"Our Darling" at Rest.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—"Polly," a twenty-year-old parrot belonging to Harry Kay of No. 4128 Delmar Boulevard, is dead and has been laid to rest in the back yard of his home in a specially made coffin lined with white satin and bearing a silver nameplate reading "Our Darling." After the burial services the grave was strewn with flowers.

THE NEW PLAYS

"Business Before Pleasure" Leads the Laugh Market

BY CHARLES DARNTON.

ONCE again, Barney Bernard, as the senile member of the firm of Potash and Perlmutter, proved himself funnier than a pawnbroker at a picnic in "Business Before Pleasure," the latest nonsense by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman played on sale last night at the Bilinge Theatre.

Happily, Alexander Carr once more figured as the superior partner of the one and only Abe. The two comedians, easily at home in their new roles, though out of the cloak and suit trade, made "Business Before Pleasure" one long laugh when they occupied the stage. The result left nothing to be desired.

It was a clever stroke to put Abe and Mawruss into the "Illium" business. One of them remarked that everybody these days has two kinds of business—his regular business and the motion picture business. Names formerly seen on loft buildings were brought into the theatrical world without apology—and the audience relished its delight. Everything was as plain as the label on your coat. There was no attempt to make a delicate weave of the fabric turned out by those clever machinists, Glass and Goodman. They worked most successfully. "Business Before Pleasure" leads the laugh market, so far as the season has gone. It is uproariously funny.

Forward, taking everything seriously, and Carr, keeping a sharp eye on the main chance, were nice-looking as cloak and suit makers who had thrust themselves into the motion picture world. They signed that Marcus Loew had made his way out of furs into "movies," so they could see no mistake in the path of art with a large profit for them. As the more artistic member of the firm, however, Abe suggested nothing with swimming in it "like Neptune's motor." But the partners finally agreed to engage a movie actress famous as a "vampire" and she proceeded to "vamp" all over their studio—possessed with a Hindoo scent that defies imitation in type.

Motion pictures were mixed with the action of the play, and Abe, after being thrown out of an automobile, put a damper on the scene of a burning house, from which he limped with great zest to his dignity as a man who had been married for twenty-five years and never sprained a bleak of surplusage to the tune of "I-yoie." Though the plot was a little thin, with the vice president of a bank figuring as a designing villain bent upon taking the pure, babyloving "vampire" to a roadhouse, the force itself was rich in fun.

As Abe, with a jealous wife always at his heels, Mr. Bernard provoked shouts of laughter. He is a comedian of a type known only too well to New York who has no equal on our stage. Mr. Carr completed a combination rare in its peculiar humor. Mathilde Cottrelly, too, was quite at her ease in the role of Abe's devoted, yet suspicious, wife. Another clever bit of work was done by Clara Joel, alert, knowing and pretty, as the professional vampire. The "vamping" of acting given by other lights of the movie world before the astonished eyes of the cloak-and-suit makers—always with a scene from "The Mania Master"—helped along the fun.

In short, "Business Before Pleasure" is convulsingly funny. If you feel in need of a good laugh, you are sure to find it at the Bilinge Theatre.

FAMILY DOCTOR'S GOOD ADVICE

To Go On Taking "Fruit-a-tives" Because They Did Her Good

Rochen, Jan. 14, 1915.

"I suffered for many years with terrible Indigestion and Constipation. I had frequent dizzy spells and become greatly run down. A neighbor advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve, and he advised me to go on with 'Fruit-a-tives.'

"I consider that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives' and I want to say to those who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation or Headaches — try 'Fruit-a-tives' and you will get well."
