CITY MARTS BARRED TO DAY.

Can't Sell Navy Foods in Them, Says O'Malley.

Commissioner of Markets O'Malley said this morning he had definitely decided not to permit Dr. Jonathan C. Day, Special Agent for the Navy, to sell any of the surplus navy foods in city-owned markets.

His announcement followed one from Dr. Day, that regardless what decision the city officials might come to, he would not reopen the Navy food sales in public markets. He now has six armories and other stations in operation, in addition to six churches and settlement houses on the east and west sides where sales will start Monday morning.

TO-DAY'S PRICES

Professional traders again took command of the stock market to-day and the forward movement which got under way yesterday was checked by week end profit taking and by new short selling.

Rails, coppers and steels moved sluggishly. The opening was practically unchanged and as the two hour session drew to a close they became slightly reactionary. Losses in most cases amounted only to fractions.

In rubber and motor stocks the case was quite different. They were taken in hand by pool and bid up for gains amounting to three points and more. Of the 725,000 shares of stock traded in fully 30 per cent. was accounted for by the rubber and motor issues. They maintained their strength to the end of the session.

Sterling exchange was inclined to go lower. It opened at $3.79 1-4, off 1-4 cent from last night, and later dropped to $3.78 3-4.

In the outside market there was considerable profit taking in the oil shares that advanced so sensationally in yesterday's market. White Oil, Simms and International Petroleum all reacted 2 points and more.

The bank statement showed that the $12,300,000 reserve deficit of last week had been converted into a surplus reserve of $8,000,000.

SOFT COAL STOCKS RUNNING LOW HERE

Only 400 Carloads Received Yesterday as Against Normal Total of 1,500.

Reports received to-day by the Public Service Commission caused apprehension over the supply of bituminous coal for New York. It was said only 400 carloads had been received yesterday at the eight local tidewater ports, instead of the 1,500 or 1,800 usually received daily.

The total of carloads on hand is 3,029, as against a normal supply of about 8,000. There are said to be 3,000 cars en route, but it is not known how soon they will be delivered. In addition, it is reported the coal thawing plant at Arlington, N. J., has broken down and it will take two months to repair it.

Reports from the Interborough Company show a rapidly diminishing supply. No bituminous was received yesterday and the total reserve supply has fallen below 9,000 tons. A month ago the Interborough had 15,000 tons in its bins.
