SHOULD USE SUN IN HEALTHSEEKERS' HOUSEHOLDS

Department of Agriculture Tells How Effective Solar Rays Are Against Bacilli on Clothes, Rugs and Dishes.

Facts regarding sunshine as a germicide of peculiar interest to the families of healthseekers and others in this city are given in the latest weekly news letter received at the office of the Manzano forest from the department of agriculture. The information, while designed primarily for the farm housekeeper and the dairyman, is rich in suggestion for the local housewife and the builders of houses in this city.

Sunshine is an amazingly potent germicide, says the government investigator. The practice of exposing cooking and other utensils used in connection with food to direct sunlight makes use of this fact, although comparatively few appreciate exactly the work done by the sun in this regard. Probably only those who are acquainted with tests which have actually been made realize how quickly sunshine kills disease germs exposed to it. Hence the following tests may be generally instructive and interesting.

A pasty, creamy mass of tuberculous material, which was proved to contain uncountable numbers of virulent tubercle bacilli, was obtained from a tuberculous cow and spread in thin smooth translucent layers on sheets of glass, pieces of wood and strips of muslin. Some sheets of glass, pieces of wood and strips of muslin were then placed outdoors on a moderately warm, clear, calm day where the sun could shine on them, and an equal number were placed in a dark room. After 15 minutes exposure to the sun the tuberculous material on the glass, wood and muslin still contained large numbers of living, virulent tubercle bacilli, which were proved to be fully capable of causing tuberculosis, but after thirty minutes exposure to the sun no living tubercle bacilli could be found; every test that could be made proved that they were all dead.

Similar tests with quite large opaque masses of tuberculous material, larger and denser than any tuberculous sputum is apt to expectorate, proved that the bacilli in such masses on glass are still alive after 4, but entirely dead in less than 8 hours, and still alive in the material on wood and muslin after 8, but dead in less than 16 hours.

The tuberculous material in thin layers on glass, wood and muslin, kept in a dark room, was proved to contain fully virulent, living tubercle bacilli after thirty days. The contract is remarkable, tubercle bacilli of the same kind, on the same kind of material, dying in a smaller number of minutes in the sunshine than the number of days they remained alive in a dark room.

As most varieties of disease germs are more easily destroyed by germicides than tubercle bacilli, and as tubercle bacilli, in the thin layers in which they are likely to adhere to clothing, blankets, rugs, draperies, furniture, walls, floors, etc., are killed by the rays of the sun in less than half an hour, though they remain alive in dark places a month and longer, it is reasonable to draw the following conclusions.

(1) As a general sanitary principle it is desirable that all dwellings, stables, etc., should be so constructed that an abundance of sunshine can reach their interiors.

(2) As a general protective measure against disease germs, it is an excellent practice to expose utensils for handling milk and milk cans after they have been cleaned to direct sunlight, and to hang or spread wearing apparel, blankets, bedding, rugs, horse blankets, etc., periodically where the sun can shine on all parts of them.

RECALLING VICTORY OVER THE SYRIAN ARMIES

Feast of Hanukkah Reminds Gentile and Jew of a Great General Who Led Israel's Triumphant Soldiers.

While no special services will be held to mark the celebration of Hanukkah, the festival is interesting, to Gentile as well as Jew, in the richness of its historical association.

Maccabean Victory.

The festival of Hanukkah takes place on December 2 (corresponding to the Hebrew date, the 25th day of Kislev), and lasts eight days. It was established for historic reasons and celebrates the victories of the Maccabees over the Syrians. Antiochus, king of Syria, in the second century before the common era, aspired to dominate the countries of the east. He pursued the policy of suppressing all national distinctions and of foisting upon his subjects, in the various countries which had come under his control, the religion and civilization of Syria. This, though Greek in origin, was debased in spirit and practice. The Jews, proud of their traditions and devoted to their piety and moralities, resented the intrusion and the violence of the Syrian conquerors, who were respecters neither of the conscience conscience nor of the lives of the Jews. Under the leadership of Judas Maccaneus, they made good their loyalty to their faith and homes and met the Syrians on the battlefield. Their defense was valiant and successful, despite the fact that they were few and grappled with a powerful enemy. After signal victories, they achieved their emancipation and reaffirmed the pious practices of their fathers and, true to the spirit of Judaism, they proceeded at once to the re-dedication of their temple.

Feast of Lights.

A legend says that, at the re-dedication of the temple, a cruse of oil filled every lamp so that the great edifice was resplendent with light. In allusion to this, Jews signalize the festival by lights in their homes, increasing them progressively every evening of the festival week, culminating with eight lights on the eighth. It is the sympatic expression of the truth that self-respect, moral stamina and loyalty spread and enthuse everybody. Each can be an example and influence for the manly faith.

This revolution brought about also the establishment of the dynasty of the Maccabees, whose achievements during the course of more than a century were epoch making in the history of the Jews.

A Children's Holiday.

The Hanukkah festival is one of the favorites in the Jewish calendar. Besides its high significance for men and women, it is also a children's holiday and the religious schools celebrate it with elaborate festivities and great heartiness. In the homes songs accompany the kindling of the lights and the ritual of the synagog is enhanced by the recital of selected psalms. The social amenities of the week are happy and cheerful, and, in accordance with the general spirit of the festival, comprise entertainments and benevolences in the home and community.

FAREWELL RECEPTION FOR REV. MR. FERGUSON

A few years ago Rev. Neil Ferguson came to Albuquerque completely broken in health; since that time he has been completely restored and will leave tomorrow for Montrose, Colorado, where he assumes charge of a church, as the regular pastor. During the time that he has lived in Albuquerque he has associated himself in a fraternal way, with the work of the Christian church, aiding in the Sunday school, and supplying the pulpit on numerous occasions most acceptably. Learning that Mr. Ferguson was about to go away, a number of the members of the Christian church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Mize on South Walter street last night, and Rev. Ferguson was invited to be present. The occasion was complimentary to him, and the evening was spent in games, music and refreshments, with other features on the program. On behalf of the brothers, Prof. Hill of the university spoke briefly. Mr. Dearing, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Rev. C. Cook, uniting Mr. Ferguson's Godspeed in his new work. Rev. Ferguson was presented with a number of volumes for his library. In accepting them he spoke of the delights of his association with the Christian church, and in such a fraternal way, that the occasion will long be remembered as one of the most pleasant in local church life.

JUDGE POPE MAKES JUDGE CRAIG SOLE COMMISSIONER

Magistrate Will Have Charge of All the Public Land Business in the City Hereafter.

Formal appointment of Judge George R. Craig to be the only United States commissioner in this city was made known today. The appointment came from Federal Judge W. H. Pope of Santa Fe.

During Major Whiting's lifetime Judge Craig was appointed as an additional United States commissioner at Albuquerque. With Major Whiting's death Judge Craig became the only commissioner in Albuquerque.

Judge Pope wrote to ask formally if Judge Craig desired to retain the place. If so, Judge Pope wrote, he would be very glad to consider the appointment permanent instead of provisional.

Judge Pope also asked if Judge Craig was in Albuquerque to such an extent that he could attend to all the commissioner's business. He preferred, Judge Pope wrote, to have only one commissioner here, provided Judge Craig was in, two practically all of the time.

Judge Craig has written Judge Pope, informing him of his desire to retain the place and of the fact that he is in Albuquerque virtually all the time. Judge Craig's acceptance of the place is tantamount to appointment.

All those having land office business requiring attention in this city will find Judge Craig either in his office in the Stern building or at the United States commissioner's office in the federal building.

MAN WHO ROUSED COURT'S PITY IS REARRESTED

Foster, Drug-wrecked Scion of Good Family, Keeps Promise as to Morphine, but Takes Up Vag's Role.

J. B. Foster, one-time advertising expert, scion of a well known California family, under suspended sentence for forgery, was arrested yesterday as a vagrant.

Foster was released by Judge Reynolds November 16, under a suspended sentence of two years in the penitentiary. He said he told the court how the drug habit fastened on him six years ago when he was given morphine by a physician after an accident, and how it ruined his career. He admitted that Foster was not his right name, which he concealed to save his family from humiliation. He said he had fought the drug habit and had reduced his daily allowance from ten grains to one grain. He told Judge Reynolds that if released he would not return to the use of morphine, and that was part of the understanding on which sentence was suspended.

The police say Foster has kept his promise regarding the drug. He has been hanging about town, penniless they say, and they are compelled to treat him as any other vagrant. He will probably be given a chance to get out of town. The police know his real name, and say it is as Foster says, that of an excellent family. They believe his story, that the drug habit grew on him insidiously and then wrecked him physically and morally.

WORD OF CAUTION AS TO BURNING LEAF PILES

Mayor Boatright Calls Attention to the Danger of Leaving Burning Heaps Unwatched After Nightfall.

Because of the unusual number of weed fires, some of which have been of a threatening character, Mayor Boatright was asked today to issue a warning to householders, businessmen and others who may be moved to burn piles of leaves.

Those who set out to burn leaves should see that the fires have thoroughly burned out before leaving them after dark or should put them out by water, then rake them and burn them out. Mayor Boatright said he noticed two mounds of smouldering leaves after dark last night, each one of which, fanned and fussed by a breeze of wind, might have spread and possibly led to a serious fire.

There is no objection to the burning of leaves—as a matter of fact, it is desired that all householders remove leaves up and get rid of them in the handiest way—but it is said that those who use fire to rid themselves of leaves should follow the ordinance rule as every other and take precaution to prevent the burning pile from becoming a danger.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. Two sizes 25c and 50c at all stores.
