☞ 'THE POET'S MAGAZINE, a Repository of Original and Selected Poetry,' No. I, has just been issued at Albany, by E. G. Squier, and in this city by Geo. L. Curry & Co. 167 Broadway. The plan is excellent, and the execution very fair. The number issued extends to 48 pages, containing Poems by Bryant, Longfellow, Percival, Hoffman, Burleigh, Benjamin, Street, Mrs. Sigourney, Hosmer, Wm. Wallace, Mrs. Welby, and some twenty other American Poets. We trust this work will live.

☞ The COLUMBIA WASHINGTONIAN is a neat and spirited Temperance Weekly, published at Hudson, by J. S. Van Vleet. Price, $1 per ann.

☞ THE STATEN ISLAND GAZETTE, a new and promising Weekly, has just been started at Tompkinsville, by J. H. Tobitt.

PICTORIAL Illustration of the Bible. and Views in the Holy Land, complete in 3 vols.—containing 600 engravings illustrative of different texts of Scripture views of places mentioned in the Bible, &c. &c., compiled from the London Pictorial Bible.

The above work is the only ILLUSTRATED COMMENTARY of the Bible published in this country, and those who are anxious to furnish themselves with a work of this kind, will do well to call and examine it.

The following is from the Boston Recorder.

"This volume completes the design of the compiler. And it may be said with truth that he hath 'wrought a good work,' in commencing, prosecuting, and terminating thus happily, a brief series of 'Illustrations,' which, if not absolutely perfect, do yet supply an important desideratum in most 'family libraries.' Whatever may be the opinion of others, our own convictions have strengthened with each successive volume, that the amount of Biblical knowledge in the American community, will be greatly augmented by this compilation—and very cordially do we recommend it to the attention of all lovers of the Bible, as a valuable auxiliary in their study of the word of God, and in their endeavors to diffuse divine knowledge throughout the circles in which they move."

AGENCY FOR BECKWITH'S PILLS.

These Pills have been now more than seven years before the public, and their just pretensions to the character claimed for them closely examined and tested, by a great number of persons, too intelligent to be deceived, and too deeply interested in the results not to observe with care, and judge without favor.

Experience has not weakened these pretensions but strengthened and confirmed them by a mass of testimony of such respectable character as has rarely sustained any article in this form in any country.

These Pills may be had in any quantities, and upon liberal terms, on application to H. D. TURNER, Principal Agent, 10 John-street, New York, near Broadway. m18 4wecod

ASSOCIATION:

Or, Principles of a True Organization of Society.

☞ This Column has been purchased by the Advocates of Association, in order to lay their Principles before the Public. Its editorship is entirely distinct from that of The Tribune.

☞ Lecture.—A Lecture will be given This Evening at the Mechanics' Institute, 12 Chambers street, on Association, considered as the only practical means of improving the condition of the People. The Lecture will commence at 8 o'clock.

Practical Details---Government of Association.

The great majority of persons entertain very erroneous ideas of Association; they first build up a false fabric in their imaginations and then commence combating it with great vehemence, and after demolishing this creation of prejudice, they flatter themselves that they have destroyed Association itself, while in fact they have merely been contending with an erroneous conception, a sham, an effigy, which bears no resemblance to the reality.

Many persons suppose that there must be in Association strict Discipline and arbitrary Regulations, that one Individual must direct the whole, and that consequently Constraint and Tyranny must exist. Other persons imagine that a few Capitalists will become proprietors of all the Stock and govern the Association as they wish. Others again, that they who have charge of the Money Department will cheat and embezzle the Funds of the Establishment, (as is now the case in ill-managed Institutions,) and that it is impossible to establish any system of Society based upon principles of honesty and integrity.

Let us show the falseness of as many of these erroneous suppositions as the length of the present article will permit. In the first place there will be no Tyranny in Association, and so far from one individual governing the whole, single individuals will not even govern minor Departments or Details: all government will be carried on by Councils, elected by the inhabitants of the Association.

Association will be a perfect system of Democracy,—the most perfect that can be conceived. It will extend Liberty and Equality, now restricted to the narrow field of Politics, to every department of Society and human life, and render them Social and Universal; it will extend them to Labor, in which at present all is Tyranny, Injustice and Dominion of Man over his fellow Man; it will extend them to Education by giving every Child equal chances of Instruction, equal advantages at the outset of its career; and will extend them to Woman by elevating her to her true position and by giving her equal Rights.

The management of the affairs of an Association will, as we said, be under the control of Councils. The first in rank will be the Council of Industry. It will be composed of persons who possess the most Knowledge, Skill and Experience in the various branches of Industry, and in the Arts and Sciences. Women will hold seats in it, for as in Association their Talents will be fully developed, and as various branches of Industry will be under their care, they must take part in the direction and management of them. This Council will have under its supervision the Industrial Interests of the Association. Those Members who have the most knowledge of Agriculture and Horticulture will examine carefully the Domain of the Association; advise the different uses to which it should be applied; where grain should be grown, fruit-orchards and vineyards planted; where the vegetable and flower-gardens, the meadows and the woodland should be located and how managed; what alternations of crops should take place; the best system and seasons for ploughing and planting; and various other details relating to the Agricultural Department of the Association.—Other Members, skilled in Manufactures and Mechanics, and others, versed in the Arts and Sciences, would aid with their advice and the results of their experience and study, the prosecution of those various departments of human Activity.

The Council would ascertain the value and importance of all new inventions and discoveries in Mechanics and the Arts, in Machinery and Implements, new discoveries in Agriculture and Improvements of every kind, and introduce them accordingly into the Association. It would also take measures to procure the best races of animals, the finest varieties of fruits, grains and vegetables, flowers, shrubbery and ornamental trees.

Besides the honor of belonging to the Council and the privileges attached to the station, the Members of it would be personally interested in giving advice and communicating information.—Being Stockholders, the more the Association produced, the greater the dividend which they would receive upon their Stock: it would be consequently their interest to aid in directing the whole with the greatest Wisdom, Economy and Efficiency.

The different Groups engaged in the various branches of Industry would receive with pleasure and deference the advice of the Council, but if a Group differed in opinion on some points, it would not be obliged to follow the directions of the Council: each Group will decide freely as to its own Industrial interests. As the interests of the Groups and the Council are identical, and as Science and true Principles will govern the whole, a knowledge of them being universal, it is to be presumed that they would rarely differ in opinion, and never to the sacrifice of important interests. We will illustrate this by an example, as the greatest clearness is necessary on such a subject. Suppose a Group of twenty persons are engaged in growing Wheat: the Council may declare from observations made, that such or such a time would be the best for sowing or reaping the grain, but if the Group devoted to these occupations considered that it were better to defer the operation for a few days, it would have the power to do so. As the responsibility of success rests upon the Group, it must be able to follow its own judgement.

The Domain of an Association, cultivated by Groups taking a strong corporative pride in their different branches of Industry, and supervised by a Council of the most experienced and talented Members of the Association, would be overseen and managed with more skill than could be the domain of the most opulent and intelligent Agriculturist at present.

Other Councils would govern and direct other Departments of the Association—as we will explain to-morrow—and no where would individual dictation exist.

TO PARENTS and Guardians.—In order to suit the convenience of students, who are otherwise occupied through the day, the undersigned will in future devote the hours from 4 to 6 P. M. to the instruction of a few young gentlemen, with reference to the duties of the desk. The object is to render them familiar with the nature of accounts, and enable them to a favorable reception into the counting-room.
f18 tf THOMAS JONES, 133 Broadway.

JONES'S BOOK-KEEPING—Published at 135 Broadway—Price $1 50.—In addition to a variety of forms representing the practice of Day-Book, Journal, Ledger, &c., this work will be found to contain a series of elementary exercises, designed to teach the general principles of debit and credit, by which all these various modifications are governed, so as to enable the student to journalize from his own knowledge, instead of resorting to some vague and ambiguous rule. These exercises consist of the plainest statement of facts—so plain that no part can possibly be misunderstood by the merest tyro; and yet, except among practical men, the author has never met with an individual who could give the answers required, even among hundreds who have made a trial, after deeming themselves complete in the study. Let those who would avoid the shame attendant on failing to accomplish what they undertake first test their knowledge by one of these exercises. If they solve them, no matter by whose system they acquired their knowledge; but should they fail, they will see conclusively the impossibility of their fulfilling the duties of an accountant while unable to dispose of such simple questions. There is a wide difference between learning principles and details. You may have balanced up five thousand entries, but until you have acquired the principles, your theory and the practice of business will ever disagree.

Instruction is given, as usual, in all duties of the desk, privately, if required.

LODGINGS! Lodgings!—No. 60 West Broadway, not far from Chambers street—This House has been recently built and established as a Gentlemen's Lodging House. It has been kept by the same proprietor for two years past, who will probably keep it for many years to come, and it usually contains from 25 to 50 gentlemen as lodgers. It is not a Public House; no liquor, game, noise or amusements of any kind are allowed. Only one class of persons are accepted, to wit, steady men of studious or business habits who wish a quiet sleeping place without board, who give little trouble and wish moderate terms. Such men are requested to remember the number, and apply now or at any time they choose within twenty years hence. m15 1m*

OARS, SWEEPS & SCULLS.—I have discontinued in West-street, North River side, and do all my business at my old Oar Establishment, 402 Water-st., and as I save all the expenses of one store, I will sell Oars, Sweeps and Sculls enough cheaper to pay for coming from any part of the city to the Oar Establishment, 402 Water-street, 5 doors above Catherine Market.

PATENT Improved Gossamer Wigs and Scalps, proved by the most eminent artists to stand unrivaled for their beauty and perfect resemblance to nature, defying the closest scrutiny of the nicest observer to pronounce that the hair is not issuing from the real skin. A. C. B., in submitting this improvement (so long aimed at by the profession,) modestly solicits that his invention may be tested by the community and trade generally, being conscious that it is the greatest improvement in Wig-making extent.
