RAIDS ON THE REDS MAY CAUSE PARTY SPLIT IN CONGRESS

tirely within the direction of the Executive Departments.

FULL BURDEN OF RESPONSIBILITY WITH DEMOCRATS.

This places the full burden of responsibility for any mistakes made in deporting innocent persons squarely on the Democratic Administration. Congress, which is Republican, shares none of it and thus far has not even passed laws to punish American citizens for doing the same things for which aliens residing in the United States are being deported.

The purpose of the Department of Justice's raid was to impress upon conditions-revolutionaries in the United States that the arm of the law would reach out and pull them or exile them from this country. Careful perusal of all the documents thus far adduced makes it a matter of speculation whether the advertising given to "Reds" movement by means of the raid was not secured in the sense that it caused what might otherwise have been an indifferent attitude toward doctrines plausibly presented in secret meetings and street corner outbursts.

It is one of the interesting side lights on the situation that the arrest of 2,000 "Reds" occasioned much surprise in the National capital, for it was not considered to be by indiscreet and dangerous to the Nation's welfare agitation being in America and the undercover of agitation was another thought. Summed up, it is whether all those arrested were really guilty of much more than gaseous outbursts which such permitted to stay in years gone by.

SENATOR BORAH OPPOSES ANTI-RADICAL MEASURES.

Senator Borah, who seems bent on being consistent, has announced his opposition to many measures aimed at sedition. While he is known as a friendship for anarchists, he argues that federal America should not be given such sweeping powers of prosecution of the Government departments. His predictions of oppression of the innocent under the Espionage Act were verified a month ago. The people were under stay, but it was necessary for President Wilson himself to veto a bill on the Post Office Department which practically set up its employees in detecting newspapers and periodicals of second class mail privileges.

The raid which has been made in the Department of Justice will therefore be one thing so far as Washington is concerned. It will bring out the lines of cleavage in the debate on the sedition bills which come up for discussion as Congress reassembles this week. It will probably split the two old line parties.

There are Democrats who will take their stand by the Attorney General on the law and order issue, arguing that in a national crisis the innocent must suffer with the guilty, if they are united with radicalism and there are Democrats of the Owen type who believe there has been too much restriction and constraint and that too much power is being taken away from the people by Congress and the executive departments.

DIVISION AMONG THE REPUBLICAN MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.

Inside the Republican Party are the conservatives like Harding, Lodge, Mann, Fordney, Longworth, and others who like the iron hand type of government in dealing with Socialistic and radical movements, but there are also men like Senators Cummins, Borah, Capper, Norris, and others who will not permit the passage of legislation that stables the Department of Justice or any other department of the Government to have discretionary powers to land anybody's dwelling on suspicion and arrest and detain persons whose views or opinions may happen to be distasteful.

The raid of last Saturday excited enthusiasm in some parts of Washington, but doubt in others. It is questionable you whether the event is the beginning of an even more aggressive campaign on radicals or the big climax—like the draft raid in New York during the Civil War—of a movement that will cause another reaction toward Government by sensational raid, and an insistence that every case stand on its own bottom.

HIS DAD BLOCKS MARRIAGE.

Thomas, 20, and Alice, 17, Misstated Ages in License.

The marriage license issued Saturday to Thomas J. McDermott of No. 222 East 19th Street, Bayonne, and seventeen-year-old Alice B. Roach of No. 2259 Homecrest Avenue probably will be revoked to-day by relatives of the young couple. McDermott is twenty and a veteran of the World War. They had planned to get married Saturday night, but this arrangement was upset when the license issued earlier in the day fell into the hands of McDermott's father. It showed that in securing the document Thomas gave his age as twenty-one and the girl's as eighteen, and Mr. McDermott, earlier, took charge of the license and sent word to the Roach home that the wedding had been postponed. He thinks the couple too young to marry.
