EXAGGERATED HAIR REMOVERS

QUESTION—Is it consistent for a manufacturer to advertise both that his preparations have used his Hair Removers "FOR YEARS" and that it remains superfluous hair PERMANENTLY?

PERMANENTLY—But ONLY THE OCCASIONAL USE OF

Empress

INSTANTANEOUS

Scientific Hair Remover

It is possible to (1) instantly remove all outward signs of superfluous hair, (2) retard its growth; (3) make it gradually thinner and finer, until after a few applications, you finally (4) destroy the roots.

Eighteen years' scientific laboratory and research work and practical experience stand back of this pure, harmless, meritorious hair remover of antiseptic, soothing oil.

TWO TAKEN IN RAID ON COINER'S HOUSE IN STATEN ISLAND

Secret Service Men Find Counterfeiting Plant Run by Band of Italians.

A complete counterfeiting plant, including presses, plates and spurious money, was found to-day by United States Secret Service men in a raid on a residence at Railroad and Washington Avenues, Grant City, Staten Island. Two prisoners were brought to Secret Service Headquarters office in the Custom House.

Chief Flynn, who supervised the raid, would make no comment upon it further than to say that "the job was not yet finished."

It was the plan of the Secret Service men to raid four other places in Brooklyn and Long Island simultaneously in an effort to break up a large gang of Italian counterfeiters. Where these other places were the chief declines to state.

The Secret Service men went on the raid in automobiles, and when they had brought into the Grant City house proceeded to load into their motor car all of the paraphernalia they had captured.

It was said that the band of counterfeiters numbered more than a score and were among the most expert the Government has encountered in a long time. While of one gang, they operated from five distinct centres.

Laundress Loses Her Scalp.

Her hair catching in the belt of a washing machine, Matilda Eckerson, fifty-two years old, of No. 380 East One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street, was scalped to-day in the Press Steam Laundry, No. 244 East One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Street. A strip of scalp four inches wide was torn from her skull from ear to ear. She was taken to Lincoln Hospital, where the skin was sewed back in place.

U. S. STEEL UP TO 91; HIGHEST SINCE 1910

Shares Sold in Lots as High as 4,000 at a Time—Down to 38 in 1915.

United States Steel went to 91 this afternoon, the highest price it has reached since 1910, when it sold at the same figure.

The rise came in a prodigious market, the shares selling in lots as high as 4,000 at a time. Lots of 2,500 were common. Dealings in Steel gave zest to the entire market, the list being strong throughout.

The highest price at which Steel has ever sold is 24 7-8, in 1902. The nearest approach to to-day's price was reached in 1913, when the shares touched 89 1-2.

Steel has had a widely fluctuating career, the shares going as low as 38 in 1915, the same year that saw its highest point. In to-day's market it went to 90 during the second hour of trading. It reached 91 shortly after noon.

Republic Steel preferred sold to-day at 113 and International Mercantile Marine reached 30 3-8, which were new high records for these shares.

Nervousness.

Modern nervousness, the most subtle of all diseases, is the result of a combination of influences which tend to diminish the vital income and increase the vital expenditure.

PAULINE FURLONG

Overfeeding, overwork, lack of physical exercise, worry and other injurious mental habits are among the most common of these influences. Drug medication will do no good in the cure of nervous disorders, and only by removing the cause of the trouble and following a hygienic mode of living, together with an avoidance of extreme emotional states of worry, can the health and nervous system be brought to normal condition.

Lack of ventilation in homes and business houses is also a common cause of nervousness because the lungs are unable to get from fresh air the proper amount of oxygen to burn up the accumulated poisons. Overdressing and impure air deprive the skin and lungs—two of the most important organs of the body—of the chance to properly perform the duties intended for them by nature.

SCARS—L. P. D. writes: "Can you tell me how I can rid myself of scars left by pimples? My forehead is continually breaking out and when the pimples heal there is a scar left. It is worrying me because it is disfiguring my whole face. I apply hot and then cold water every night and want you to tell me if this will help me any? Please give a good pimple salve."

Scars may be somewhat effaced through massage. They may also be removed by a surgeon. You should not squeeze pimples or blackheads with the finger nails, as this also leaves a scar. Pimple salves will not do much good, if you do not treat the pimples from the inside first. Follow a light, easily digested menu and drink much water. Practice the trunk exercises to help eliminate the waste matter from the body. Pimple salve is given as follows: Pure oxide of zinc, 2½ grams; precipitate of sulphur, 6 grams; lanoline, 6 grams; olive oil, 5 grams; mix until smooth and apply to the pimples. You should not rub the face and must avoid extremes of hot and cold water.

OILY SKIN—M. H. H. asks: "Will you please tell me if I should use hot or cold water before massaging the face? What kind of soap is good for oily skin? I use peroxide and witch hazel cream. Is this good for the complexion? Is there any remedy which will keep the hair from growing down on the back of the neck? My neck looks very badly in evening dress. I am troubled with pimples. Is camphor spirits good to dry them, and will it injure the skin?"

Use hot water and tar or sulphur soap on oily skin. Finish with cold water for several minutes after washing out the soap suds. Do not use any cold cream on oily skin, unless, perhaps, a very thin cleansing cream. Nothing will prevent this growth of hair on the neck. You can bleach it with peroxide and make it less conspicuous, however. Anything used to remove it will cause a heavier growth to appear. Do not use camphor spirits on the face. Keep the system clean, live and eat right, and the pimples will not appear.

MOUTH LINES—MRS. M. H. writes: "I have a deep wrinkle on one side of my mouth and do not know how to treat it. Is it possible that one side of my face is more oily than the other? This wrinkle seems to become worse every day, though I have massaged it constantly. Please tell me how to use the rubber face mask."

This line on one side of the face is probably due to some facial grimace, of which you are not conscious, or perhaps it is some muscular trouble. You should consult a physician and determine which it is. It is not likely the face is more oily on one side than the other. Wear the mask at night on perfectly clean skin and in the morning dash cold water on the face for several minutes to close pores and harden the skin. The mask causes profuse perspiration, opens and cleanses the pores, bleaches and softens the skin and removes fine lines and crow's feet. I do not think it will greatly benefit a deep mouth line such as you describe.

OBESITY DIET—MRS. F. G. R. writes: "Please tell me what to eat. I am five feet tall and weigh 165 pounds. I am so anxious to reduce and have no time for exercise. Will diet alone reduce me?"

Five minutes twice each day with the exercises will improve the health and figure to a remarkable degree, and every one should spare this time for health's sake. Send me 2 cents and ask for the obesity diet. It will reduce without exercise, but you will feel and look better if you take the exercises in conjunction with the diet.

NIGHTSTICK SAVES WOMAN.

By making a tourniquet from his nightstick Policeman Bracken of the Bedford Avenue Station saved Mrs. Pauline Lofty, sixty-three years old, from bleeding to death at No. 111 Grand Street, Williamsburg, early to-day.

She has been in bad health and stumbled against a glass panel in her apartment. As her arm broke through the glass severed an artery. Her children heard her fall and called for policemen. She was taken to the Eastern District Hospital.

Mid-summer Sale of Furniture (With Truth)

The Mid-Summer Sale of Furniture (with truth) goes merrily on. Up to the present writing we still have the distinction of being the only department store in New York handling furniture that has sufficient faith in the value of honesty in advertising to tell the real truth about the furniture we sell.

People seem to like the idea of being able to know that in the furniture business "mahogany" means mahogany veneer, that "mahogany finish" means painted or stained to resemble mahogany, that "all mahogany" means constructed entirely of mahogany, and "solid mahogany" means constructed entirely of solid pieces of mahogany—and that the same rule applies with oak, walnut or any other wood used in the construction of furniture.

As to values, we are very much gratified at the many comments we hear from people, particularly those who have shopped around. We feel sure that our values, as well as our straightforward statements about them, are worthy of careful consideration.
