understood that a resolution will be adopted demanding that Mayor Mitchel and Chairman Straus hold the New York Railways Company to the agreement signed last week.

In order to provide for the contingency of the city officials not being able to exercise the function of fixing rates so as to their duty in the matter, the union men will vote to invest their leaders with authority to call a strike without submitting the matter to the men.

General Organizer Fitzgerald in a political statement early in the day gave Messrs. Shonts and Hedley twenty-four hours in which to answer the union's demands and announced that a tie-up was inevitable if the ultimatum was ignored. The subway and elevated lines will be included with the surface lines.

The situation was further aggravated by the arrival at union headquarters of six men who were discharged yesterday by officials of the Third Avenue system. These men say they were dismissed from the red car line for no other reason than they had joined the union.

The union officials at once demanded an explanation from General Manager Mahar of the Third Avenue line. Seventy-three men have already been dismissed from the green line cars since the agreement of last week was entered into.

The union officials were greatly incensed at the action of Manager Hedley in calling a meeting of the men on the green car lines last night and urging them to form a "family organization," the plan advocated by President Shonts at meetings of subway and elevated employees held on Monday night.

More than four hundred subway and elevated workers were enrolled at the two meetings held at Lyceum Hall, Eighty-sixth Street and Third Avenue, during the night and early this morning. In connection with their joining the union ranks, the union leaders declared to-day that any attempt on the part of the Interborough to discipline them for doing so would precipitate an immediate strike.

General Organizer Fitzgerald and the other organizers who have been on the ground for three weeks, together with the officers of the local branches of the union, were in conference for several hours this morning.

James H. Vahey of Boston, one of the most prominent labor lawyers in the country, joined the conference just before noon. No word has been received from President Mahon of the Amalgamated, who was urged yesterday afternoon to return from Detroit and take charge of the situation.

Fitzgerald charged that the New York Railways Company was endeavoring to make the men remove the union buttons which they have been wearing on their coat lapels and caps since last week.

The new demands made by the union, which they call an ultimatum, charge that the New York Railways Company has declined to reinstate men under the agreement of Aug. 6, that the company is seeking to interfere with the right of the men to organize, that a conference must be held at once to settle the disputed points, and insist upon the agreement made by the Mayor and Chairman Straus, of the Public Service Commission, being carried out.

The uneasiness among the street car men in Manhattan has spread to those employed on the lines of the New York and Queens County Railway Company, the company's attempt to nullify the union's efforts by establishing a "family organization"—along the lines approved by the officials of the New York Railways Company—being chiefly responsible.

Ballots providing for the election of representatives from each department, forming a board of thirteen members with which the company officials would be willing to do business, were sent out by President William O.

Within a few days ago to be used in an election to be held at the Woodside car barns on Friday. At a meeting of the union men in Long Island City last night one of the officials said [illegible] on the lines which did not take part in the balloting.

LET-UP IN THE FIGHTING ON WESTERN FRONT

Artillery Battle at Verdun, but No Infantry Engagements on the Somme Line.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—With the exception of minor infantry engagement in the vicinity of Poronne, where our line is being consolidated, there was no change between the Ancre and the Somme," the War Office report of to-day says. "There was some heavy shelling by both sides during the night."

PARIS, Aug. 16.—A violent bombardment was carried on last night on the Verdun front, at Thiaumont, Fleury, Vaux and Chapitre, east of the Meuse.

Along the greater part of the front the night passed quietly, the official report issued to-day says.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—The English ended their fruitless attacks against German positions in the region of Poiseres yesterday morning, it was officially announced this afternoon. There were no infantry engagements on this front north of the Somme. East of Rheims French detachments were repulsed.

FUNERAL BELLS HALT A HOMICIDE HEARING

Chauffeur Accused of Causing Man's Death Upset by Tolling for Alleged Victim.

William Worsold, a chauffeur of No. 27 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, was arraigned to-day before Magistrate Kochendorfer in Long Island City on a charge of homicide for having caused the death of Joseph Sherry of No. 171 Fourth Street, Long Island City.

It is alleged they had an altercation on Saturday evening, and as a result of injuries sustained Sherry died in St. John's Hospital.

The Long Island City Court is held in St. John's Lyceum, alongside of St. John's Church. Just as Worsold was brought up to the bar the bells of the church tolled for the funeral of Sherry. The sound of the funeral toll was too much for the prisoner and his lawyer asked that an adjournment until Friday be granted. This was done.

Sherry was buried in Calvary Cemetery.

LAUTERBACH ANNOYER HELD

Edward A. Leet Charged With Extortion of Large Sums.

Edward A. Leet of No. 606 West One Hundred and Fourteenth Street, was arraigned before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions to-day on the indictment charging him with having extorted various sums from Edward Lauterbach, former chairman of the Republican County Committee. Leet was remanded to the Tombs for trial in default of $2,500 bail. He pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Lauterbach testified before the Grand Jury yesterday and Leet was arrested at his home last night. Lauterbach says that he has paid Leet and his wife from $50,000 to $100,000 during their sixteen years' acquaintance.

VIVID STORIES OF BATTLES ON WEST AND EAST FRONTS AS TOLD BY EYE WITNESSES

Thirty-Mile Horseshoe of Solid Artillery Along Somme Section.

FIRING ALL THE TIME.

French Gunners Directed by an Unbroken Line of Great Observation Balloons.

By Henry Wood.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES ON THE SOMME, Aug. 16—(United Press). A thirty mile horseshoe of solid artillery fire, one of the most terrific shell hostings in the history of the world, is drawing a line of flame along the Somme battle front. The French are employing all their great artillery strength to protect their newly acquired positions. The Germans are shelling even more desperately in an effort to dislodge the French and launch counter attacks. The curving line of fire extends from the French positions before Clery, north of the Somme to St. Quentin, thence south to the region of Peronne and southwest to Herleu, Estrees and Moyecourt. Shells of all calibres, both shrapnel and high explosive, burst at every instant at every point along the entire front with a rapidity which defied counting.

Equally impressive as this thirty-mile unbroken semi-circle of artillery fire, was the thirty-mile horseshoe of French observation balloons overhanging at a great height the entire battle front. Their wireless instruments direct the French fire.

Innumerable French aeroplanes dart in and out, crossing and recrossing the German lines every minute. From time to time as a daring aviator flies over the German positions half a dozen white puffs suddenly appear with startling distinctiveness silhouetted against the clear blue sky, showing where the German anti-aircraft gunners had sought to encircle the aeroplane with shrapnel.

Yet despite this great activity of France's air forces, not a single German areroplane appeared either for the purpose of chasing back the French, attacking the French balloons or for reconnoitering. Likewise not a single German balloon was visible to offset the thirty-mile semicircle of French balloons. Nothing could give a more vivid impression of France's undisputed mastery and superiority in the air.

Pushing ahead from Dompierre into the shell zone, our party progressed toward Biaches, barely a mile from Peronne, and the most advanced French position. We passed the villages of Becquincourt, Herbecourt, Assevillers and Flaucourt, all of which were completely levelled by shell fire.

At the entrance of the former site of the Becquincourt there remains standing in the road corner a slender wooden cross, bearing an eighteen-inch miniature statue of Christ. A yard away a shell had mowed down a giant fifty-year-old tree, also carrying away one arm of the cross. But the figure of Christ remains untouched, pathetically viewing the empty space that was formerly Becquincourt. It is the only thing left standing in the entire village.

A few minutes after we passed this spot shells coming from the German batteries at Soyecourt, six miles away, began bursting near as though angrily determined not to leave standing above ground a single resident of the entire village. By a circuitous tour we arrived at a dominating position north of the Somme, facing the point where the French and German lines crossed the river before the beginning of the French offensive July 1.

From this vantage point every step of the French advance was visible from the Moulin Farine, which was the first point attacked, through the village of Carlu, Monacu farm and the village of Ham, and finally to the region of Clery. At this point a desperate struggle which followed the previous day's capture of German third line positions was still progressing. This new position also brought us into closer contact with the French artillery lines.

The artillery duel gradually grew in intensity toward the close of the day, until the hail of shells flying over from the batteries in the hills and valleys in the rear fairly made one's head swim with its intensity.

From time to time this unceasing artillery roar was intensified by angry spurts and sputters of machine gun fire either as the French repulsed German counter attacks before Clery, or as French gunners voluntarily gave vent to a few volleys as a warning to the Germans of the inadvisability of leaving their trenches.

Toward sundown the German fire dwindled. The French fire likewise lessened, giving the impression that the day's struggle had ended with the French still holding their recently conquered positions between Hardecourt and Buscourt and before Clery, an impression which the evening official communique confirmed.

Russian Drive Is Practically Stopped, View Taken by Von Hindenburg's Officers.

HELD UP ON STOKHOD.

Austrians Saved by the Timely Arrival of Masses of German Troops.

By Carl W. Ackerman.

HEADQUARTERS OF FIELD MARSHAL VON HINDENBURG'S ARMY (United Press), Aug. 16.—"The worst of the Russian offensive is over," one of the highest commanding officers on the eastern front said to-day, after a tour of inspection of the Austro-German lines.

Completely halted at the Stokhod River in their efforts to reach Kovel, the Russians, undaunted by this failure, have shifted their attacks southward, always striking against the Austrians.

"The temporary successes of the Russians in the southeast is desperate strategy," said a German officer, "because the faster they advance with their left wing in the southeast, the more they weaken the position of their right wing along the Stokhod."

It is admitted here that the Russians caught the Austrians by surprise at the beginning of the offensive. Aeroplanes reported Russian troops massing behind the Russian front, but no one believed the Russians as strong as they have been discovered to be. The Russian tactics kept the Austrians guessing for several weeks, but now the whole Austro-German front is reorganized and the earlier Russian advantages are being overcome.

The fall of Stanislau and Goritz were admittedly unpleasant, but viewed strategically have a different meaning, according to German military men. These reverses are completely outweighed by the Russians' failure to reach Kovel and Lemberg. The Germans marvel that they did not succeed in view of the gigantic English and French blows, but at the critical moment German troops arrived and stiffened the lines east of Kovel.

We bivouacked last night near the front where the Russians on Aug. 8 attempted a great offensive. I walked for two hours in the front line trenches, watching German 11-inch shells bombarding the Russians. Major von Cheller, former attache of the German Embassy at Washington, and Capt. P. Behn, former German Consul at Denver, explained the lay of the surrounding country. We also visited the headquarters of Gen. Bernhardi, who is commanding an army on this front, but he was suffering from influenza and unable to receive us.

The new armies on this front are composed of Polish, German and Austro-Hungarian troops, which officers said, illustrates the new spirit of comradeship, and is a sure indication of the strength of the Central Powers.

358,000 TEUTONS TAKEN IN GREAT RUSSIAN DRIVE

sian gained a big victory yesterday.

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (via London).—German troops have won a success in the Carpathian region, according to the War Office announcement today, capturing Starawipozyna Height, north of Capul.

To the north of the Dniester, in Galicia, says the statement, the Russians only attacked weakly and were repulsed.

Following is the text of to-day's German War Office report:

"On the eastern front, from the sea to the region north of the Dniester, there were no incidents of importance. Detachments of the Polish legion made a short and successful advance in the region of Huleviche. German detachments broke up Russian advanced posts east of Kiselin and brought back as prisoners one officer and sixty-three men.

"North of the Dniester the Russians, after their sanguinary defeat on Aug. 14, merely delivered local attacks with weak forces, without result.

"In the Carpathians our troops took possession of Starawipoznya Height to the north of Capul."

Repulse of Russian attacks was was claimed in an official statement from the Austrian War Office, under date of Aug. 14, received here to-day. The statement says:

"In the Russian war theatre front of the Archduke Carl nothing important occurred south of the Dniester. On the heights north of Mariampol an attacking cavalry brigade was dispersed by our fire yesterday.

"This morning the enemy entered into close fighting on the whole front between the Dniester and the district south of Zaloeze. A Russian advance south of Horozanka failed; west of Kosyva our troops chased pillaging detachments. Near Augustovka and in the district of Zborow numerous Russian attacks were repulsed. About 300 prisoners were brought in.

"On Hindenburg's front, Col. Bochn-Ermoli repulsed a mass attack southwest of Podkayian, which was preceded by several hours drumfire and in which gas bombs were used. The forefield of our positions was covered with dead and heavily wounded Russians. These engagements are still going on. Near Huleviczo, on the Stockhod, a feeble Russian attack failed. South of Stobychva a sand hill occupied by the enemy was captured, and the occupying troops taken prisoners."

LOS ANGELES BEAUTY WHO BECAME BRIDE OF A BRITISH EARL.

CALIFORNIA BEAUTY BECOMES THE BRIDE OF A BRITISH PEER

Miss Patricia Burke, Who Rejected a Peer, Weds the Earl of Cottenham.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Earl of Cottenham was married in St. George's Church, Hanover Square, to-day to Miss Patricia Burke, daughter of the late J. H. Burke of California. Walter Winans gave the bride away. Viscount Crowhurst, eldest son of the Earl, acted as best man.

The latest American girl to become a British peeress is a daughter of John Humphrey Burke, a Los Angeles millionaire. Since her schooldays she has figured in many romances, and on at least two occasions came near to marrying a prince of the blood.

After winning a beauty prize contest in Los Angeles that brought her into considerable prominence she came to New York and had a short but interesting career in metropolitan social circles before going abroad. Then her engagement was reported to Prince Ludovico Pignatelli d'Aragon of Spain, and the couple were frequently seen together.

The Prince's courtship continued for several months, but was suddenly broken off for reasons that never reached the public. Miss Burke took the matter philosophically, and on her return to the United States remarked:

"From what I have seen of titled men, I prefer a good American; but I am not thinking of marrying."

The first wife of the Earl of Cottenham was found shot through the heart on May 3, 1913, with a hunting gun propped against a nearby tree. A Coroner's Jury decided that the Countess had accidentally killed herself.

BOX TRADE STRIKE GROWS; EMPLOYERS SEEK PEACE

1,400 More Workers Leave Their Places—Girls Parade in Best Dresses.

Morris Rubenstein, President of the Boxmakers' Union, told 2,000 strikers in Webster Hall this afternoon that 1,400 workers had joined their ranks today, making a total of 12,000 men, boys and girls now on strike. He said that he had been approached by thirty individual box manufacturers, negotiating through the executive board of the Association of Hebrew Trades, asking for a settlement.

Samuel Laken of No. 194 Wooster Street, President of the Box Manufacturers' Association, announced that a meeting would be held in the offices of that organization in the Metropolitan Tower to-day.

The third day of the boxmakers' strike brought a few isolated demonstrations but no arrests. A parade of 500 workers, mostly girls in their best dresses, halted outside the shop of Dix & Co. at Fourth Avenue and Twelfth Street following a meeting in Webster Hall on East Eleventh Street. The 250 loyal employees of the firm were urged to drop their tools and join the strikers. They were dispersed by the police.

NEW GROUND TAKEN BY THE ITALIANS ON GORIZIA LINE

Further Progress Made on the Northern Edge of the Carso Plateau

AUSTRIAN AIR RAID.

Aeroplane Squadron Drops Bombs at Several Points Along Isonzo Front.

ROME, Aug. 16 (via London).—Further advances for the Italians in their campaign against the Austrians east and southeast of Gorizia were announced to-day by the War Office. Austrian trenches along the slopes of Monte Pecinka, on the northern edge of the Carso plateau and in the neighborhood of San Caterina and San Mario, east of Gorizia, have been taken, the announcement states.

A squadron of French and Italian aeroplanes made a raid near Trieste yesterday and is reported to have inflicted extensive damage. A French aeroplane was lost.

"A squadron of Italian hydroplanes, together with French hydroplanes and aeroplanes, this morning bombarded the munition factories and hangar at Muggia, near Trieste, causing numerous destructive fires," says the official statement. "The French lost one aeroplane while resisting those of the enemy. Otherwise the entire Franco-Italian squadron returned safe to its base."

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(by wireless to Sayville).—Further operations of Austrian aviators in bombarding positions behind the Italian front in the Isonzo region are recorded in an Austro-Hungarian admiralty statement to-day, as follows:

"On the night of Aug. 13-14 a naval aeroplane squadron bombarded most successfully the railroad station at Ronchi and military objects and positions in Chetre-Vermegliano, Selz and San Canziano and a hostile battery at the mouth of the Isonzo. Many exact hits were obtained. All the aeroplanes returned undamaged in spite of the most violent shelling."

Following is the report of the Austrian War Office dated Aug. 14:

"On the Italian war front, strong hostile forces attacked seven times against our positions east of the Vallone Valley between Sokvica and Vippach, but were completely repulsed. On the heights east of Goritz and on Monte San Gabriele and Monte Santo there was heavy artillery-ing. In the Sugana district two hostile attacks broke down on Civaron under our fire."

PARIS, Aug. 16.—It is reported that Germany is taking over the defenses of Trieste sending troops especially organized for that purpose, says a despatch to the Temps from Milan to-day.

MISSION WORKER SAYS DETECTIVE SET TRAP FOR HER

or drink and he insisted that I had spoken to him first, which is a lie. I do realize that I made a mistake in not rebuffing him when he first spoke to me, but I honestly believed I knew him.

"All Sunday night I was kept in jail, thrown in with all sorts of offenders. It was not the pleasantest experience in the world, for the people I was thrown in contact with were of the same type I worked with in the Chinatown Rescue Mission at No. 17 Doyers Street. But a blind policeman could have seen that I was not one of them."

COURT CLERK BELIEVED THE WHOLE AFFAIR A MISTAKE.

When Miss Sylvester appeared in court yesterday among the first to recognize her at her father's side was Court Clerk Taylor, who for many years knew father and daughter as Sunday school teachers and workers in the Brooklyn Tabernacle. He was dumfounded. He inquired of police officers standing by what had happened. The only explanation of Miss Sylvester's predicament he could obtain was that her arrest was a case of mistaken identity. It was said in the court that a woman, the double of Miss Sylvester, had been in jail recently and was out on bail, thus accounting for the mistaken identity.

When Detective Waltward positively identified her as the young woman who accosted him and related her invitation to visit her apartment, Mr. Taylor would not believe it, he said this morning. When the woman admitted speaking to the detective, Mr. Taylor thought the detective had misconstrued both the actions and words of Miss Sylvester.

"There is not a more respectable family in Brooklyn," Mr. Taylor said. "I have known them for years and only share a high opinion with many other friends of the Sylvesters."

That others held the family in high esteem was learned by The Evening World reporter, at No. 294 Carlton Avenue, where the family lived for eighteen years. Persons living there who remembered the family said that they were respectable, quiet people. At the present home neighbors spoke equally well of them.

At St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Classon Street and Willoughby Avenue, the reporter was informed that the Sylvesters were regular communicants at the church.

The family are members of the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution. Miss Sylvester at the time of her arrest wore the pin of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Fort Greene Chapter L, which was plainly displayed on the lapel of her navy-blue suit.

"TODY" HAMILTON DEAD AT HOME IN BALTIMORE AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Greatest Press Agent of His Time—Knew Every Man of Consequence.

"Tody" Hamilton, the greatest of the press agents the world ever saw, died at 11 o'clock this morning of his home in Baltimore. He was about sixty-five years old and had been sick for several months.

"Tody" Hamilton was born in New York and in his young days was a star reporter on the Herald. He went with the Barnum Circus as advertising man and press agent in 1879 and was connected with that organization for twenty-seven years. He retired in 1906. Last year he was the press agent for Luna Park at Coney Island.

In his time "Tody" Hamilton had the widest acquaintance of any man in the country, and he was for many years the best known showman. Everybody that knew him was his friend.

For many years Mr. Hamilton wrote all the advertising matter for the Barnum shows. He was the originator of the alliterative style which distinguishes circus bills and announcements. In facility of expression and width of imagination he had no equal. Phrases he coined are used to-day by circuses in all parts of the world, and will be used as long as circuses travel, for they are part of the circus business.

Mr. Hamilton numbered among his friends all the editors and newspaper men of the country and in his busy career he had met all the contemporaneous statesmen, financiers and men of prominence in all walks of life. In 1907 he was tendered a great banquet at the Waldorf. Charles Evans Hughes, then Governor, delivered the principal address.

For the last ten years Mr. Hamilton made his home in Baltimore, save when he was engaged in business in New York. His name was Richard F. Hamilton, but few knew him except as "Tody."

LURED SCORES OF GIRLS TO RUIN IN A CHINESE LAUNDRY USED AS DEPOT

"Wilful Little Idiots of the Better Class," Their Protectress Calls Them.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 16.—Alice Smith, known to the Tenderloin as the "Queen of Chinatown," told Magistrate Freeze in a Police Court this afternoon how scores of young girls had been lured to a den which had been operated for years as a Chinese laundry.

With two of her victims and three Chinamen, Alice was arrested early to-day when police raided it. Alice said she had induced her victims with care, always being sure they were under eighteen. She told them of the presents the Chinamen would give and then led them off to the slavery of an Oriental.

In her confession the Smith girl explained how the "laundry" had been a clearing house for girls, who never went to other than Chinamen. Each was lured to a little room behind the laundry shelves where Oriental music played day and night. Chinamen would gather at night, pay their price for the girls and, by threats, drag them away to their laundry shops throughout the city.

Most of the girls Alice Smith characterized as "wilful little idiots of the better class."

While the trial was going on to-day an anxious mother told the police her daughter was missing. She happened to be one of those captured in the raid last night.
