The Markets

Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 16.—Trading on the stock market today slackened after the first hour on the market showed decided weight at higher levels. Norfolk and Western made a new record at 141½, the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies at 47½, only noteworthy gainer included sugar and paper issues, advanced in these groups ranging from 2 to nearly 5 points. Early offerings of shipyards and Chesapeake and Ohio brought the unexpected feature of the day, some issues losing 2 points. Bonds were firm.

Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Lightness of world shipments had a bearish effect today on wheat, and as low as 3c decrease in the amount of wheat and ocean passage offerings were here, which ranged from ½c to 1c higher were followed by a reaction but then another upturn.

Later the market eased off, affected adversely by a large increase of the U. S. visible supply total. The close was unsettled at ½c to ¾c net decline, with December and May both at $1.[illegible]

Blame that would delay harking bound to fill the corn market. After opening a shade to ½c off, prices showed a good deal of strength.

Consequently corn prices, needed with wheat. The close was steady at ¼@¾c net decline.

Cash corn seems to be scrutinized by corn bears, chief sellers yesterday being to Pennsylvania.

PERSONAL

FOR CARPET cleaning, furniture and stove repairing, W. A. Goff, phone 568.

No set rule works all the time. The great detective who died not long ago and left a fortune of three million dollars got it by meddling with other people's business.

A man is always willing to make an estimate of the size of the fish that got back into the water.

When a girl marries well the gossips say her mother made the match.

Rameses is about the only public character who has been dead long enough to make criticism of him perfectly safe.

Every drunkard claims that he has quit.

The fact that the men accomplish as much as they do is surprising. Nearly every man has a velvet collar to keep clean.

The women plan the parades, but the men do the marching.

A woman's photograph seldom renders a verdict in accord with the findings of the mirror on her dressing table.

In a country community things are often so dull that a red-haired baby creates comment.

A man can be certain of only one thing, and that is that he will grow homelier every day of his life.

An even trade is one in which a goat is exchanged for a parrot.

Buck Kilby wishes to call attention to the fact that they have put the alum back in baking powder.

A man likes to be chased a little by the women, but it annoys him to be run down.

Talk confidentially to any father and he will admit that his most difficult task is getting his boys up in the morning.

A farmer's notion of hard luck is a family of girls.

You, doubtless, have noticed that the man who expresses the wish to meet you in Heaven nearly always wears a face clouded with doubt.

His New Typewriter

He wrote a letter proudly on his new typewrite machine.
He started with a snowy sheet all water-marked and clean.
But ere he'd done a dozen lines his troubles entered in—
He'd written practice lines before, as neat as any pin.
"Now is the time for all good men," he'd write it just as well
As that delightful gentleman who had the "mill" to sell.

He started making m's for n's—erasing them at first;
Then found that 'twixt the bulls and rubs, the latter looked the worst.
He left the figure-shift locked down when he attempted caps,
And said a lot of language far from lady-like, perhaps.
Then in the middle of the page, the ribbon he'd forgot
Fetched loose; and ere he fixed it he had mussed the page a lot.

It looked as if a chimney-sweep had got into a fight
With some ill-tempered coal-cart man whose hands were far from white.
It took no vain imaginings to figure what he'd said
When from its moorings at one end he found that ribbon fled.
But he was game and sent it, and I have the letter yet—
If ever he mistreats me I shall show it, too, you bet!
