These principles we maintain are truly American. Our labors in their support will prove our sincerity, and experience has tested their correctness. We stand on the broad and liberal basis, where the patriots of the Revolution stood and where the Constitution and the Laws have placed us, with perfect liberty to discriminate, to choose, or refuse.

Resolved, That it is more than ever incumbent on the great Whig Party, in their primary meetings, to stand by the great principles they have so long contended for. The agitation of questions raised by their enemies, with the intention of creating distraction in their ranks, should be met manfully and above board. They avow themselves the followers of their great leader, HENRY CLAY, the indomitable friend of American interests, in its broadest sense, and will give into no new party in their adherence and maintenance of those principles. They are Native Americans in every sense of the term. They denounce proscription to the deserving from any clime, as long as they possess true Whig doctrine, be they of what nation they may.
