THE TRIBUNE.

Farther from Mexico.

The Picayune of the 9d inst. gives the following results of a farther sifting of its Mexican advices received via Pensacola by the Somers:

The arrival of American troops upon the Arroyo Colorado was announced in the Mexican papers in staring capitals. They appear to think that Gen. Mejia and the veterans under his command will dispose of this "forlorn hope" straightway. We shall not be surprised at hearing of some hostile collision.

The British steamer Medway arrived at Vera Cruz on the 15th ult. and sailed again on the following day for Tampico.

The latest intelligence which the Mexicans appear to have received from our army is disclosed in El Locomotor of Vera Cruz of the 16th ult. That paper states that Gen. Mejia, having learned the arrival of 150 Americans opposite the point Santa Isabella, immediately collected a body of horse and 200 infantry to repel the invaders.

Presuming that this small force of Americans would be immediately seconded by Gen. Taylor, Gen. Diaz de la Vega was at once apprised of the circumstances, and all the troops within his command were ordered to Matamoras. He himself marched out of Matamoras, leaving there a guard barely sufficient for its defence, and made haste to unite with Col. Carrasco, to repulse the first attack of the Americans.

At our latest dates—according to Mexican authority—2000 troops were assembled between Matamoras and Santa Isabel, which were deemed sufficient to check the advance of the Americans until Gen. Ampudia could arrive to their assistance. The Mexican troops, say their editors, were full of enthusiasm, and "eager for the fray."

They anticipated news of a conflict "by the first boat," and patriotically console themselves with the belief, that if their troops succumb, it will not be without glory for the nation, &c., for "the impetuous valor of Mejia and Carrasco" are well known—and all that sort of thing.

The reports of disorders in the Western Departments of Mexico appear better founded than we had thought—Gen. Urrea is more mixed up in them than our last accounts led us to anticipate.

We have an account of the revolt of Gen. Ampudia's troops at San Luis Potosi. In remarking upon the occurrence, our correspondent writes that he should not at all wonder if Ampudia "pronounced" against Paredes, as he "must think it about his turn to be President. There are, you know, about 250 generals; if they all want a chance, about three months is long enough for one." There is in this as much sense as wit.

In El Republicano of the 11th March we see the announcement that Canales has "pronounced" in favor of the independence of the Departments of the North. The same paper contains the official nomination of Gen. Ampudia as commander of the Army of the North.

The Semanario Político de Nuevo Leon of the 26th February announces the movement of the 4th division of the Mexican army to the frontier. The troops were aware of the advance of some part of Gen. Taylor's forces, but their information was dubious and uncertain.—

The most energetic appeals were made in this provincial paper to Gen. Paredes not to abandon the army in the great crisis at hand. This indicates a suspicion, very generally entertained, that the Central Government has no stomach for the controversy.

The blow struck by Paredes at the independence of the press was not altogether unexpected. The Diario Official of the 12th March warned the editors and public writers of the city that the Administration would be constrained to interfere with them, unless they "pursued a course more noble, more Mexican, and more patriotic." The same day the Government informally promulgated its edict, founded upon an old law of 1839, prohibiting the printing of "any discussion upon the forms of Government which the nation should adopt for its internal regimen." The grounds for this audacious procedure were alledged to be, that the press had become absolutely licentious; that it served only as a spy to the enemies of Mexico, revealing all its internal dissensions and its weakness; and that it labored, not to suggest remedies for the evils which threatened the national existence, but only to expose the enormity of those evils and excite dissatisfaction. The President had tolerated free discussion, it urges, with a view to enlighten the public mind and prepare the way for judicious action on the part of the Constituent Assembly about to convene; but the country being upon the verge of a foreign war, which threatened its national existence, it was no time for distracting public feeling and alienating affection from the Government; therefore, the press must be dumb. The President states that he adopts so stringent a measure with extreme reluctance, but—as is usual with all tyrants—he relies upon "the purity of his intentions and his deep-seated conviction that in the present crisis every foreign intrigue to divide and destroy Mexico—that everything, in fact, should give way to the great interests of Mexican independence and nationality."

The Government paper and the press generally regard as traitorous any suggestion relating to the cession of California or new Mexico, or even for adjusting the boundary of Texas. La Reforma of the 13th contains a portion of an article which the editor was writing when his labors were interrupted by the appearance of the Diario announcing the determination of the Government in regard to the press. It winces under the Presidential mandate, and is half inclined to believe the Diario not authorized so to communicate with the public.

That part of the letter of our correspondent relative to the position of the British Minister is confirmed from other sources. The English commander off Vera Cruz has thought the danger of collision between this country and Mexico so imminent that he has demanded from the British Admiral more vessels.

LATER FROM CHINA.—The ship Montauk, Capt. McMichael, arrived from Canton Thursday night, bringing our files of "The Friend of China," to the 31st of December inclusive.

A very daring act of piracy was committed on the 29th December, in the immediate vicinity of Macao.—The Celestial, a British vessel, anchored between the small Islands of Seuchaw and the Brothers, and during the evening two large class fishing boats came up under her stern, and threw such a quantity of fireballs on board, it was found impossible to keep the deck. The crew, consisting of the Captain, four Europeans, six Lascars, and one Chinaman, ran below, leaving the pirates in possession, and they carried off an iron chest containing $1400 in money, and various articles of value. After the pirates had left, four of the crew were missing, only one of whom was found, the Chinaman, and he was nearly dead. So many fire balls were thrown on board, the greatest difficulty was experienced to preserve the vessel from destruction.

The U. S. ship Columbus, Com. Biddle, anchored near the Bogue forts on the 25th Dec., last from Batavia.

The treaty between the Chinese and this Country was ratified on the 29th Dec.

A. H. Lovett, Esq., of Albany, New-York, died of liver complaint, on the 2d of December.

FROM PORT AU PLATT.—We learn from Capt. Haven, of the schooner Warrior, from Port au Platt, that the Dominicans were all under arms when he left, awaiting the approach of the Haytien army, which had gathered to the number of 4,000 on the frontiers, but it was reported that they were on the retreat. Business was good, and produce coming in.

DROUTH IN BRAZIL.—A letter received in this city from Pernambuco, dated Feb. 21, states that the northern provinces of Brazil were suffering severely from drouth, and that multitudes of cattle were dying for want of water. Vegetation was in some places almost entirely destroyed. It was thought the growing crops of cotton and sugar would suffer very severely.—[Boston Journal.

FIRE IN WESTBROOK, (STEVENS'S PLAINS.)—On Friday evening last the stable and workshop of Mr. Joseph Merrill were discovered to be on fire. These buildings were connected with his dwelling house by a long shed, used as a chaise and wood-house, all of which were burned to the ground, with two valuable work-horses, a cow, a large peddling wagon, containing domestic goods, as per bill $430 60, a four-wheeled chaise, a set of wag. on wheels and axles, three harnesses, a lot of tools and machinery for casting bells, valued at $220, and a large proportion of his furniture and clothing. His family consisted of four children and a housekeeper, who lost all their clothing except what they caught as they fled—the house being filled with a dense smoke, which would have suffocated them in a few moments. Mr. Levi S. Stevens, who lived in the house with a small family, (who were absent,) escaped with his clothes in his hand, and was obliged to dress out of doors—losing all but a few chairs. [Portland (Me.) Argus, 8th.

FIRE IN EAST BRIDGEWATER.—We learn that a fire broke out in Joppa Village, East Bridgewater, at about 11 o'clock last evening, in a building belonging to Solomon Ager, and occupied by him in the upper story as a shoe manufactory, and on the lower floor by Greenough Wood, as an English and West India goods store. This building was consumed, as also a stable belonging to Mr. Ager, to which the fire communicated, with the contents of both buildings, with the exception of a horse and chaise, which were saved. The fire then communicated to a large two story building, occupied by Seth Bryant as a shoe manufactory, but by the exertions of those present, nearly all the stock in the lower part of the building was saved, some of it, however, in a damaged state. [Boston Jour. 9th.

LAKE INTELLIGENCE.—The steamer United States returned from Detroit yesterday morning with a large lot of passengers and freight. She leaves again for Detroit this morning. The States reports the brig Burlington ashore on Bois Blanc island in the mouth of Detroit River, and the brigs Preble, Scott and R. Crooks, together with a fleet of twenty-five others, as having passed up the river for St. Clair on Sturday and Sunday last. [Buffalo Express, 8th.

AN ANCIENT AND LORDLY ELM.—The Providence Journal states, that a large elm tree on the margin of the Mosshasuc river, near Smith's Bridge, was cut down on Friday last, to make room for the Providence and Worcester Railroad track. It contained seven cords of wood, and it was ascertained by the grains on the tree that it must have been 160 years old.

MR. SLIDELL.—The impression has been produced by letters received yesterday from Vera Cruz, that the St. Mary's will bring Mr. Slidell immediately to the Balize, instead of Pensacola. His arrival will, therefore, be anxiously expected until the St. Mary's makes her appearance. [Picayune, 2d.

☞ Benjamin Eddy, charged with the murder of Alfred R. Shepard of Providence, R. I. on the morning of the 30th of November last, was arraigned for trial before the Supreme Court in that City on Thursday.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We learn by Leonard's Express that a brakeman, named Francis Winslow, was killed on the Worcester Railroad at Westboro' last evening. He was detaching the milk car while the train was in motion, and losing his hold, fell under the wheels and was crushed to death. [Boston Traveller, 9th.

THE RIGHT GRIT.—Mr. Daniel Shepard of Portland (Conn.) has been a freeman 71 years, and during that time has never lost a vote at the annual State Elections. Last Monday he went three miles to deposit his vote. He is a Whig.—was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. [Middletown Constitution.

Legislative Summary.

In the ASSEMBLY on Wednesday, P. M. the bill to amend the Excise act of 1845 was passed. (It regulates the sale for mechanical and medicinal purposes and provides that but one election under this act shall be made in each year.)

In the SENATE on Thursday, three times the usual number of the majority and minority reports in relation to Trinity Church, were ordered to be printed.

Mr. CLARK reported in favor of the bill to incorporate the German Washington Society of New-York, and it was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. JONES called up the question on agreeing with the report of the committee of conference on the Auction Bill. After considerable debate, the report was agreed to—ayes 15, noes 10. The bill reported by the committee on conference abolishes the duty of ½ per cent. on domestic goods sold at auction.

Mr. WRIGHT then moved to suspend the special order of the day for the purpose of reconsidering the vote appointing JOHN A. LOTT pro tempore President of the Senate by a plurality vote. Mr. LESTER objected to the motion as being out of order. A long debate then sprung up which consumed the entire session until 3 o'clock P. M. The Senate then adjourned without coming to any conclusion relative to the selection of President pro tem.

In the ASSEMBLY, the morning was mainly taken up in a discussion on the bill to allow the New-York and Erie Railroad Company to run their road in Pennsylvania.

The following amendment was proposed by Mr. BLODGETT:

"The said Commissioners shall determine upon and locate the said Railroad through the interior of Sullivan county, unless there shall appear to be a controlling necessity to do otherwise, and provided the said route in the interior of Sullivan County shall not present greater objections than such as exist to the route in other counties of the Southern tier, East or West of Sullivan County."

This amendment was rejected, 59 to 51. The bill was finally recommitted to a select committee of one from each Senate District to report complete. The following gentlemen constitute the Committee: Messrs. Worden, 7th District; Blodgett, 8th; Pierce, 2d; S. Lawrence, 4th; Titus, 1st; Hayner, 3d; Cooper, 5th; Chatfield, 6th.

The bill to erect the County of Canesteo was passed to a third reading.

M. ALBERTSON reported complete the New-York Police Bill.

POLICE.—Yesterday.—Michael Williams and Joseph Douglass were arrested last evening on a charge of stealing money from the till of Elizabeth Siemann, at the corner of 6th-avenue and 25th-st....The coroner was called Thursday to hold an inquest at No. 127 Fulton-st, upon Thomas McDermott, a native of Ireland, aged 21 years, who was last evening found dead in the book-safe of his employers....In the case of Potter, the pardoned convict, the Supreme Court has refused to grant a stay of proceedings, consequently Potter will be forthwith sent back to his old quarters at Sing Sing.

Law Courts....[Deferred.]

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—Before Judge Nelson.—The trial of William Burnett, pilot of the Swallow, was continued yesterday, and will be resumed this forenoon. The principal point of defence is that a squall struck the vessel, and that it might have done so without being known to the passengers; and that he was not guilty of negligence, &c.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.—Before Judge Edmonds and Aldermen Stoneall and Compton.—The District Attorney moved for sentence in relation to the Butchers' Melting Establishment on the verdict, as a nuisance, rendered against it. Mr. Clark wished more time in which to put in notice of an an application to the Supreme Court. Messrs. O'Conor and J. Blunt were opposed to farther delay, and particularly to time in which to make experiments. Mr. C. said the residents in the neighborhood still complained of it as a nuisance. Allusion was made to the remarks of yesterday in relation to the power existing to abate it by personal force. The Court remarked that if he supposed that there had been any arming on the part of the association as respects persons, the Court would pass the sentence at once. Mr. Blunt thought Mr. Clark to blame as to menace. The latter said he merely rejoined yesterday as to what had fallen from his friend, the opposite counsel, and said there could be defence if there was attack. The Court remarked that in order to abate the nuisance, persons in the neighborhood, under any circumstances, would not be authorized to tear down the building, or tear down the kettles—the most they could do would be to put out the fire or remove the fat from the pans, but then the relief in such a case would be only temporary. I must not, said the Judge, hear of any violence. The law is complete to reach the evil, and will do so. Considerable conversation "for jest too earnest, and for earnest bold," occurred, in which Mr. Clark concluded by observing he thought the unqualified remark in the charge in relation to abate by personal force had "misled his excitable friend," (Mr. B.) The case is to be brought up to day.

Nothing was said yesterday about Potter. It will also be brought up, probably, to-day.

SUPERIOR COURT.—Before Chief Justice Jones.—Merchant vs Post.—The jury in this case returned a verdict for defendant.
