NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

Law Reform—Walsh on Anti-Rent Expenditures.

Correspondence of The Tribune.

ALBANY, Wednesday Feb. 3, 1847.

I understand that the Whigs have agreed to nominate David Graham of your city, and —— Peters, of Western N. Y. as Commissioners for the completion of a code to regulate the practice of the Courts, and the rules by which justice is to be administered—and that the Locos have not agreed on a third Commissioner, but talk of Chancellor Walworth, who multiplied rules in the Court of Chancery till it became an intolerable nuisance, and as such was ordered to be abolished.

I would vote for any man of any party, for my bitterest enemy against my truest friend, if I believed that the former would assist in carrying through this good work—but who could vote for Walworth, except to nullify law reform? Mr. Nicholas Hill, Jr. is also named by the minority.

For codifying the whole body of the law, and making it plain, clear and systematic, so that the 6,000 Justices, the people, and all concerned could understand it, Alvah Worden of Ontario, and J. A. Collier, a former Controller, are named by the Whigs, and Mr. Duer's name has been mentioned in the Senate. Probably nothing will be done in haste. The Whigs, being avowed reformers, and the the party in the majority, and therefore responsible, and knowing as they do, that if the game played in England not many years since, of selecting Commissioners of a like kind, who proved conservators of legal abuses, were imitated here, it would form a powerful argument with the people in 1848, to their injury, will act with great caution, and I trust with sound judgment. They are well aware that candidates of skill, talent, experience, and laborious habits, may be obtained, and that society is pretty well tired of being fleeced of millions to uphold any class, however able or influential it may be.

The SENATE has a bill before them relative to Commissions for Codification. If the right men are obtained, I hope they will be liberally paid—but what has LAW reform to do with party or party caucuses?

Mr. WALSH, in Assembly, introduced a resolution requiring the items of expenditure of $120,000 expended by Governor Wright in settling the anti-Rent troubles and also who got the cash.

Messrs. Hadley, Bascom and Burnell, had a discussion as to general laws of incorporation, which I will notice hereafter.

The pedestrian on State st. to-day stood a chance to lose one in the Temperance Society, so slippery was the hill. It froze yesterday evening, then began to thaw, and has rained all day, with every appearance of open weather. Q.

CITY ITEMS.

WEDNESDAY, February 5.

☞ Mary Johnson of No. 11 Sullivan st. about 11 o'clock last night, made an ineffectual attempt to murder her husband, Wm. Johnson, by stabbing him in the head with a knife.

☞ Geo. Holmes, a recruit for Mexican balls or comito, was yesterday arrested as a deserter from Governor's Island, and placed under guard to fulfil his contract with Uncle Sam.

☞ Jacob Marcello and Thos. King, alias Tom Riley, alias Dan Bryan, boys, were arrested on charge of being concerned with Griffith and Long in breaking into Fisher & Bird's store a night or two since, as reported in yesterday's Tribune. It is a pity that we have among us no Mr. Mayllee to save these Oliver Twists from graduation in villany under the instruction and command of grown-up villains....Charles Miller, a German, was arrested by officers Heurtz and Peno, and committed to prison by Justice Timpson last evening, for passing a one dollar bill on the National Bank of New-York altered to a $20, on Mrs. M. B. McKenny, of 228 Hudson-st. Also a $1 bill, altered to a $20, of the Mechanics' Bank of Ogdensburgh, N. Y. on John Robb, of 230 Walker-st. It is but two days since we cautioned the public against the spurious denomination of the first mentioned Bank. The alteration is made with much neatness, and well calculated to deceive....Wm. Brown was arraigned on charge of breaking the show-case of A. Legoux, No. 70 William-st. and stealing from it fancy articles to the value of $18....Arrests for petty larcenies, assaults and batteries, intoxication, etc. have declined during the last two weeks to a little over one-third of the number preceding that period.

VAGRANTS.—There was a very large crowd of these unhappy people assembled in the Tombs yesterday. Dissipated women, who had been thoroughly saturated by the rain of Wednesday, and had slept in that comfortless condition during the night, were in a most miserable plight indeed. One of these women who had left her home Wednesday morning, for the purpose of enjoying a carouse, and who had been committed to prison for vagrancy, was yesterday released, in answer to the earnest petitions of her little girls, who were only about ten to twelve years of age, and her own children. They gave a most melancholy account of their sufferings. They were without a father, and had not tasted food for upward of twenty-four hours. They were wretchedly clad, and both suffering from a whooping cough. One of them, after spending the whole of last Tuesday in selling wooden combs, came home in the evening with the profits of her labor—one shilling—and it was with this money that the vagabond mother had made a brute of herself. The Justice gave the parent into the custody of her children, and, hand in hand, they departed for their devoted home. [Express.

A FUNNY PETITION.—A very worthy young man made his appearance before the Alms House Commissioner, on Thursday morning, with the request that he might be supplied with a child which he was anxious to adopt. He was accompanied by his wife, who was so full of fun that she could hardly contain herself. The husband did all the talking, and said that they were both exceedingly fond of children, but their anticipations with regard to becoming parents were gloomy in the extreme. The kind hearted Commissioner smiled upon the petitioners and gave them an order for the last foundling picked up in the public highway, when they departed very much elated with their success. [Express.

STORM.—Yesterday morning we had a hazy atmosphere, with a light wind a little east of south. About noon it commenced raining, and continued at intervals throughout the afternoon. In the evening the storm continued with violence, and the rain poured in torrents.—So severe was the gale, that near Westboro' a baggage crate was blown from the Long Island train a hundred yards from the track, and was stove to atoms. [Boston Courier, 3d.

This morning, the atmosphere was cold and raw and great coats were at a premium, though the sun occasionally peeped out from behind the clouds on us poor mortals, as if it would say "I see you, my boys, and feel for you and will do anything in my power to relieve you." [Transcript, 4th.

☞ Mr. Ross informs us that the gale at Providence, last evening, was very severe. The steam ferry boat of the Stonington line was prevented, for some time, from making her trip with the passengers for New York. The roof of the Boston and Providence passenger depôt was blown off as was that also, of the pudding mill of the New-England Iron Co. At Seekonk, Mansfield and Pawtucket, barns were blown down, and fences, sheds and out-houses demolished. [Boston Journal. 4th.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—A letter from the Stage Agent at Alton, written yesterday, and addressed to the agent in this city, states that a destructive fire was raging in Springfield, Illinois, when the stage left, (supposed to have been on Saturday,) which had already consumed the City Hotel and out-buildings, and the whole of Hoffman's Row. No particulars were given. [St. Louis Repub. 26th ult.

HORSE THIEVES.—We learn from reliable sources that a large gang of horse thieves has been discovered in the neighboring Counties in Iowa, and that some thirty of the gang have been apprehended. The jails are reported full, and they are now sending those arrested to Fort Madison for safe keeping. About three-fourths of those arrested are Mormons. [Nauvoo New Citizen, Jan. 20.
