCK

Shamrock Serge No. 6019 is a "very special quality serge," made exclusively for Ritchie & Cornell by one of New England's most dependable woollen mills.

Last year we sold thousands of yards to our customers because it is absolutely the best $25 serge value in the world. The mill that makes it stands back of it with a guarantee. Pure Wool, London shrunk, will not shine, fade or shrink. Will give good wear and hold its shape.

No more could be expected of any serge than this, yet Shamrock Serge No. 6019 costs only $14.75 made to measure, and can be found only at our twenty-one stores.

Serge is selling at top prices this season, due to scarcity of woollens—we have only 15,000 yards of Shamrock Serge No. 6019, and at the price, $14.75, it certainly will not last very long.
