NEW ARMY CORPS MOTOR TRANSPORT WILL BE POPULAR

Recruits Assured Plenty of Action and Chances of Promotion.

When the United States Marines were at the height of their advance before Chateau-Thierry they were suddenly confronted with a dangerous shortage of ammunition. The enemy occupied numerous rocky copses between wheat fields that the Americans had to cross. The marines were not only in serious danger of losing fire superority but of losing ground.

A motor transport ammunition truck, braving the rain of shrapnel, was rushed almost to the firing line and saved the day. The men aboard supplied the ammunition that permitted the marines to start the advance of the American Army six months ahead of scedule.

In the same engagement six men fell before an exploding shrapnel, two of them dead. The life blood of the other four was wasting away. They lay in the hot July sun, three praying that they might die.

An American ambulance found them, gave them emergency treatment and carried them to a hospital behind the lines.

There are thousands of other similar instances of ambulance work. And this particular ambulance and all the others are now under the Motor Transport Corps.

The newest corps in the army carries forward the food and ammunition that the army fights with; it carries forward the men who fight, and carries back the men who have fought and been wounded.

One motor transport man is required for every eight soldiers, and 50,000 trucks for every million men. More than 240,000 trucks are being used for the army of 33 divisions now in France, while 500,000 men will be in the corps before the first of the year.

It furnishes active service for the recruit more quickly than any other service. After about three months' preliminary training in this country the men are hurried overseas. It furnishes a fine chance for promotion.

The corps has orders to recruit 20,000 men. It is practically a selective service. You can specify and get whatever work you like if you are qualified in that particular work. The recruiting officers themselves secure your release from the draft board. All you have to do is make out your application form.

The corps is in particular need of the following classes of men just at present: Welders, blacksmiths, motor cyclists, battery men, tire repair men, upholsterers and trimmers, grinders, cylinder operators, frank shaft grinders, millwrights, radiator repair men and sheet metal workers. Drivers are responding in good style, but there is room for many more.

The recruiting headquarters is at No. 206 West 55th Street.

BOYCOTT ON GERMAN GOODS.

American Defense Society Enlists 250,000 in New Campaign.

The American Defense Society announced yesterday that in less than three months it had obtained more than 250,000 signatures to its pledge "never to buy anything made in Germany".

"It is the belief of the society," said Richard M. Hurd, Chairman of the organization's Boycott Committee, "that the feeling in the Allied countries against using any goods manufactured by the Germans is so bitter that it is necessary for the Allied governments to express such feelings in law and that governmental control of trade with enemy countries is necessary to limit the economic power and hence war-making ability of Germany."

The Sunshine in Lovely Woman's Smile

is accentuated by a set of perfect teeth. How about your own? If they need attention let me show you what modern dentistry skillfully applied will accomplish.

Unexcelled Workmanship. Moderate Fees. No Charge for Consultation.
